TALK OF STOCKHOLM 'AGENT'

Socialist Leader Says German There Must Have Sent On News.

BARON LOEWEN UNDER FIRE

"Irretrievably Compromised" if He Cannot Clear Himself of Complicity Charge.

STOLEN CIPHER SUSPECTED

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 10, (via London.)—An enormous sensation has been created here by revelations from America concerning the action of the Swedish Legation in Buenos Aires in transmitting German messages relating to the U-boat campaign and in particular suggesting the atrocity of sinking Argentine ships without leaving any trace behind.

The effect on Swedish opinion and on the elections now in progress will be profound, and will probably be decisive. This morning's papers, however, received the news so late in the night that comments are few as yet. Branting, the powerful Socialist leader, (and member of the Coalition Cabinet,) expresses the view of the general mass of opinion in this country in the Social Demokraten.

"We do not need," he writes, "to draw attention to the extreme gravity of the charges which are officially made against functionaries of the Swedish Foreign Office. Our Minister is Baron Löwen. If he cannot clear himself of the charge of having assisted the German representative in his amiable business of marking out ships which it was suitable should disappear, then he is irretrievably compromised, and he has cast a stain upon the reputation of our country in its official dealings as an impartial neutral."

Branting adds significantly that the matter has a much worse side in that the traffic in Buenos Aires shows that even in Stockholm there must have been a receiver who acted as the agent of a belligerent power in handing on this information.

Even the conservative Dagblad has nothing to say in extenuation.

"It is only possible," it says, "to characterize Count Luxburg's behavior in one way." Nevertheless, the Dagblad declares that the purpose of the publication is simply to induce Argentina to follow the example of most of the South American republics and range herself on the side of the Entente, and it indulges in grumbling at the unconventional method of public revelation chosen by Washington.

"'It is a striking fact," the paper says, "that interrupted telegrams are said to have been addressed to the Swedish Foreign Office. Some American agent seems then to have stolen the cipher, and the telegrams seem to have been given to the American press at the same time that they have been given to the Swedish Legation in Washington—that is to say, before Stockholm was communicated with. If this is correct the American Government has adopted toward Sweden a method that is not in accordance with traditional diplomatic courtesy."

The Dagblad adds that a phrase in the Washington telegram, containing the revelations, which states that Secretary Lansing's aim in publication was to expose connections which exist between Germany and Sweden, appears to be a "grave and intentional insult against our Government."

LONDON COUNTS MUCH ON SWEDISH PEOPLE

Thinks Anger May Force Cabinet Out, Even in the Midst of Elections.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 11.—It is learned from authoritative sources that the effect of the Lansing disclosures in Swedish governmental circles has been that of a bombshell.

Furthermore, the Government of Sweden, by which is meant the court circles, military chiefs, and the pro-German elements in the Conservative Government as distinct from the Swedish people, are annoyed with the Washington State Department, which they think has sought to exercise influence upon the domestic affairs of Sweden by publishing the documents in the midst of a Swedish general election.

Entente Has No Quarrel With the Swedish People Whom It Expects to Rebuke Guilty Officials

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The following statement from an authoritative source was made to The Associated Press today with reference to the revelations concerning Sweden:

"There is no need for any action on the part of the Allies regarding the Swedish exposures, nor is any action, joint or otherwise, contemplated. The facts as narrated speak for themselves.

"This is not a case of any quarrel on the part of the Allies with the Swedish people, but of individual action by individual officials, which, it is confidently believed, will be strongly resented by the Swedish people. There can be no doubt that Sweden will take the earliest opportunity to explain her position, and this, it is hoped, will clear the air, and even lead to a better understanding.

"It is well known that there is a small militarist group in Sweden, which might possibly approve of such behavior as has now come to light, but it is confidently expected that the bulk of the Swedish people will share the view of the world at large regarding the barbarous intrigues of Germany. Telegrams from Buenos Aires show that the disclosures have caused great excitement, and, in the view of the leading politicians, serious action by the Argentine Government will become necessary."

THINKS ARGENTINA WILL TAKE ACTION

MAY TIGHTEN THE EMBARGO

Cutting Off of South American Supplies to the Neutral Nations a Factor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Amazement was caused here today in official circles over the statement in an Associated Press dispatch from Buenos Aires that the Argentine Government preferred to consider as a personal affair between the German and Swedish diplomatic representatives in that country the violation of neutrality and diplomatic privilege committed by the Swedish Minister and the German Chargé d'Affaires in sending military information to Berlin under cover of secret telegraph code. How Argentine officials can view this offense against the dignity of their Government in that light way is impossible of understanding in Washington.

From what was learned in official quarters today the present attitude of the United States Government is that the insult to Argentina committed by collusion between the Swedish and German diplomatic representatives at Buenos Aires is an affair that chiefly concerns Argentina. It is for that Government to assert its dignity by showing the world that it will not tolerate such violations of international law and hospitality, and will take measures for destroying the nests of German espionage whose bold activities in Argentina have caused a raising of eyebrows in the chancelleries of important nations.

The action that may be taken ultimately by the United States will be determined after consultation among the Governments whose cause has been injured by the German-Swedish intrigue. For the present this Government awaits with courteous patience the development of Argentine indignation and unmistakable action which it confidently expects.

Explanation Causes Smiles.

The attention of officials was called today to the explanation offered in New York last night by Baron Akerhielm, the Counselor of the Swedish Legation in Washington, that as the unneutral messages sent in behalf of the German Chargé by the Swedish Minister were in German code, the Swedish Minister did not know their contents. The naïveté of this explanation caused smiles in official quarters.

"It is a matter of indifference to us whether the Swedish representative in Buenos Aires knew what was in the dispatches," one high official said. "Ignorance on his part of their contents only appears to make the offense worse."

By this was meant that in transmitting messages to Germany under cover of the Swedish diplomatic privilege to send dispatches in code, the Swedish Legation gave the German Chargé the opportunity to send any military or other unneutral information he pleased. The excuse will not satisfy the Government of the United States and it is believed here that Argentina will not tolerate any such effort to escape responsibility.

One of the most important officials of the Government was asked today if there was any reason to believe that the information conveyed to Germany of the sailing of the American destroyer flotilla for Europe had passed through the Swedish Legation in Buenos Aires. He did not answer this question directly, but indicate that it was a possibility.

Only Messages Were Given Out.

The State Department was willing to make known today that all it had done with respect to the Swedish scandal was to furnish copies of the unneutral dispatches to the Argentine and Swedish representatives in Washington, and cable the text of these dispatches to the American embassies in London and Paris for the information of the British and

EXPECT LUXBURG WILL BE OUSTED

Argentine Officials Think the Recall of German Charge Will Be Demanded.

LEARNED SENATE SECRETS

Perplexity Over Non-Arrival of Dispatches from Dr. Naon, Washington Envoy.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 10.—Argentine officials, according to newspaper accounts today, are still unable to believe that the dispatches sent to Berlin through the Swedish Legation here were accurately translated.

Newspapers and officials generally believe that the Government will demand the recall of Count Luxburg, German Chargé at Buenos Aires, but a rupture in diplomatic relations with Germany is not expected at present, the Argentine Government preferring, it is said, to consider the affair a personal one between the German and Swedish representatives here.

The Argentine Foreign Minister is apparently not in a position to make a statement regarding the situation. He has not yet come into possession of official details respecting the Washington revelations, and has ventured no opinion, beyond that which has been voiced by other officials, that he is surprised that after forty-eight hours neither the Swedish nor the German Legation has sent to the Argentine Government a denial of the charges.

The Foreign Minister today received a dispatch from Ambassador Naon, at Washington, dated this morning. It referred to two other dispatches, sent on Friday, bearing on the Swedish exposure, but these have not been received, and the Ambassador has been asked to repeat them.

The dispatch received today does not permit the Foreign Minister to form any idea of the contents of the other dispatches beyond the fact that they contained information of the charges made public by the Washington Government.

The Argentine officials are perplexed over the non-arrival of Ambassador Naon's dispatches, and the Government has demanded an explanation as to the reason for the delay.

Both the President, Dr. Irigoyen, and the Foreign Minister are amazed how the German Chargé, Count Luxburg, learned of what passed at the secret session of the Senate, as disclosed by his dispatches, and an investigation has been started into the Senate leak.

The Foreign Minister denies absolutely that Argentina ever entered into an agreement with Germany not to clear vessels beyond Las Palmas, as stated by Luxburg, or made any other compact or agreement with Germany or German agents.

La Epoca, the recognized mouthpiece of President Irigoyen's party, says:

"These documents show discourtesy and duplicity so great that we were unable at first to believe such practices possible by such men. We must confess, despite the unimpeachable source of information, that we did not believe possible such monstrous conduct, which is so exceptional in these times, when diplomatic customs have acquired a spirit of sincerity and frankness. Before such stupendous duplicity only perplexity is possible, and it is impossible to believe that a nation calling itself our friend (we refer principally to Sweden, Germany's methods being already doubtful) could observe such conduct without any cause for a grudge against us at the present moment, with its terrible events reawakening the worst instincts we thought forever dead.

"Although unable to foretell what action the Government will take, it is certain that it will take energetic measures to assure the dignity of the nation's highest officials, who are thus insulted in an unprecedented manner, despite their best efforts to treat Germany with dignity during the delicate situations

Philadelphia Tageblatt Editor Seized on Treason Charge and Paper Confiscated

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Armed with a blanket warrant for the arrest of six men attached to the Philadelphia Tageblatt Publishing Association on charges of treason, the United States Marshal and officers of the Post Office Department seized the offices at 107 North Sixth Street this afternoon. They confiscated all books, files, manuscripts, and other properties, which required an auto truck to carry away.

Herman Lemke, business manager of the Tageblatt, the daily newspaper issued from the office, was the only official on the ground when the raid began. He was placed under arrest and taken to the office of the United States Marshal while Federal officers searched for the other five for whom the warrant was issued. Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor of the Tageblatt, was arrested later when he appeared at his office to begin his day's work.

The officers of the publishing company which issues the Tageblatt and the Sonntagsblatt are: Peter Schaefer, President; Paul Vogel, Treasurer; Herman Lemke, business manager; Louis Werner, editor in chief; Dr. Martin Darkow, managing editor; Waldemar Alfredo, editorial writer.

For several weeks Special Agent Frank Gabarino of the Department of Justice, together with Chief Inspector James F. Cortelyou of the Post Office Department, has been making investigations of the Tageblatt. Today, when it was felt that the opportune time for the raid had arrived, Gabarino went before Judge J. Whitaker Thompson of the United States District Court and obtained a blanket warrant for the arrest of the officials.

The charge of treason against the newspapers and their officials is contained in the following clause of the warrant: "The felony of willfully making and conveying false reports and statements with intent to promote the success of the enemies of the United States while the United States was at war with the Imperial German Government, and using the mails for the same purpose while the United States was at war with the Imperial German Government."

Lemke was poring over his books in the front offices, wondering what the commotion was about, when a Deputy Marshal entered and read the warrant to him.

Cortelyou mustered the Post Office men and they piled the books and files into mail bags, while Gabarino's men assembled the manuscripts and the telegrams and cablegrams and tucked them into boxes. The news of the raid swept the district and there were hundreds in the street a short time after operations started.

When Lemke arrived at the Federal Building he insisted that he was guiltless of any treasonable conduct or anything that smacked of disloyalty to the Government.

"I don't have anything to do with what goes in the paper. Sometimes I don't even read it," he said.

Since the beginning of America's entrance into the war the Tageblatt has published daily editorial attacks on President Wilson and the Government's war policies, Government officers said. The draft was ridiculed and men were urged to resist its enforcement, it is alleged.

The raid today follows an announcement from Washington that the Government intended to take drastic action against all foreign language newspapers circulating anti-war propaganda.

Darkow and Lemke had a hearing before a United States Commissioner late tonight, and were held in $10,000 bail each for a further hearing Thursday. Lemke says he has been an American citizen for thirty years. Darkow took out first naturalization papers in 1894, but never obtained his final papers.

SENATE, 69 TO 4, PASSES TAX BILL

YIELD TO BE $2,406,670,000

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—By a vote of 69 to 4, the War Revenue bill, carrying an aggregate tax of $2,406,670,000, was passed by the Senate tonight. The vote came just before 8 o'clock, after four hours of voting, during which advocates of higher taxes tried desperately to advance the levy on incomes and corporation excess profits.

The four Senators standing alone on the final vote against the measure were Gronna of North Dakota, Borah of Idaho, La Follette of Wisconsin, and Norris of Nebraska, all Republicans. An unexpected development was the support of Senators Gore of Oklahoma and Hardwick of Georgia, who had put up a stubborn fight at every turn on various features of the measure, and were counted upon by the opponents of the bill to vote against it.

The Senate, shortly before passing the bill, eliminated the entire tax upon sugar, coffee, tea, and cocoa, which, under the Finance Committee schedule, would have yielded $86,000,000. It also threw out the McKellar amendment providing for a zone system of tax for second-class mail matter. This struck out a prospective tax of $12,000,000 from the measure. The McKellar amendment was defeated by a vote of 40 to 34. As the bill now stands, all of the extra newspaper and periodical taxes are eliminated, the publications being subject, however, to the corporation taxes.

The consumption tax, which proposed a levy of 2 cents a pound on coffee, 5 cents on tea, 3 cents on cocoa, and half a cent on sugar, was rejected by a vote of 52 to 28. The elimination of this tax threw almost the entire burden of taxation, as embraced in the bill, upon individual incomes, alcoholic beverages, and excess war profits.

Revenue Produced by the Bill.

Under the bill as it goes to conference, the three principal items of taxation are: Incimes, $842,200,000; excess war profits, $1,060,000,000, and distilled spirits, $218,000,000. On transportation, including parcel post, freight, passenger tickets, and telephone, telegraph and cable messages, an aggregate yield is imposed of $141,750,000.

The hardest fight of the day came on an attempt of Senator La Follette to substitute an entire bill, comprehending an aggregate levy of $3,500,000,000, with $2,189,000,000 to be imposed on excess profits, $1,200,000,000 on incomes, and the rest on alcoholic beverages and tobacco. The La Follette amendment contemplates a flat 76 per cent. tax on excess profits.

Senator La Follette, in one of the bitterest speeches he has made attacking corporation and individual wealth, urged the Senate to make the wealth of the land stand the pressure of war tax. The La Follette amendment was killed by a vote of 65 to 15. The vote follows:

Ayes—Borah, Brady, Gore, Gronna, Hardwick, Hollis, Husting, Johnson of California, Jones of Washington, Kenyon, La Follette, McNary, Norris, Reed, and Vardaman.

MAINE REJECTS SUFFRAGE, 2 TO 1

PICKETING HURT 'THE CAUSE'

State Suffragists' Repudiation of White House Militants Failed to Halt Prejudice.

Special to The New York Times.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 10.—Maine declared against woman suffrage today by a vote of nearly 2 to 1. Late tonight returns had been received from 438 out of 635 of the voting precincts of the State. These gave 17,035 for suffrage and 31,807 against it. The City of Portland stood 1,792 for suffrage and 4,591 against it. The precincts yet to be heard from include some of the remote country districts, and these may reduce the "No" majority slightly. The vote was about 50 per cent. of normal, which is large for referendum questions.

Among the influences which contributed to the defeat of suffrage in Maine, the most important was the natural conservatism of the State, which hesitates to adopt an experiment in legislation. This conservative element might have remained at home if it had not been aroused by other influences. Perhaps the strongest of these was the picketing of the White House by the militant suffragettes. This was repudiated by the State suffragists, but it seemed to have no effect on the voters, who apparently made up their minds that if women were going to pursue such tactics after they got into politics, it would be better to keep them out.

Both sides tonight profess satisfaction. Those opposed to suffrage are confident that future fights will be easier to handle successfully. Suffragists glean satisfaction from the fact that they broke new ground with their propaganda in almost every town and in many cities.

President Wilson, Colonel Roosevelt, Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, ex-Senators Johnson and Gardiner, and ex-Attorney General Pattangall indorsed suffrage, as did Governor Milliken, who made a personal effort to swing his supporters to the "yes" side. Undoubtedly the influence of these prominent persons, both within and outside the State, had some effect. A majority of the Maine delegation in Congress wrote home to urge their constituents to support suffrage. Liberal funds were at the disposal of the workers, and nearly every daily and a large majority of the weekly papers either actively or passively supported the proposed amendment.

Women were posted in all the voting precincts of the cities and in a majority of the towns today, advocating suffrage, but none of the members of the Anti-Suffrage Association picketed or mingled in the election day fray. Both sides used automobiles to transport voters, and banners, cards and posters were displayed conspicuously in residences and were tacked on poles and fences along the country highways for both sides.

Speakers invaded the States in the cause of the campaign. Literature was distributed in liberal quantities, and it cannot be gainsaid that all Maine was well informed on the issue. The W. C. T. U. and church votes were nearly solid for suffrage and the "antis" say that a subsequent campaign can rally but little additional strength from any source as all those available were drained this year.

ONCE CAPTIVE PRELATE FOR POLISH COUNCIL

Szeptycki, Whom Russians Imprisoned, to Head New Teutonic Administration.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THF HAGUE, Sept. 10.—The Berlin Tageblatt announces an agreement between Austria and Germany regarding Poland.

The agreement involves the immediate appointment of a Council of Regency under the Presidency of the former Archbishop of Lemberg, Count Szeptycki, who was long a prisoner in the hands of the Russians. The Vice President will be Prince Lubmyrski.

The Council of Regency will immediately appoint a Ministry; Count Tarnowsky was originally selected as Premier, but this suggestion, the Tageblatt says, has been dropped.

Directory of Five Ministers Is Being Formed by Kerensky, Who Asks People to be Calm.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 10.—Premier Kerensky today issued the following proclamation:

> On Sept. 8 a member of the Duma, M. Lvoff, arrived in Petrograd and called upon me, in the name of General Korniloff, to hand over all civil and military powers to the Generalissimo, who would form a new government at his pleasure. The authenticity of this summons was afterward confirmed by General Korniloff himself, who had a conversation with me over the direct telegraphic wire between Petrograd and main headquarters.
> Considering this summons, addressed through me to the Provisional Government, as an attempt by certain quarters to profit by the difficult situation of the country and establish a state of things contrary to the conquests of the revolution, the Provisional Government has recognized the necessity of charging me, for the safety of the republican régime, to take the urgent, indispensable measures necessary to cut at the roots all attempts against the supreme power and rights of the citizens won by the revolution.
> I, therefore, for the maintenance in the country of liberty and public order, am taking all measures, which I shall announce at the proper moment to the people. At the same time, I order General Korniloff to hand over his functions to General Klembovsky, Commander in Chief of the armies on the northern front, which bar the way to Petrograd, and I order General Klembovsky to assume provisionally the functions of Generalissimo while remaining at Pskov.
> Secondly, I declare a state of war in the town and district of Petrograd.
> I appeal to all citizens to remain calm, maintain the order necessary for the welfare of the fatherland and the army and navy, and tranquilly and faithfully fulfill their duty in the defense of the fatherland against the foreign enemy.

Korniloff Forces Reach Luga, 87 Miles From Petrograd.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 11.—According to reports from the Winter Palace, where the Government Council was in session this afternoon, a considerable force of supporters of General Korniloff have already passed Luga on the way to Petrograd.

Foreign Minister Terestchenko informs The Associated Press that he believes the Korniloff forces consist of only a few hundred men. The town and railroad station at Luga (eighty-seven miles from Petrograd) are in Korniloff's hands.

By order of Kerensky the railroad track between Luga and Petrograd has been torn up in places, gangs being engaged all night. On this side of Luga are forces which have stood firm for the Government so far. Korniloff's support appears to be the "savage division," formerly at Pskoff, and consisting of Gregorians and other tribesmen, personally devoted to Korniloff.

The Government has made vain efforts to induce Alexieff, former Commander in Chief, to take command against Korniloff, who has issued orders to his army to take Petrograd and in a manifesto declares the Provisional Government incapable of coping with the situation.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 10.—Following a demand made by General Korniloff that he turn over to him all civil and military powers, Premier Kerensky today deposed the Commander in Chief as a traitor, arrested his envoy, Vladimir Lvoff, a Duma Deputy, through whom the demand was made, proclaimed a state of siege in Petrograd and vicinity, and appointed as chief of all the armies of Russia General Klembovsky, commander on the Riga front, after General Lokomsky had refused to take the post.

General Korniloff responded to the order of dismissal by moving an army against the capital.

In making his demand M. Lvoff told the Premier that an organization of Duma members, Moscow industrial interests, and other Conservatives who played the rôle of the opposition at the recent Moscow conference were supporting General Korniloff. These interests, he affirmed, were not against M. Kerensky, and he invited the Premier to General Headquarters to meet the General.

The Central Executive Committee of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates has ordered all army corps and naval committees to rally around the Provisional Government and refuse to obey orders from Generals Korniloff and Lokomsky, proclaiming that they will be punished for treachery.

Action Decided On by Ministers.

Members of the Russian Cabinet, who refused to be quoted by name, told the Associated Press today that the Provisional Government regarded General Korniloff's pronunciamento as an act of rebellion, which must be ruthlessly suppressed. The Government believed it had enough loyal troops and the support of the Russian people to enable it to put down the movement. They added that the Ministers had reached an agreement regarding the following points of view:

"The Government regards General Korniloff's pronunciamento as an act of rebellion, as a dangerous adventure and a threat to the revolution and liberty which, unless the ultimatum is withdrawn, must be ruthlessly suppressed.

"The Government has no doubt that it has at its disposal sufficient loyal troops and the overwhelming support of the population to enable it to execute this program.

"The Government had decided to reorganize itself, placing all power in the hands of a small group of leading men.

"The Government regards General Korniloff's attempt further as essentially counterrevolutionary and aimed at the restoration of the despotic régime.

"Vladimir Lvoff, who was arrested, was first imprisoned in the Winter Palace, but now has been sent under a heavy guard to the Petropavlovsk Fortress."

DRAFT ARMY GOES TO CAMP CHEERING

GEN. CROWDER JUBILANT

Cheering like soldiers after a victory, waving flags, hats, and handkerchiefs, and all of them smiling and happy, the 1,942 men who compose New York City's first contingent of soldiers for the National Army of the United States left for Camp Upton yesterday morning. The four long special trains in which the men traveled left from Long Island City, and the Flatbush Avenue Station in Brooklyn, and a more enthusiastic crowd of soldiers never started for the front than those young men who arrived at Camp Upton yesterday afternoon. Brig. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, Provost Marshal General, was at the Long Island City Station when the units from the draft districts of Manhattan and the Bronx began arriving, and his face was a happy study as he stood up in his automobile and watched the men.

Accompanied by Lieut. Col. Hugh Johnson, his chief of staff, and Deputy Attorney General Roscoe S. Conkling, General Crowder went with the men to Camp Upton. A big automobile was waiting to carry him to the camp, but General Crowder went with the men on the first of the four sections, traveling in the same car with the units from four of the Harlem districts.

The units from the 189 districts of New York mobilized at 7:30 yesterday morning and the total number of absentees was five. Three joined their district organizations at the stations, one was arrested and the last ordered taken into custody. Both of these men, it is expected, will be able to satisfactorily explain why they were absent. The first quota to arrive at the East Thirty-fourth Street ferry was that of Ditsrict 128, the headquarters of which are Fifty-first tSreet and First Avenue. There were no tears and no discontent.

"Here we are, and we are glad we are here," a big strapping fellow yelled as the first of the big touring cars in which the men traveled to the ferry came to a stop. Frederic R. Coudert, Chairman of the board, was in command, and when somebody asked him if he was proud of his men he answered with a quick and snappy "You bet I am."

Next came Board 38, and as its first automobile came to a stop the head of another column of machines bringing the men from the 107th and 108th Districts came into view at First Avenue. A moment later the soldiers of District 138 were in sight, and after that it was a case of one district after another. In every instance the automobiles in which the men rode from their district headquarters to the ferry were decorated with flags, while big cardboard signs on either side of the car showed the number of the district.

Street Filled With Relatives.

By 9 o'clock Thirty-fourth Street in front of the ferry entrance for a block west was jammed with relatives, friends and sweethearts of the men. Some of the women and girls appeared a bit downcast at first, but the joy and hilarity of the men themselves was contagious, and by 9:30 o'clock, when the first of the ferryboats pulled out for Long Island City, everybody in that big crowd had caught the happy spirit of the occasion. The men who had been previously instructed to wear old clothes that "they want to lose" appeared in every conceivable kind of garb, from the khaki uniform of the former Plattsburg man to the overalls of the blacksmith.

"Gosh!" said a youngster from the 118th District. "I sure hope this old suit holds together until I get to Yaphank."

The men of Board 146 were the guests of their board officials at an early breakfast, and came to the ferry in a Class of 1917, called out March-November, 1916, 450,000.

Third contingent exempted men late in 1916, 300,000.

Class of 1918, called out November, 1916, to March, 1917, 450,000.

Additional exempted men, 1917, 150,000.

Total, 11,500,000.

The discrepancy in the figures is accounted for by the omission of the mail units. The total mobilizable male resources of Germany since the beginning of hostilities, including the yearly classes of recruits up to 1920, number about 14,000,000. Those called up number 10,600,000. The remainder are accounted for as follows:

The remaining part of the class 1919 awaiting call, 150,000; class of 1920 still uncalled, 450,000; men employed as indispensable in industries and administrations, 500,000; men abroad unable to reach Germany, 200,000; men entirely exempted owing to physical disability, 2,100,000.

LYNCH WAR PRISONERS SUSPECTED OF ARSON

Russians Take Summary Vengeance—200 Looting Russian Soldiers Burned to Death.

NIJNI-NOVGOROD, Sunday, Sept. 9.—The town of Laishev, in the Government of Kazan, has been in large part destroyed by fire. The people of the town suspected that the fire was an incendiary one, set by prisoners of war quartered in the vicinity. An attack upon the prisoners was made by soldiers, twenty of the prisoners being lynched and a number of others badly beaten.

In the village of Nicholivsk, in the Government of Samara, soldiers began looting a great quantity of wines stored in a building. Two hundred of them were trapped there and burned to death.

ace, considering measures to face the revolt. So far, except for the deposition of General Korniloff, which the General is apparently determined to defy, no measures have been decided upon, but the discussion is proceeding on a plan to constitute a directory of five men vested with full power. The names so far submitted for membership in this body are Premier Kerensky, Vice-Premier Nekrasoff, M. Skobeleff, the Minister of Labor; M. Terestchenko, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and M. Savinkoff, the Assistant Minister of War.

In a talk with the correspondent, Foreign Minister Terestchenko said:

"The plan for the directory is under discussion and it may be decided tonight. So far, the Government is unable to make any statement. At 12 o'clock we expect the arrival of General Alexieff, with whom we will confer. My personal opinion is that General Korniloff's revolt is not dangerous and is partly due to a misunderstanding, which will be cleared up."

Regarding the rumors of widespread arrests in Petrograd today in connection with the revolt, the correspondent is authorized to declare that no arrests have yet been made by order of the Government, although there may have been some by the judicial authorities under the ordinary process of law.

Appeal to Army and Fleet.

Late today Premier Kerensky issued a proclamation, addressed to the army, the fleet, and the nation, and also to the committees of the army at the front, outlining the attempted coup of General Korniloff, through Vladimir Nicolaievitch Lvoff, and the measures that had been taken as a result. Regarding General Lokomsky the Premier says:

"The Chief of Staff, General Lokomsky, also proved a traitor. He refused to carry out the Provisional Government's order to assume command of the armies in view of General Korniloff's dismissal, indicating to the Provisional Government the possibility of civil war on the front, the opening up of the front to the Germans, and the conclusion of a separate peace. The Government is in full agreement with the executive of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates for taking measures for the crushing of the counter-revolutionary plot instituted by traitors to their fatherland.'"

After announcing the dismissal of Korniloff and stating that he would be punished for treachery, the proclamation adds:

"Against Korniloff's attempts to direct idividual military detachments to Petrograd most decisive measures have been taken."

The proclamation refers to the statement of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, suggesting that the army and navy ignore commands issued by General Korniloff and Lokomsky, and adds:

"All of the army organizations should give the Government and the executive of the workmen and soldiers decisive cooperation and support in their struggle against counter-revolution. The conspiracy has no deep roots among the commanding force of the army. It is necessary to preserve full calm and firmness and to use every exertion in the struggle with the external enemy. All events and measures taken by army organizations should be indicated to the workmens' and soldiers' organization."

The text of the communication of the workmen's and soldiers' and peasants' organizations "To the army at the front, to the Naval Committee, and the army generally," in which all are urged to rally around them, not only the mass of soldiers, but those in command of the army, in support of the Provisional Government, says:

"General Korniloff, having put himself at the head of a military counter-revolutionary conspiracy, has moved troops toward Petrograd. His purpose is the deposition of the Provisional Government and the seizure of its powers. The troops directed to Petrograd have been deceived into believing that they are sent to crush a conspiracy of the Maximalists, which is non-existent in realty."

The communication then tells of Korniloff's dismissal and declares him a traitor, and adds:

"The problem of the Army Committee is to maintain the Provisional Government, to frustrate the criminal designs of General Korniloff, and to apply all measures to prevent his conspiracy from reflecting itself disastrously on the stability of the front."

The message concludes with a request that none of the orders of Korniloff shall be carried out, or "those of the traitors who have adhered themselves to him." It admonishes those to whom it is addressed to carry out quickly and punctually all the demands of the central committees and the Provisional Government, to explain to all the soldiers, especially among the wavering detachments, "the true meaning of Korniloff's plot," to take all measures of precaution necessary, and to secure "a bond with us by instituting control over all transmitting apparatus," and finally, "to explain in what measure you can demonstrate your support of the Provisional Government by armed force."

Details of the Rebellion.

Concerning the details and development of the rebellion, the Ministers refuse to make public the details, but The Associated Press, from fragmentary sources, has been able to collect the main facts. At 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, after Premier Kerensky had inspected a deputation of Russian soldiers from the Balkans, Deputy Lvoff called him by telephone and demanded an interview, declaring that his mission was of great importance.

Mr. Kerensky at first refused to receive M. Lvoff, but later in the afternoon did receive him, whereupon Lvoff declared that he had come as General Korniloff's plenipotentiary in order to demand the surrender of all power into Korniloff's hands. M. Lvoff said that this demand did not emanate from Korniloff only, but was supported by a "group of political workers," meaning an organization of Duma members, Moscow industrial interests, and other conservatives, which had played the rôle of opposition at the national conference at Moscow.

This group, said M. Lvoff, did not object to Kerensky personally, but demanded that he transfer the portfolio of war to M. Savinkoff, Assistant Minister of War, who all along had supported Korniloff's demands. M. Lvoff added:

"If you agree, we invite you to come to headquarters and meet General Korniloff, giving you a solemn guarantee that you will not be arrested."

Premier Kerensky replied that he was amazed, and described Korniloff's ultimatum as an act of effrontery and treason so incredible that he was unable to believe his ears. Therefore he resolved first to communicate with General Korniloff direct. In an exchange of telegrams Korniloff confirmed fully to the Premier his demands.

M. Kerensky then announced to M. Lvoff that the Provisional Government would not consent to such demands and would take every possible step to crush Korniloff's criminal conspiracy. Lvoff was then placed under arrest and subjected to a severe examination, during which he gave the details of the conspiracy and the names of the prominent men involved.

The conferences of the Ministers are being continued in the hope of finding a solution of the situation which will prevent internal war. Simultaneously the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Deputies is in session.

It is said that the Bolshevikis intend declaring for the Government and appealing to all the parties of the Left to rally against the counterrevolution. The Attaman of the Cossacks, Karanloff, a member of the Duma, who came immediately to Petrograd upon news of the conspiracy, declared that the Cossacks had resolved to do everything to prevent a fratricidal turn in the war, which would ruin the revolution. Karanloff, with a deputation of Cossacks, will leave for the front and attempt negotiations with General Korniloff

CAUSES THAT DROVE KORNILOFF TO REVOLT

Army Utterly Demoralized by Confusion of Functions Incident to Revolutionary Policy.

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Friday, Sept. 7, (Via London, Sept. 10.)—The Russian right is on the west at the mouth of the River Aa. The centre is at Segevold in the so-called Livonian Switzerland, 32 miles northeast of Riga, and the left is at Friedrichstadt. Thus it is now possible to speak of a Russian left, centre, and right. The Russians have a line, not a very convenient line, it is true, but still a line, on which it is possible to base defensive strategy, if, as seems possible, the troops are now capable of displaying a certain amount of resistance.

In five days the Germans have secured forty miles of length of the Dvina, from its mouth to Friedrichstadt, and have penetrated many miles inland. It is difficult to forecast the further possibilities of the German advance. They may continue to press on the Russian centre, though to push the apex of their advance too far might expose them to risk in event of recovery of the Russian fighting power, or they may attempt an eastward movement north of Friedrichstadt to turn the flank of the Dvinsk army. The chief obstacle to such a manoeuvre lies in the character of the country, which north and northwest of Dvinsk is exceedingly marshy.

Of more immediate importance than speculations on possible German plans are the measures taken by the Russian Government to restore the efficiency of the army. Its most urgent task is to re-establish unity and to effect at least a practical compromise between the conflicting elements in the army.

Line of Cleavage in Army.

There are two main schools, one standing for restoration of discipline in the form of complete subordination of the lower grades to the higher in all respects and the abolition of army committees and political commissaries, and the other insisting on the retention of the committees and commissaries and the limitation of the functions of officers and the higher command to the purely technical sphere of military operations.

Between these two schools there are many graduations, but the controversy is acute, and embraces the whole attitude of the respective parties to the revolution and its possible political consequences. The conflict was very marked at the Moscow convention. It constituted, in fact, the central theme of debate. The conflict has been still more marked during the last few days and has taken a very undesirable form of polemics between the commissaries, together with the committee of the northern front and the Headquarters Staff on the causes of the retreat from Riga. The commissaries accuse the staff of exaggerating the cowardice of the Russian troops, and their supporters among Socialists in Petrograd roundly accuse the staff of intentionally exaggerating and distorting facts for counterrevolutionary purposes.

Gorky's Novaya Zhizn goes so far as to insinuate that the high command intentionally abandoned Riga in order to frighten public opinion into acceptance of repressive measures. The internationalism of the Novaya Zhizn is barefaced and undimmed even now by any shadow of patriotism. But at the other extreme is the Novoe Vremya violently attacking the commissaries and committees and accusing them of glossing over for party purposes the failure of the rank and file to do its duty. The truth lies somewhere between these extremes, and it is there that a practical solution must lie if some measure of unity and efficiency is to be restored at the front.

Up to the present time there has been great confusion as to the respective functions of the military authorities, commissaries, and committees. The place and power of the new institutions have been defined by circumstance rather than by strict and clear army regulations. In some instances, through a happy combination of character, capacity, and local esprit de corps, the three authorities work in complete harmony, but more frequently one side or the other oversteps, to the great injury of discipline and efficiency, the bounds within which harmony can be maintained.

The commissaries are delegated frequently after consultation with the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates as political agents of the Government in the army. Some of the commissaries, as, for instance, Tilonetto at Army Headquarters and Savinkoff and Gobechia, formerly on the southwestern front, have been of enormous assistance to the commanders in restoring the spirit of the troops, and no one can read the story of how the commissary Grodsky, by a marvelous combination of force and persuasion, compelled the Dubno Regiment to yield up the murderers of the regimental commander without admiration for his courage and resource.

On the other hand, there are commissaries who interpret their duties in too narrow and partisan a spirit, indulge in harmful demagogy, and by their actions undermine the authority of the army commanders.

Among the Generals and officers, again, there are some who, failing to realize the complexity of the present conditions, snatch at every oportunity of restoring their authority in its old pre-revolutionary forms, and so come into sharp conflict with the commissaries and committees. Again, to the injury of efficiency, others go very far in subservience to the new organs in the hope of thereby securing their own positions and making their political if not their military career.

The army and regimental committees have, in the majority of cases, done great service in maintaining cohesion among troops and preventing insubordination and excess, but with the army committee again possibilities of friction are constantly present, and here, too, politics and personal ambition play a disturbing part. The position of these military committees, which may be described as army trade unions, is moreover precarious, owing to the fact that they are liable at any moment to rejection if a new wave of political feeling passes over the soldiers, if a new agitator appears, or if the soldiers begin to suspect that the committee is too intimate with the commanders and officers.

Network of Rival Claims.

All this confusion of function creates tangled network of rival and often conflicting claims and pretensions that renders very difficult the re-establishment of the unity of purpose necessary for military efficiency. It is easy to suggest that as such harm is due to the introduction of politics into the army all organs of a political or semi-political character should be eliminated, and entire responsibility for the maintenance of efficiency and discipline should again be laid on the officers, as in all the other armies of the world, but in the present circumstances this would be no solution. In the present state of the troops the commissaries and committees are still necessary as a means of maintaining cohesion between the various elements in the army and restoring unity of purpose and aim. Only this work must be primarily military, not political.

General Korniloff has proposed a middle course which secured the approval of the Government. He proposes that the commissaries and committees should remain, but that their functions should be clearly defined and that they should not interfere in military operations or in matters of appointments and dismissals. M. Savinkoff, Assistant War Minister, has just laid the scheme before a conference of commissaries and representatives of army committees at Army Headquarters.

In regard to the commissaries, Savinkoff noted that greater care must be taken in their appointment, and that in any case the commissaries were a provisional institution, necessary for the present, but no longer requisite when the fighting efficiency of the army was restored. The Assistant War Minister urged that the duties of the committees must be defined. They must be made legally liable for their actions and must be protected both against the temptation of pandering to the baser instincts of the masses and against infringement of their rights on the part of the military authorities.

The whole object of Korniloff's measures is to secure the utmost stability and to minimize friction during the transitional period of reorganization of the army on a fighting basis. At the same time the Government is drafting measures to enforce authority in the interior. The training depots have for months past been training depots only in name. The soldiers do practically no drill, live a comfortable and idle life, are exposed to various forms of extremist agitation, and when sent to the front are useless in the field owing to lack of training, and only spoil good regiments and increase the demoralization in the army.

They are not a protection to the civil population, but a burden and often a danger. As armed bands, they frequently take a leading part in disturbances, and if the men were not decent and peaceable fellows in the bulk, and if there were not a certain control in the form of committees and councils, the army reserves might have become before now centres of brigandage and rapine, and the excesses of Kazan, Tharytho, and Astrakhan might have been repeated ad infinitum.

CLASH OF LEADERS WAS LONG FORESEEN

Their Opposite Attitudes at the Moscow Conference Pointed to a Rupture.

ARMY REFORM THE ISSUE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 11.—Russia is faced today with the gravest crisis that has arisen since the opening days of the revolution.

There is yet no indication of General Korniloff's intentions, but it is known that the Cossacks, the backbone of the Russian Army, are his strong adherents. The present situation is the outcome of delay in carrying out Korniloff's demands for power to re-establish discipline in the army and has been complicated by suspicions at Petrograd that the state of affairs has been exaggerated by army chiefs for ulterior and counter-revolutionary motives.

There is valuable information in an article contributed to the current issue of New Europe by a writer who signs himself "Rurik." The Moscow conference, he says, brought into striking relief the two leaders of the revolution, Kerensky and Korniloff. "It was not without anxiety," says Rurik, "that we watched preparations for the Moscow conference and read of the growing differences between Kerensky and Korniloff, for in the excited atmosphere of the conference no one knew what Korniloff's presence might lead to. There were many who would gladly have embittered the relations between the Commander in Chief and the Prime Minister, and talk of a military dictator had become commonplace.

It was in these circumstances that Kerensky delivered his opening speech. The speech was a challenge to all those, both on the right and on the left, who desired to overthrow the Government.

After this utterance everything depended on Korniloff's reply. Had he made an attack on the Government, as many of those present hoped he would do, the Moscow Conference might have been a prelude to civil war. That would have been the undoing of Russia and would have spelled disaster to the future of Europe.

Korniloff's speech was, from first to last, that of a soldier inspired by a sense of duty toward his country. While laying bare conditions at the front and his fears for the future, he stated plainly the measures he thought necessary to remedy them. There was not a word of reproach, no attempt to profit by the weaknesses or mistakes of the Provisional Government. It was this which saved the situation.

The two leaders of revolutionary Russia, says "Rurik," are supplementary to one another. If Kerensky is the genius of the revolution Korniloff is its defender. While the former must have full power to guide the revolution, the latter in "Rurik's" opinion, must have similar power to defend it. Korniloff's demands, he says, are not those of a military dictator, but of the General of the republic, and if this is the spirit in which he acts the differences between him and Kerensky need not be of long duration.

From the very beginning Kerensky has been the mouthpiece of the revolution, and it is recognized that the success of the movement depends upon his success. If he fails, Russian democracy, too, may fail. Last March the revolution succeeded because the army supported it, so now, too, the revolution can only be maintained with the help of the army, but it must not be a beaten or demoralized army. Until discipline in the army is restored the revolution will be in danger.

The opposition, says Rurik, is not to a well-desciplined army, but to the use that may be made of the army in the hands of an ambitious General. It is to be hoped, he adds, that in Korniloff the country will not be slow to recognize the real General of the republic.

The stern measures which Korniloff demands are the fruit of bitter experience, in Rurik's opinion, and he asks for them solely in the interest of his country. He has the support of such stalwart revolutionaries as Savinkov and Lebedev, acting Ministers of War and Marine, whose devotion to the revolution is beyond question. We trust, adds Rurik, that it will not be long before a full agreement is reached between him and Kerenski.

Korniloff's conduct at the Moscow conference, where the reception given him was enough to turn the head of any ambitious General, is the surest guarantee, Rurik says, that in him the republic has found its most intrepid defender. Read in the light of present developments, Rurik's article is extraordinarily interesting.

WASHINGTON REGARDS CRISIS AS GRAVE

Fears That Russia May Succumb to Monarchical Reaction or German Conquerors.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The crisis precipitated by the dismissal of General Korniloff as Commander in Chief of the Russian armies is regarded here as possibly the most serious of the many in that country's six months' existence as a democracy. The open fashion in which the deposed commander demanded from Premier Kerensky a virtual dictatorship, with the presumable backing of powerful members of the intellectual and military classes, indicate that the Korniloff forces feel sure they can succeed.

Unless the differences can be composed, it is feared Russia may sink deeper into political disorganization and fall a prey either to German conquerors or the threatened monarchical reaction.

Without official dispatches explaining in full the tangled situation, it is understood here the chief point at issue is the organization of the army along strict disciplinary lines, including the death penalty for soldiers violating orders, advocated persistently by General Korniloff. Although Premier Kerensky has declared himself for the Korniloff program, the Provisional Government has exercised a check on the death sentence through Government Reviewing Commissioners at the front.

Apparently General Korniloff despaired of improving the situation by carrying out his frequent threats to resign, and finally became satisfied that his influence was sufficiently powerful to wrest the entire Government from the Provisional Cabinet.

The Provisional Government's declaration of martial law in Petrograd and the substitution of General Klembovsky as Commander in Chief is accepted as indicating that Kerensky does not count on compromise tactics, and is ready to employ his policy of "blood and iron" if necessary against the revolt.

Officials here see in the appointment of General Klembovsky, who has commanded the armies in the north during the recent retreat before Riga, evidence that the Government hopes to strengthen its northern positions, and hold the Germans against a further advance on Petrograd. Klembovsky will remain at his present post in the north, according to the Premier's proclamation, and probably will be in better position to draw troops and supplies to the Riga sector.

General Klembovsky is one of the younger Russian Generals who heretofore has not played a spectacular part in the war. He is regarded, however, as an excellent military tactician and of strong personality. It is thought possible he may modify the present death penalty orders.

The Russian Embassy received scant reports today of the new crisis and official comment was limited to admitting that the situation seemed very serious.

RUSSIANS ATTACK ON THE RIGA FRONT

"Death Battalion" Drives Invaders Back—Berlin Reports Heavy Fighting in Rumania.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 10.—Russian troops yesterday took the offensive against the German forces in the region of Segevold, thirty-two miles northeast of Riga. In one sector, the Petrograd official statement says, the Russian "death battalion" defeated the Teutons and forced them back in a southerly direction.

A battle is proceeding between advanced German detachments and the Russian rearguards, who are holding the Burtnetsk line to the Pskov road.

Sixteen German airplanes yesterday dropped forty bombs without result in an attack on the Russian torpedoboats in the Gulf of Riga.

The communication follows:

Western front: In the direction of Riga, in the region of the Pskov road, a battle is proceeding between advanced enemy detachments and our rearguards, who are holding back enemy attacks on the Burtnetsk line. In the direction of Segevold on certain sectors our detachments have taken the offensive for the occupation of more favorable positions. A battalion of death of one of our divisions has repulsed the enemy near Mulde, throwing him back to the south and capturing four machine guns and ten prisoners.

In the region northeast of Friedrichstadt the enemy attempted to throw back our advanced posts without success. There is nothing material to report on the rest of the front.

In the region southeast of the small town of Krevo our artillery brought down an enemy airplane, which fell near the village of Lekulvstchi. The German aviators were killed. Yesterday in the region of the Lininetz railway station an enemy airplane dropped several bombs in the neighborhood of a hospital. One of the military patients was killed and ten other patients, three assistants in the hospital, and one small boy were wounded.

Rumanian front: In the region west of Ocna Russian and Rumanian troops during the course of yesterday were engaged in battles with enemy detachments for possession of a number of heights to the northwest of the village of Slonik. Fusillades and scouting operations are reported from the remainder of the front. Enemy scouting parties in the region east of Irechti have shown especial signs of increased activity.

On the Baltic Sea Saturday after midnight enemy hydro-aeroplanes dropped forty bombs on batteries at Tserel, but without effect.

In the Gulf of Riga one of our torpedo boats was twice attacked by sixteen enemy machines (airplanes) which were met by the concentrated fire of our torpedo boats. Forty bombs were dropped by the enemy, but without result. At the entrance to the Gulf of Riga several enemy mine sweepers have been working.

In the Gulf of Finland a steam tug was blown up and sunk by an enemy submarine. Ten men perished.

An enemy Zeppelin has been observed making a reconnoissance west of the Island of Cesel, (off the mouth of the Gulf of Riga.)

BERLIN, Sept. 10, (via London.)—Fighting between German reserves and Russian raiding parties in the forest and marsh districts on the Russian front from Riga Bay to Dvinsk yesterday ended successfully for the Teutons, it was officially announced at the War Office here today. The text of the statement reads:

Eastern Theatre, Army Group of Prince Leopold of Bavaria—Between Riga Bay and Dvinsk there were successful engagements in the forest and marsh district between our reserves and Russian raiding parties.

Army of Archduke Joseph—The Russo-Rumanian troops delivered repeated attacks with strong forces against positions we had captured between the Trotus and Oituz Valleys (Rumanian theatre). The enemy was repulsed everywhere by our fire and hand-to-hand fighting and suffered heavily.

SUSPECT PLOT IN ABYSSINIA.

Revelations Expected from Capture of Teutons in Somaliland.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Jibuti, Africa, says that a German named Holts and an Austrian named Karmelich, who with forty Arabs have been wandering in the interior of French Somaliland about two months, have been captured after a strong resistance in which several were killed.

The capture of Holts and Karmelich is expected to result in important revelations of German intrigues in Abyssinia.

PAINLEVE ATTEMPTS TO FORM A CABINET

Wants Government of National Unity to Replace the Ribot Ministry.

CALLS FOR NEW WAR VIGOR

Aims to Construct a Group Not Representative of Political Parties.

PARIS, Sept. 10—Paul Painlevé, the Minister of War, informed President Poincaré tonight that he had accepted the task of forming a Ministry to replace that headed by Alexandre Ribot.

M. Painlevé said that the new Ministry should not be representative of political parties, but a government of national unity, bending all the strength of the nation to an increasingly energetic conduct of the war.

The War Minister has made an excellent impression in political circles, on the general public, and in the army by the measures he has taken since he has held office. Notable among them was the appointment of General Petain to be Commander in Chief and the revival of the post of Chief of the General Staff for General Foch.

In announcing his decision to give up his effort to form a Cabinet, M. Ribot sketched briefly the program he had formulated for the guidance of himself and the colleagues he had expected to have with him. Of especial interest at this time in connection with the notorious disclosures in the Duval-Almereyda case, as a result of which Minister of the Interior Malvy recently resigned, was M. Ribot's decision to "apply as rapidly as possible legal measures to all the criminal acts which are being investigated, neglecting nothing to discover the authors of moves against the national defense, and being restrained by no considerations for any one" His program also comprised a more energetic conduct of the war and the extension of liberty, "on condition that its exercise be not confounded with criminal propaganda."

Yesterday's action of the Socialist Party in refusing to collaborate with M. Ribot in forming a new Ministry was unexpected. An explanation of the Socialist step was given by some of the Deputies of that party in the lobbies of the chamber. They said that when M. Ribot announced that a reconstruction of the Cabinet would take place, the Socialists were under the impression that fundamental changes would be made, and it was on that understanding that they agreed to continue to collaborate with the Government.

They found later that a majority of the existing Ministers would be retained. That being the case, they considered the Ministry did not offer sufficient guarantees either of a more vigorous conduct of the war or of a truly democratic policy, the Deputies explained, and consequently the party decided to withhold its support.

In effect, it appears, the principal changes contemplated by M. Ribot were the substitution of M. Bienvenu Martin for René Viviani as Minister of Justice, of Maurice Long for the much-criticised Maurice Viollette as Minister of Subsistence, and the creation of a new Ministry of National Reconstruction, to which Louis Lucien Klotz, President of the Chamber's Budget Committee, was to have been nominated. On the withdrawal of the Socialists M. Ribot proposed to make Louis Loucheur, who as Under Secretary for Munitions in charge of the manufacturing sections had rendered yeoman service in organizing the industries, Minister of Munitions in place of Albert Thomas.

When the new Ministers assembled late last night Professor Painlevé announced that he would decline to continue in office without Socialist representation in the Cabinet. This brought about the collapse of the combination.

The delegates of the Socialist Party who announced their withdrawal of support informed M. Ribot, says l'Humanité, that the party did not believe a reconstruction of the Ribot Ministry possible. They affirmed, according to this newspaper, that France could no longer be satisfied with Governments made up from fragments from different political groups, and that the country expected of the men who took the reins a display of driving force.

The delegates, continues l'Humanité, declined to enter into a discussion of any political program, contenting themselves with declaring that the support of the Socialist Party could not be given to the proposed readjustment, which did not appear to them to meet the needs of the hour. They added that they felt they were performing a painful duty, as they were in sympathy with M. Ribot on many points of his policy.

THINKS ARGENTINA WILL TAKE ACTION

French Governments. The action of the department, it was explained, was not accompanied by any comment, demands or representations. The determination of the matter has been left to the Argentine and Swedish Governments.

The State Department declined to say whether it was in possession of other unneutral dispatches sent from Buenos Aires by the Swedish Minister to accommodate the German Chargé. Nor would the department say whether it had obtained a copy of the German diplomatic code book.

Department officials had their attention called to the fact that the three dispatches sent for the German Chargé at Buenos Aires by the Swedish Minister were numbered 32, 59, and 64, and that the first had been sent on May 19 and the third on July 9. These dispatches, are numbered serially, and those published by the State Department showed that between May 19 and July 9 the Swedish Legation in Buenos Aires had sent thirty-three messages to the Stockholm Foreign Office.

An official of the department was asked if this was not an unusual number of messages for a Swedish diplomat in a South American country to send to his Government. The official declined to comment further than to say that the number appeared to be unusually large.

There was much discussion here today concerning the effect that the disclosures of German intrigue in Argentina might have on trade relations between that South American country and the northern neutral nations of Europe, which have been accused by some of the Allies of helping materially to feed and arm the Central Powers. Sweden, whose representative was involved in the intrigue, was one of the nations under direct suspicion.

Exports from the United States to the northern neutrals were cut off abruptly on July 15 when President Wilson's embargo proclamation went into effect. A break between Germany and Argentina, it was suggested here today, might well bring about a situation wherein Argentina would close her rich wheat fields, conserve her meat supply, and refuse to permit any of her commodities to enter the neutral nations except on the strictest rationing basis, as required by the United States Export Control system.

Whatever other effects the State Department's revelations may have had on the war situation, they have served to centre much attention on the embargo regulations made by the United States, and especially so because of the fact that Sweden was involved in them. It has been openly alleged in some quarters that Sweden has been one of the worst offenders in supplying Germany with her war needs, while obtaining supplies from other nations which made the leak to the Central Powers on a large scale possible. Ores, pyrites, and other materials needed for the manufacture of ammunition have been sent into Germany by Sweden in tremendous quantities, it has been stated. An expert in these matters recently said in a private conversation:

"End this traffic with Sweden, and Germany will be helpless; it would mean the conclusion of the war within ninety days."

Some who have argued for a strict rationing basis for Sweden and other northern neutrals have declared that it would be far better to have Sweden aligned with Germany and thus cut off from the supplies of the rest of the world than to permit a continuance of the situation which President Wilson is said to have found when he shut the door of American commerce.

The importance of a situation where Argentina would be openly antagonistic to Germany was emphasized by reports that Argentina expected a surplus of approximately 200,000,000 bushels of wheat and large stores of meat. Reports were heard also that representatives of Holland and Sweden had been endeavoring to obtain large quantities of the supplies in South America.

Argentina as a Factor.

While Argentina remained neutral it had been hoped by these countries to get the supplies through the British blockade because of agreements based on rights of neutrals in trading under international law. With Argentina at odds with Germany, however, this situation would present an entirely different aspect. Brazil has "revoked neutrality" and at present most of the important producing countries of South America are either at war with Germany or have quarreled with her. With Argentina against Germany the combination would be effective and complete.

Officials in Washington today refused to discuss this phase of the situation or to say whether any action taken in making the exposé was based on cutting off supplies from South American countries to the neutral countries which continue to give aid to the enemy. It can be stated, however, that the situation which has developed was received with much satisfaction.

The developments of the past few days certainly have served to bring to a definite basis the negotiations between the United States and Sweden in regard to exports from this country and a lifting of the embargo. There was a distinct feeling here today that Sweden could expect little or nothing from the United States unless certain conditions as to the shipments of war materials into Germany, which Sweden might not see fit to meet, were accepted.

The Administrative Board of the Exports Council has set Dec. 1 as the earliest date at which any foods would be permitted to go to the northern neutrals even on a rationing basis. It is now completing its investigations, and there is every chance that in regard to some of the countries involved, at least, the complete embargo will remain effective after that date.

One report is that Sweden has sufficient grain for home consumption for several months, and that demands may be made to feed men who are working in mines and factories which supply essential war commodities to Germany. Working under high pressure, these men need more food, and some of the embargo experts do not feel favorable to a program which keeps such mines and factories on overtime.

BRITISH CONSOLIDATE NEW SOMME GAINS

Berlin Admits That Germans Were Forced From Positions Near Hargicourt.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Field Marshal Haig in an official report today says that the British troops last night consolidated the positions captured during the day southeast of Hargicourt, on the Somme front in France. At several parts of the front German raiding parties were dispersed. The text of the statement reads:

During the night the positions captured by us yesterday southeast of Hargicourt were successfully consolidated in spite of some bomb fighting on our new front.

An enemy raiding party was driven away last night east of Loos. Other raiding parties three times attacked our positions east of Armentières, but were successfully beaten off in every case.

We took a number of prisoners in the course of the night in patrol encounters north of Langemarck and northeast of Monchy-le-Preux.

The official report from British Headquarters in France tonight reads:

In addition to those reported this morning, a few prisoners were taken during the night in the course of patrol encounters in the neighborhood of Lagnicourt. Last night there was local fighting in which we captured several prisoners southeast of St. Julien.

Southeast of St. Jenshoek the enemy raided one of our advanced posts, from which a few of our men are missing. The post has since been re-established. The artillery has been active on both sides during the day east of Ypres.

On Sunday a thick mist greatly hampered aerial operations. Artillery cooperation was carried out when possible, and a few bombs were dropped by day and night on hostile airdromes. Three enemy machines were brought down, and four were driven down out of control. Five of our machines are missing.

It is impossible to include in the daily communiqués the almost numberless incidents that are occurring daily and nightly along the front, often entailing hard fighting by small parties and demanding high qualities of courage and endurance on the part of the troops concerned. A short summary is given showing the general nature of the work constantly being done.

The report then goes on to cite incidents illustrating these minor operations.

BERLIN, Sept. 10., (via London.)—British troops yesterday pressed back slightly the German reserves at Hargicourt and Villeret on a narrow front, according to the official statement issued by the German General Staff. Early today, the statement adds, the Germans recaptured a position to the east of Hargicourt.

Following is the text of the report:

Front of Crown Prince Rupprecht—On the Flanders front and in the Artois the fighting activity of the artillery temporarily increased in only some of the sectors. After bursts of artillery fire enemy reconnoitring detachments frequently advanced against our lines. They were repulsed everywhere.

In the course of yesterday's fighting north of St. Quentin the British pressed back our reserves at Hargicourt and Villeret on a narrow front. Our position to the east of Hargicourt was recaptured early this morning.

GERMAN PAPERS SILENT.

No Comment in Monday's Issues on the Swedish Scandal.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Amsterdam says that the German newspapers on Monday did not mention the Swedish scandal.

DUTCH PRESS IS CRITICAL.

One Says Germany Would Declare War if She Was the Victim.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 10.—The Dutch newspapers today give prominence to the exposures regarding the action of the Swedish Legation in Buenos Aires. The Handelsblad says the Swedish Government has committed an act forbidden by international law and must await the consequences.

"The revelations harmonize with all that has hitherto been known regarding the methods of German representatives abroad," says the Nieuws van den Dag, "though it is extraordinarily cynical and impudent for a representative to advise that ships of a country with which he maintains friendly relations should be sunk without trace being left of them, which means in such a manner that all on board should perish."

The Telegraaf says the first question that arises is, Will it mean war for Sweden? and expresses the belief that had Germany been subjected to such provocation she would not hesitate to declare war against Sweden. The newspaper adds that the Entente shows no inclination to hold the Swedish people as a whole responsible, and will be satisfied with the punishment of the guilty individuals.

The Swedish people, it says, have adequate means for making their resentment felt by throwing out the present Government. The Telegraaf concludes by saying that the disclosures indicate that there could hardly be a more unsuitable place for a peace conference than Stockholm.

POPE SURPRISED AT EXPOSE.

Italians Admire Work of American Secret Service.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Sept. 10.—The Pope himself was astonished today at Secretary Lansing's revelation of Swedish plots in Argentina. He is reported to have said:

"Germany certainly is not well served even by her own friends, who cause such diplomatic disasters against her."

All Italians here admire the excellent American Secret Service, which seems to surpass the services of the other Allies in discovering plots of the enemy.

SWEDISH-AMERICANS HERE PLAN MEETING

Loyal Citizens to Condemn Stockholm Government if Charges Are Not Disproved.

Hope was expressed in Swedish-American circles here yesterday that some explanation would be forthcoming from the Swedish Government to place in a less unfavorable light the disclosures involving the Swedish Legation in Buenos Aires in a grave breach of international law.

From statements made by men in a position to voice Swedish-American sentiment, it became apparent that unless such an explanation was forthcoming, the Swedish Government would receive no sympathy from Americans of Swedish birth or ancestry who live in this city. All expressed deep regret and mortification.

Plans were discussed for the calling of a meeting this week to afford an opportunity for Swedish organizations here to voice their loyalty to the United States and their disapproval of Sweden's course if it should be shown conclusively that the Swedish Government knowingly had acted as a medium for conveying unneutral information in aid of Germany.

Charles K. Johansen, editor of a Swedish newspaper published in this city, announced last night that invitations would be sent out today for a meeting to be held in the Swedish Baptist Church in Dean Street, Brooklyn, on Friday night under the auspices of the Swedish Central Alliance, of which Mr. Johansen is the President. Sixty-five organizations are sending two delegates each to the meetings of the alliance, but in this instance invitations will be sent to the Presidents of the societies as well, to the ministers of all Swedish churches in the city, and to leading business and professional men of Swedish birth or ancestry who have become naturalized.

LONDON HAS FAITH IN SWEDISH PEOPLE

ated Washington are thought immaterial by Stockholm pro-Germans in comparison with the damage which they may suffer in consequence.

America's action in a critical juncture of a general election is regarded by the pro-German clique as not only an unfriendly act but an unwarranted interference in Swedish affairs.

The electoral situation is a critical one for the Swedish Government. In the old Riksdag the Conservatives had about eighty seats, the Liberals about fifty, and Branting's Socialist Party about eighty. A Liberal-Socialist coalition is already gaining in the elections so far held, covering about one-seventh of the country, and with the Lansing disclosures a landslide for the opposition candidates is expected.

The election will not be over until Sept. 21, and it hoped here that the result will be so overwhelming that a Branting Ministry will be inevitable, although Swedish Ministers are nominated by the King, not dependent on a Riksdag majority.

Since the double dealing by Sweden was fully realized here early in the war the question has been raised why Great Britain refrained from drastic action then. The answer given by a high authority reveals how valuable America's entry in the war has been to the Allies. Her diplomatic independence enables her to take strong measures which clear the air. England was held back from putting pressure on Sweden by many considerations. Her only speedy communication with Russia was through Sweden. Sweden borders on Finland, which always has been discontented with Russia. So long as it was hoped that Russia would conduct an important offensive against the Central Powers it was impossible for England to take action that might induce Sweden openly to join Germany and create a diversion by aiding rebellion in Finland. Russia's internal conditions have deprived many of these considerations of force.

There is no definite announcement of British policy yet but it is believed that strong steps are in contemplation and already the passage of Swedish diplomatic cyphers has been stopped.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—England, like the whole of Europe, was anxiously awaiting today what Sweden would have to say regarding Washington's revelations of the use of her diplomatic service for forwarding dispatches from the German Legation in Argentina.

Count Wrangel, the Swedish Minister at London, had not received any advices from his Government this morning, but intended nevertheless to visit the Foreign Office during the day, for what purpose was not stated, but probably to make some personal explanation. He told The Associated Press that he had no advices concerning the Argentine affair and had "nothing whatever to say about the matter."

In Swedish circles in London the view is expressed that the revelations come just in time to insure a big victory for the Liberal-Socialist bloc in the Swedish elections, which are now under way and will continue until Sept. 21. This should be followed by the fall of the present Conservative Government as soon as Parliament reassembles in January and its replacement by a Cabinet headed by Hjalmar Branting, the Socialist leader.

Although under the Swedish law the Government does not necessarily fall except on an adverse vote by both houses (and the upper house will continue Conservative owing to the peculiar method of its election) there has been a tacit agreement between the parties to abide by the result of the present election, and failure on the part of the Conservatives to comply with this agreement might, in the belief of some Swedes here, result in a revolution. The Conservatives, who are regarded as pro-German, have lost five seats in the pollings already.

It is believed in some quarters that when Sweden learns that its Government has acted as a German agent the Cabinet will be forced to resign without awaiting the result of the elections and give way to a Ministry which will offer apologies and assurances that Sweden hereafter will respect all the rules of neutrality. It had been supposed, because of the silence at Stockholm, that possibly the news of the disclosures was suppressed there, but last night's dispatches showing that the facts have been published by the Swedish press give satisfaction and cause the hope that the Swedish Government will make prompt explanations.

LOOK FOR PLOT HERE TO KILL MRS. KING

Swann Searches for Evidence of Conspiracy to Abduct or Murder Victim.

HEARS OF LOOTING ESTATE

Witness Tells District Attorney He Believes Crime's Object Was to Hide Peculations.

The District Attorney's office in this city began an investigation yesterday to discover whether evidence exists that a conspiracy was hatched here to murder Mrs. Maude A. King or to abduct her to Concord, N. C.

District Attorney Swann and Assistant District Attorney Dooling interviewed several witnesses to decide whether to place the case before the Grand Jury. They talked to one witness who said he had strong reason to believe that Mrs. King had been murdered because she had discovered that her estate had been looted and demanded her fortune.

This witness said he had been present several weeks ago when a man companion of Mrs. King told her that an attempt was being made to prosecute her and disgrace her, and that it was necessary for her to go to Concord in order to escape. The witness, who has been in a confidential position with Mrs. King and her family for years, said:

" While I have been with her in my professional capacity, this man has come in more than once and asked her to sign over money in sums of $1,000 or more to him. If she raised any question he would say:

" 'Now, don't make any difficulties. I am going to make you the richest woman in New York.'

" On one occasion, when he was talking over business matters with her in my presence, he said:

" 'See here, I am going to make you worth $10,000,000 in a year.'

" He was referring, no doubt, to his plans to break the King will with a forged document, which would make Mrs. King worth $10,000,000 or so.

Says Mrs. King Was Isolated.

" The man kept her in absolute isolation in this city for a year and obtained complete power over her mind for that period. It is my belief that she came to her senses, saw that he had robbed her of large sums and demanded an accounting. This, in my opinion, led to her being spirited to North Carolina and being murdered there. Mrs. King, although she was generous and easygoing, would not submit tamely to being cheated, and, when aroused, she was capable of acting energetically."

Assistant District Attorney Dooling said that he had discovered evidence which might prove highly important in establishing the fact that the murder had long been premeditated. One of the witnesses seen by him told of a conversation at a New York hotel, at which Mrs. King, Gaston B. Means, and others were present, about the Beattie murder case near Richmond, Va., some years ago. In this case H. C. Beattie, Jr., killed his wife with a shotgun while out riding in an automobile with her. It was shown at the trial that he was desperately in love with a girl named Beulah Binford. He was found guilty and hanged.

" One of the men who took part in this conversation and whom we have under suspicion in this case suddenly interrupted the conversation," Mr. Dooling said, " to blurt out, 'That was not the way to commit a murder. If I were going to kill a woman I would do it by an entirely different method.'

" He then proceeded to tell his plan for killing a person in such a way as to leave no proof that he was guilty. The murder, as he described it, would take place in exactly the same circumstances which surrounded the killing of Mrs. King.

" We are now seeking other persons who were present at this conversation."

Tells of Superseding Will.

Judge Swann and Mr. Dooling discovered further evidence which they regard as of high importance in establishing a possible motive. This came from a witness who said he had knowledge that Mrs. King had made a will a year and a half ago, superseding the will made in 1915, which left the bulk of her estate to her mother and sister. The witness said that Mrs. King had consulted her business manager, Gaston B. Means, in making this will, and that she was largely guided by his advice.

The new will, it was stated, radically altered the disposition of the estate which she had made in her previous will. The witness said that he had been given to understand that the will made ample provision for Means on the surface and that it disposed of other large sums in such a way that they would eventually go to Means, although the will did not indicate him as the immediate beneficiary.

One of the witnesses questioned by Assistant District Attorney Dooling was Dr. Richard F. Burke of 799 Lexington Avenue, who attended Mrs. King frequently during the last few years. His evidence was considered extremely important by Judge Swann and Mr. Dooling. He said that in his frequent calls on Mrs. King he had found her almost constantly in the society of Means, and that they talked freely of their financial and other plans with him.

" My knowledge of Mrs. King and her surroundings, and the various attempts that were being made to get her property," he said, " leave no doubt in my mind but that she was murdered. I will do anything I can to bring her murderer to justice."

Dr. Burke admitted that he had described her as of unsound mind in a certificate of lunacy which he had signed in 1914, but he said that she had recovered possession of her faculties and was able to take care of herself. He furnished the names of other witnesses who were sought by members of the staff of the District Attorney.

Seeking Clues to Speculation.

District Attorney Swann began to make inquiries to discover how much of Mrs. King's fortune had been used in speculation in the stock market and to find whether this use of her money took place entirely with her consent or not. Records of transactions which took place with her money will be subpoenaed if they can be traced. The District Attorney is seeking to learn the name of the broker who acted for Mrs. King or her business manager in their plunges in Wall Street.

District Attorney Dooling said that action might be taken in this county on various grounds. He said:

" It often occurs that an indictment for crime on a minor charge results in producing proof resulting in a major charge. Judge Swann intends to give every assistance to the Prosecutor at Concord if evidence throwing light on the case is obtainable here. From what we have discovered evidence may be gathered here showing that a larceny took place in this county; that a conspiracy was formed against the woman's life here, or that she was abducted from this county.

" The most important light which we may be able to throw on the case here is the motive, as most of the events leading up to the crime appear to have occurred here. It is essential that all of the financial transactions of Mrs. King should be brought to light, and that it should be shown what person or persons might have a reason for her death."

Judge Swann and District Attorney Dooling sought to discover whether there is anything to indicate that more than one person was directly implicated in the case. One theory, which came from a representative of the family of Mrs. King, was that a woman who had been frequently with her was at least a passive actor in the alleged conspiracy to murder her.

Protective Deeds of Trust.

Benedict M. Holden, a lawyer of 120 Broadway, who represented the family of Mrs. King in 1914 and drew up the deeds of trust intended to protect her fortune and to provide for their disposition after her death, said he thought that great light would be thrown upon the case if it could be found whether any one had succeeded in having the deeds of trust revoked or altered.

It was learned that these deeds of trust had provided that $250,000 should go to Mrs. Mary Robinson, the mother of Mrs. King, in the event of the death of Mrs. King, and that most of the remainder of the estate, which amounted to more than $1,000,000, should go to the sister, Mrs. Mazie Melvin. This disposition of the estate was made before Gaston B. Means, who was then one of the managers of the W. J. Burns National Detective Agency, became the business manager for Mrs. King.

The deeds of trust, which were placed with the Woodruff Trust Company at Joliet, Ill., were confirmed later as to their disposition after Mrs. King's death by a will now in the possession of Americus Melville, a lawyer for the family, who is to file the will in this city, according to dispatches from Chicago, as this was the legal residence of Mrs. King. It is not known who has possession at present of the second and later will said to have been made by Mrs. King and whether it is likely to be filed.

Mr. Holden said he had regarded the property of Mrs. King as completely secured against parasites who had pursued her after the deeds of trust had been filed. He added:

" I know that some of Mrs. King's friends were very resourceful, and I would not be greatly astonished to learn that something had happened to enable her to break into the capital. I have every confidence in the bankers entrusted with the care of her estate, but there might be some method of getting at the fortune which they could not control. I don't know whether any alteration has been made in this disposition of her fortune. At the time, I saw that Mrs. King was followed by persons who regarded her fortune as various people looked on Harry Thaw's, and I got out of the matter completely."

AMAZED AT TRUST FUND LOSS.

Mrs. King's Mother Collapses on Learning Further Details.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Mary Robinson, mother of Mrs. Maude A. King, collapsed today when she learned for the first time that the $125,000 trust fund established in her favor by her daughter in 1912 no longer existed.

When asked why she had signed a release by which the securities were withdrawn from the Merchants Loan and Trust Company in 1916 and what pressure had been brought to bear on her, she exclaimed:

" I never signed a release. I thought that money was solid as a rock."

" But the trust fund was dissolved by court action with your written consent," she was informed.

" Then my signature was a forgery," she said. " Gaston Means came to me more than a year ago and asked me to sign a release. I refused to do so. Then he suggested that I transfer the fund; I don't remember just what he wanted. He told me that the money would never be touched, but that it would be more convenient if I would consent to some sort of a transfer. I did not object to this, but did not sign anything.

" If my trust fund no longer exists in the Merchants' Loan and Trust Company, where has my income of a thousaid dollars a month been coming from? Each month I get a draft from the bank for that amount. That's why I was sure the money was still there.

" Last January Means said to me one day at the Chicago Beach Hotel, 'Mother, what is your income?'

" I said $600 a month."

" He answered by saying: 'That is not enough. I am going to make it a thousand.'

"I never thought to ask him how he was going to increase my income."

It is known positively that Gaston B. Means on the day of Mrs. King's burial at Graceland Cemetery sent a draft for $1,000 to Mrs. Robinson at Asheville through a Chicago bank.

After several unsuccesshful attempts Means succeeded in gaining a personal interview with Mrs. Robinson last Friday. He brought with him a photographic copy of the alleged second will of Mrs. King. It was Mrs. Robinson's bluntly expressed opinion today that the will Means has is a forgery.

" He talked about that will for two years before he ever showed even the photograph of it," she said. " If he had it all the time why didn't he produce it and file it for probate?

" I am in failing health, but I positively refuse to die until my daughter's murderer has been hung higher than Haman. I am the only one left as a witness who can bring that person to justice. It has come to the point where I am afraid of my own life."

SENATE, 69 TO 4, PASSES TAX BILL

ate to adopt the amendment, put in by himself last week and supported by Senator Hardwick of Georgia, calling for a tax of 10 per cent. on incomes above $25,000, to give soldiers fighting in France a bonus of $50 a month. The Wisconsin Senator defended Sanator Hardwick against the attack of disloyalty made against him last week, crying:

"I say it is a shame to brand a man as a traitor who wants to see that families of men who go to France to risk their lives are to be cared for adequately."

The Hardwick-La Follette bonus amendment was killed by a viva voce vote.

The first fight of the day came over an amendment of Senator Broussard of Louisiana to strike out the tax on coffee of 2 cents a pound. The vote on this, 51 to 27, indicated that the entire consumption tax section would be knocked out.

Another motion by Senator Broussard to strike out the 1 and 2 cents a gallon taxes on molasses, according to grades, was adopted 50 to 28. Then the Senate voted 52 to 28 to strike out all consumption taxes in the bill.

The Jones amendment, revised by the committee to levy a 10 per cent. tax upon corporations' undistributed surplus, was adopted on a viva voce vote. A substitute by Senator Jonesto eliminate an exemption in the committee's clause of income actually invested and employed was defeated 45 to 35.

Senator Owens's amendment providing for a tax ranging from 1 per cent. on inheritances of $100,000 to 100 per cent. on those over $95,000,000 was rejected, 51 to 30.

Senator Hardwick's substitute to provide a zone system increasing second-class postage rates on advertising portions of publications, estimated to raise $16,500,000 next year, was rejected, 48 to 20.

The great revenue bill, nearly four months in the making, will be returned to the House tomorrow, and then will go to conference, with enactment within ten days or two weeks probable. Senators Simmons, Stone, and Williams, Democrats, and Penrose and Lodge, Republicans, of the Finance Committee, were appointed the Senate's conferees.

Passage of the bill was devoid of stirring scenes. At 4 o'clock today, under the agreement which ended the closure fight a fortnight ago, debate was shut off, and a tedious series of a dozen roll-calls brought the bill to passage.

The final vote on Senator Broussard's motion to eliminate all the consumption taxes was 52 to 28, as follows:

Republicans—Borah, Brady, Calder, Curtis, Fall, Gronna, Johnson, (California,) Jones, (Washington,) Kellogg, Kenyon, La Follette, McNary, Norris, Sherman, and Smith, (Michigan.)—15. Total for, 52.

Against the Motion.—Democrats—Gerry, Kendrick, Saulsbury, Simmons, Stone, Williams, and Wolcott—7.

TURKS NOW FIGHT ON ITALIAN FRONT

FOE'S LOSSES 132,000 MEN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Turkish reinforcements have been thrown into the campaign along the Isonzo front, along with German troops, in an effort to save the Austrian forces from the disaster threatening them as a result of the success of Gen. Cadorna's offensive drive toward Trieste. This became known today when the Italian Embassy received official word that Turkish and German soldiers had been taken prisoners with the Austrians by the Itailans. The dispatch read:

" The Austrian communiques relating to the Isonzo battle and the battle between the Hermada and Selo are branded as false by the Italian official communique. Not only have the Austrians not succeeded in dislodging the Italians from any of the positions they have occupied during the present offensive, but the Italian advance is everywhere slowly but surely progressing. The Austrian troops succeeded in gaining a small advantage south of Selo, but the Italian troops immediately counterattacked and not only re-established the line but advanced slightly on a ten-mile line.

" The battle is still proceeding with unabated fury, both on the Isonzo front and against the Hermada. On the Isonzo front the Italian troops are gaining one by one all the fortified points which protect the Austrian lines of defense. On the eastern slope of San Gabriele, (the western is already in the hands of the Italians,) toward Trieste, the Italians have succeeded in occupying the tunnels of the Duino railway, which were found stored with material and ammunition. The battle on this particular sector is developing on a seven-mile front.

" As a further answer to the false statements of the Austrian command, the Italian communique says that between the 18th of August and the 1st of September the Austrian losses, completely accounted for, amount to 132,000 dead, wounded and missing. The number of prisoners is more than 32,000, among whom are numerous Germans and Turks. The Austrian statement is not only false in regard to the operations on land, but also in the air. The Italian aviators in their first raid over Pola destroyed the naval docks, a submarine, and sank a fully laden ship.

" In the very near future, when the Italian army will have reached the new objectives which were assigned to it after the capture of Monte Santo, it will be seen how great and decisive the Austrian defeat has been, in spite of the help which both Germany and Turkey have given Austria."

An unofficial dispatch from Rome today indicates that an Anglo-American commission is inspecting the Italian front. The personnel and objects of the commission could not be learned.

Cadorna Reports Progress.

ROME, Sept. 10.—General Cadorna continues to press the Austrian forces in the region of the Austro-Italian front northeast of Gorizia, according to the official statement issued today by the Italian War Department. Yesterday there was a very great artillery bombardment south of the Carso. Since the beginning of the battle the Italians have captured 145 guns. The text of the statement reads:

In the Trentino enemy reconnoitring parties were put to flight by our advanced posts.

In the Carnia an attack carried out in force after careful artillery preparation against our positions on Monte Granuda and Cueltarond completely failed.

Northeast of Gorizia our pressure is continuing. Three attempts on the part of the enemy to lighten it with infantry counterattacks were promptly repulsed.

In the southern zone of the Carso Plateau the activity of the artillery was very great.

Collection of the large booty captured since the beginning of the battle has not yet been completed. At present the following has been ascertained: Guns, 145, including about 80 of medium calibre; 95 trench mortars and bomb-throwers, 323 machine guns, and 11,197 rifles. Many of these arms already have been put into action against the enemy.

UDINE, Sunday, Sept. 9.—The fight against the heights northeast of Gorizia continues night and day during good and bad weather. The continuous contest seems to the observer to be animated by superhuman force, the Italians and the Austrians constantly engaging in hand-to-hand encounters.

A strange situation is brought about by the two forces, practically equal in numbers, strength, and determination, struggling for supremacy in a circumscribed area where it is impossible for either side to employ more men or artillery. Gaps in the ranks are instantly filled, and thus the contending forces remain so balanced that victory apparently is impossible to either side. The fierceness of the struggle is proved by the fact that in twelve hours the Italians attacked the enemy five times.

Lansing Receives Dutch Mission.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Members of the Dutch mission sent to the United States to confer regarding reports of food were introduced to Secretary Lansing today by the Netherlands Minister, Chevalier van Rappard.

GAS SMOTHERS MANY OF LENS GARRISON

MASKS ARE INEFFECTIVE

German Rubber Tears Easily, Furnishing Poor Protection—Leather Substitute Used.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Sept. 10.—The most notable development on this part of the front during the past few days is the increasing use of gas shells by the enemy in retaliation for the frequent projection of gas cylinders into the German lines. The gas projectors have been one of the big mechanical successes of the campaign. Almost every prisoner who is brought in tells of severe losses through the use of gas against the German troops in Lens.

Men captured two days ago say that last week a company of the First Guard Reserve Regiment lost twenty dead when a gas shell exploded in the cellar where they lay asleep. Before they could get their masks on the gas had overcome them. Another company of the same regiment had seventeen casualties from gas in one day, in which seven died before their removal to the hospitals.

The failure of Germany to obtain sufficient supplies of rubber is probably a contributing cause of the gas fatalities. The rubber of the German masks is poor and tears readily. Lately masks of soft, flexible leather have been served out to the enemy on his part of the front. The leather is kept well oiled and is easily put on, but not so quickly as rubber.

The military medal has been conferred on Sergeant Morrison Jordon of a Nova Scotia battalion, whose acts of gallantry are thus recorded:

" On Aug. 15 he attacked the crew of a heavy trench mortar, killing a number of the crew and capturing the trench mortar and twelve prisoners. Later, during a strong counterattack, when all his company officers had been put out of action, he organized a bombing party and so inspired the men of his platoon with his courage and determination that all the Germans who had entered the trench were killed. He himself bayoneted several, and it was largely owing to his courage and fighting ability that the situation was saved."

FRENCH CLINCH GAINS IN WOODS NEAR VERDUN

Germans Lost Heavily in Five Successive Vain Assaults on Sunday.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Successful raids were made by the French last night on the German positions in the Champagne and Argonne regions, the French War Department announced today. On both banks of the River Meuse there was a violent artillery bombardment, which continued today on the right bank. The French success in the sector of the Fosses and Caurières Wood was completed, and more prisoners were taken.

The text of the afternoon statement follows:

In Champagne and in the Argonne successful surprise attacks upon the German trenches enabled us to capture material and prisoners.

Upon both banks of the River Meuse the artillery fighting continued all night with violence.

We completed our success of Sept. 8 in the sector of the Fosses and Caurières Woods. We reduced the resistance of isolated units and took prisoners. The Germans did not renew their attacks in this region.

Additional information confirms the importance of the repulse which the Germans yesterday sustained. Their fierce counterattacks succeeded each other despite the extremely heavy losses inflicted upon the enemy by our fire. At several points our troops repulsed as many as five successive attacks and partly decimated the German units advancing to attack.

Elsewhere the night was calm.

The official communication issued tonight says:

On the right bank of the Meuse violent artillery actions have occurred in the region of Hill 344 and the Bois des Fosses. Everywhere else the day was calm.

BERLIN, Sept. 10, (via London.)—At Verdun the fighting of the day brought no change in the situation, says the report from the German General Staff, but German raiding parties inflicted heavy losses and took more than 100 prisoners in an advance into the French lines in the vicinity of Hill 344.

Front of the German Crown Prince.—In Champagne, French reconnoitring detachments endeavored to advance in some sectors against our positions. They were driven off.

On the northern Verdun front there were local infantry engagements in the course of the day. East of Samogneux our shock troops advanced into the French lines on both sides of Hill 344. They inflicted heavy losses upon the enemy and returned with more than one hundred prisoners. In addition, they liberated a train bearing riflemen who, surrounded by the French since Sept. 7, had repulsed all enemy attacks with heroic tenacity.

Bitter fighting with hand grenades and cold steel took place in the Fosses and Chaume Woods. No change in the situation was brought about by the French attacks.

WAR BREAKING DOWN, SAYS MEYER LONDON

Holds Wilson Note Is Spreading a Leaven in Europe—Teutons Want Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—In a speech in the House today, Representative Meyer London of New York, Socialist, said that the President's reply to the Pope's peace note was spreading a leaven in Europe which would cause the war to "break down."

" I believe the war will break down," he said. " There is a complete collapse in all European countries.

" The declaration of the Reichstag was significant, first, because it was an attempt by a legislative body which had hitherto exercised no voice in international relations to assert itself in such relations. The declaration of the Reichstag was against an economic alliance; and its third demand was for international arbitration and for the establishment of a permanent court for disarmament. All these fundamental things were made the basis of a declaration by the elected representatives of a people in the war.

" The significance of that declaration when followed by the reply of the President to the Pope, gives me hope that the war is about to break down. What did the President say? Do not forget the clarity of his message. It must be taken not only as a message to the Pope, but as a reply to the declaration of the Reichstag.

" He assures the world first that he is opposed to an economic alliance after the war. Also there is in his note an assurance there will be no dismemberment of any European nation. These two things are of profound significance to any one who knows what has been going on in Europe for the last few years. Dismemberment of Austria and Germany has been held over these nations by French, English, and Italian statesmen.

" The President's declaration against dismemberment is encouraging to those who want to see the struggle end. It is significant because in the literature of some of the Allies the thought is expressed more than once that this war cannot end until the Central Powers have been broken into little kingdoms, such as they were prior to the unification of the Central Powers. Therefore the removal of the dismemberment menace is an offer, a promise to the world.

" When you read what is permitted to come through, you will find there is a universal demand for peace both in Austria and Germany. The fact that the Governments of the world have not permitted the Socialists to gather at Stockholm shows they do not want the Socialists to have the credit for initiating peace; and the fact that Centrists in Germany, the religious conservative party, are now for peace, shows there is competition for the credit of bringing about peace."

URGES GERMAN WOMEN TO DENOUNCE WILSON

Lokal-Anzeiger Article Says That They Will Produce More Effect Here Than Men.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 10.—The Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger, which is acting as the chief promoter for the demonstration of indignation against President Wilson's reply to Pope Benedict's peace proposal, is now trying to mobilize the women of Germany in its campaign.

The newspaper publishes an appeal from a woman contributor to the women of Germany to take part in a protest movement, saying that the voice of women will attract far more attention in the United States than protests by males, which constitute an old story.

" Millions of German women must cast their disgust in the face of this indirect cause of the death of thousands of German men," says the writer.

Representatives of Chambers of Commerce, industrial associations, and artisans' unions in Württemberg have associated themselves with the business men's protest movement. On the other hand the Catholic organ there and Dr. Karl Heine, Socialist member of the Reichstag, condemn the anti-Wilson agitation.

WARNS OF AMERICAN ARMY.

Vienna Paper Advises Germany to Attempt Compromise.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ZURICH, Sept. 10.—The Zeit of Vienna, which has become peculiarly pacifist lately, is still angry with Germany over its hostile attitude toward President Wilson. Lately it has accused Chancellor Michaelis of prolonging the war by refusing to accept democracy. Now it complains that another psychological moment for a peace discussion has been thrown away.

The paper argues that, although America has adopted conscription and the sending of large armies to Europe is projected, there is always the element of risk in new undertakings, and America might prefer to compromise. If once the full power of America reaches France, the outlook, it says, will be less promising for the Teutonic cause.

The Germans missed one psychological moment when Great Britain adopted conscription, the Zeit says, and the prospects of its successful application were still uncertain. Let this occasion, it adds, not be missed.

WAR INSURANCE BILL DEFENDED BY CLARK

House and Galleries Applaud His Plea for Soldiers' and Sailors' Policies.

BRUSHES ASIDE OBJECTIONS

Speaker Considers Duty to Fighting Men First—Best of All the War Legislation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Declaring that the Soldiers' and Sailors' Insurance bill was the best war measure yet brought before Congress, Speaker Clark today aroused the House to the only enthusiasm shown since consideration of the bill started last week. The Speaker's words were applauded on the floor and in the galleries. He undertook to meet all objections that have been brought against the bill.

" So far as I can see," said he, " there are four main objections to this bill brought by those who oppose it. First, it increases the soldier's compensation; second, that the Government is likely to find itself in a hole; third, that in some way it interferes with the present pension system, and, fourth, that the bill was not prepared by the committee, but by some one outside. Now, take these things in reverse order. What difference does it make who prepared the bill?

" I repeat what I said last Thursday about the Bond bill. If these young men are willing to risk their lives on the battlefield, those of us who stay at home ought to be willing to take care of them in the best way that can be devised.

" I believe in insurance. I carry every kind of life insurance that human ingenuity ever devised—time insurance, endowment insurance, straight insurance, assessment insurance, accident insurance. I have $10,000 accident insurance.

" I believe that we should keep the wives and children of the men who will die over there from going to the poorhouse. Now suppose this bill does increase their pay, it is not going to hurt anybody.

" I believe that in less than ten years every one is going to be insured under the law. In some countries that is done now. It keeps the widows and orphans from suffering and keeps the crippled in the various dangerous occupations of life from coming to want, and I believe if there has ever been a bill introduced in this House that all right-thinking Americans without respect to political or religious affiliations will indorse, it is this insurance bill."

Representative Key of Ohio, Chairman of the Pensions Committee and the principal opponent of the bill, asked Speaker Clark what he thought of abolishing the Bureau of Pensions and transferring the whole compensation scheme to the Treasury, as proposed in the pending bill.

" It is not material," answered the Speaker.

Representative Gillett of Massachusetts, acting Republican leader of the House, indorsed all of the bill except the insurance feature. He said the compulsory allotment of pay to dependent families was a fine thing and that the rates of compensation for death and injury were worked out scientifically and equitably. The cheap insurance plan, he said, would cost $1,800,000,000 the second year, and would not reach all those who would benefit by it.

Debate today on the bill prevented any action or the offering of amendments.

SEES GAIN IN POPE'S OFFER.

Cardinal Gasparri Says It Will Greatly Clear the Situation.

ROME, Sunday, Sept. 9, (delayed.)—Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, has returned to Rome from a fortnight's vacation. He immediately set to work, together with Pope Benedict, on the accumulation of documents received during his absence regarding the Papal peace initiative.

To those who approached him Cardinal Gasparri said:

" Whatever happens, the proposition made by Pope Benedict in favor of peace will have the effect of greatly clearing the situation."

DRAFT ARMY LEAVES FOR CAMP, CHEERING

Fifth Avenue bus. Board 157 came in touring cars, and the six banners that the men waved on high indicated the enthusiasm that exists for America in that Harlem stronghold.

" Kaiser Kanners Union 157," the sign being in the shape of a Union label, was the foremost of the banners these cheering Harlemites waved. These men also had a yell, the which ended " Yap-Yap-Hank." The machine which brought up the rear carried a youngster who held aloft a banner which announced that " we are all walking delegates of the K. K. U."

Bronson Winthrop, George Gordon Battle, and Dr. Royal Whitman piloted the contingent from Board 159. Apparently these men, the Board officials included have been doing a little drilling on the side, for when the contingent alighted the men formed in double file, and at Mr. Winthrop's command " forward march " swung like regulars into the ferry house and then to the boat. Mr. Battle acted as First Lieutenant of the unit, while Dr. Whitman was the Surgeon General. All the selective draft men in the unit were Sergeants. One of the men in this unit was Clarence Schmiezel, the Republican leader of the Tenth Assembly District.

" Of course I am glad I am going. This is the greatest day in my life," said Mr. Schmiezel.

One of the unit leaders was George W. Perkins, Jr., who came down with the Bronx delegation. The men from the twenty-two Bronx districts came to the station together, traveling in forty automobiles, while ahead rolled a big bus on top of which was a brass band. The Bronx boards assembled their men ahead of time and paraded through the borough before leaving for the trains. Just before the first of the specials got under way it was reported that two men from an uptown district were missing. These men were later discovered in the wrong coach, and were told to stay there until they arrived at Camp Upton where they would join their proper unit.

The first man reported missing and who was still missing when the second train left was Philip Pearlstein, a school teacher who lives at 549 Riverside Drive. The case was reported to the Federal authorities and an agent of the Department of Justice went to Pearlstein's apartment. He found the man asleep in bed, and when asked to account for his failure to report for duty Pearlman said that he was ill and unable to make the journey to Camp Upton. The man was sent to the Knickerbocker Hospital to be examined, and it was said that the doctors failed to discover anything serious the matter with him.

The other man reported missing last night was David Roddenberg of 2,065 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx. Roddenberg was ordered to report for duty with the quota from Board 161. The police were asked last night to locate Roddenberg and take him to the Seventy-first Regiment Armory for examination by army officers. Over in Brooklyn Theodore Johnson of 1,317 Park Place failed to appear at the mobilization hour. The case was reported to United States Marshal Power and the Marshal sent for Johnson. A fatherly talk by the Marshal followed and Johnson hurried to the Flatbush station and proceeded to Camp Upton with his unit.

GEN. CROWDER PRAISES ARMY.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Sept. 10.—The first contingent of the national army from New York City reported for duty this afternoon. If General Bell's declaration that a "singing army is a fighting army" is correct, then the Seventy-seventh Division will be one of the best fighting organization of the army. The first section, with men from Brooklyn and Staten Island, arrived at the Camp Upton siding at 1 o'clock. Major Gen. J. Franklin Bell, in command at Yaphank, with his Chief of Staff, Lieut. Col. E. E. Booth, were waiting. The first man to alight was M. Decker of Bloomfield, Staten Island.

All carried either suit cases or bundles and one sight which brought smiles from the officers was a contingent from one of the east side boards, every man of which wore a wrist watch. Uniforms they had none, but the men were consciousof their superiority. The same holiday spirit of last Tuesday's parade was shown today. Various inscriptions were chalked on the sides of the cars. "Bowery to France" was one, while another read "On to Berlin! First stop, Yaphank." Each car was in charge of an officer who met the trains at Medford Station, and marched the men from Camp Upton siding a half mile to their barracks. There, after reporting to officers in charge and receiving mess kits, the men had their first taste of camp food. Chefs sent to Camp Upton by the Hotel Men's Association had ready the following menu: Pork and beans with tomato sauce, rice pudding, bread and coffee.

" This chow beats what we got on the border," said a former member of the Seventh Regiment, while the men at the same table all expressed their satisfaction. After dinner mess kits had to be washed and packed away. This was a new experience for many, for among the recruits reporting were accountants, advertising managers, electrical engineers, while others said that they had just left grocery stores and many were laborers. One man said that he had just closed his delicatessen store Saturday.

George W. Perkins, Jr., was there. He had been in army Young Men's Christian Association work, and an exemption had been taken out for him by officers of the organization, but young Perkins waived exemption, although recently married. Among today's arrivals were J. E. Silleman of 680 St. Nicholas Avenue, the first man drafted from New York City, and Ralph Barton, a Londoner, who fought with the Royal Fusiliers at Mons and at Antwerp and was wounded five times.

As he returned to divisional headquarters after having watched the recruits leave the cars, General Bell said: " I am well satisfied with the new men, and I have little doubt but that they will make good soldiers." Brig. Gen. Enoch R. Crowder, Provost Marshal General, gave out the following statement:

" I came to New York today accompanied by Colonel Johnson to observe the details of the execution of the mobilization regulations and to see the concrete result of the plan of raising a national army under which we have been working for so many weeks. Today has justified the words of the President's registration proclamation in which he said 'this is in no sense a conscription of the unwilling. It is, rather, a selection from a nation which has volunteered in mass.'

" The enthusiasm of the people and the remarkable spirit of the selected men who marched, cheering and singing, to their duty, have made it most difficult for me to forget my own enthusiasm and pleasure and to devote myself to the study of detail. I am not sure that a critical inspection of the strings and pulleys of the machine in New York City is necessary. The splendid result demonstrates the efficiency and the well sustained effort of Mr. Conkling and of the local boards here, and gives ample assurance of the perfection of detail which has characterized the mobilization, and dispels every apprehension of deficiency anywhere.

" The sacrificial and burdensome law which Congress has enacted for raising the national army, the execution of which has directly or indirectly invaded every American home, has received its efficient execution at the hands of selected representatives from among the people themselves. There has been no military invasion of our committees, but rather a proffer by the several States and sub-divisions thereof of their respective contingents. This proffer was complete when the contingents reached their cantonments and came into first contact with the military authorities.

" It is gratifying to the national vanity that such a plan can succeed. It is an assurance of the safety of our democratic institutions to observe this visible proof of the ability of democracy to measure its Governmental efficiency against the vaunted perfection of Prussian autocracy and to prevail. The men who this day responded to their country's call came to the colors in a new way, it is essentially a democratic way. Not the least of the advantages becomes obvious when we contemplate 4,557 local boards, who, through great sacrifices of business interest, have evolved this great force and who have been for the past week functioning so efficiently as elements in the administrative machine that is this day accomplishing the greatest mobilization of men ever seen on this continent."

Although one of the recruits carried a sign reading "We are on our way to France" it will be some time before the Seventy-seventh Division leaves Yaphank. Only a third of the buildings at Camp Upton are completed and a training field has yet to be cleared of the Long Island jungle in which the camp is situated.

In all probabilities the Seventy-seventh Division cannot be moved from Camp Upton until late next Spring or early next Summer. The National Guard will sail before the national army. Once the national army sails for France those divisions which have had the most training will be sent first, notably from the South, where also work is possible in Winter.

FOUR AMERICANS LOST ON BRITISH SCHOONER

PARRSBORO, N. S., Sept. 10.—News has been received here of the destruction by a German submarine of the Nova Scotia schooner Minas Queen, with the loss of all but one of her crew. The Minas Queen was bound to an American port from a French port in ballast. She was commanded by Captain Wilbert Loomer of Advocate Harbor, N. S. The man saved was Boatswain Lewis.

The Minas Queen was sunk by a submarine on Aug. 28, while on the way from a French port to the United States, and in addition to Captain Loomer, four of the crew, all Americans, lost their lives, according to information received here yesterday. It was said that the schooner was probably under convoy at the time. The men lost were:

F. Warner, cook, 15 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn; William Pitts, sailor, of 333 West 59th Street, New York; Harry Gardner, sailor, Port Royal, S. C., who lived at 322 Gold Street, Brooklyn, and King David Johnson, Manton, N. C., who lived in Brooklyn. The survivor is R. H. Lewis, of Weymouth, N. S.

The Minas Queen was built in 1916, at Parrsboro, N. S., and was on her first voyage across the Atlantic and back. She registered 491 tons and was owned by W. and S. Job & Co., of this city.

SEVENTH OFF TODAY FOR SPARTANBURG

Regiment Will March Down Fifth Avenue and Be Reviewed by Mayor.

"WAR BRIDES" TO FOLLOW

Young Wives of Officers and Men Will Take Quarters Near Camp Until Men Go to France.

The Seventh Regiment will parade down Fifth Avenue this afternoon and then entrain for Camp Wadsworth at Spartanburg, S. C. Many of the old officers of the regiment and its veterans will turn out as a special escort under command of General Daniel Appleton and Brig. Gens. G. R. Dyer and M. C. Butt and Major D. W. C. Falls. Mayor Mitchel and others will review the column from a stand at the Union League Club, Fifth Avenue and Thirty-ninth Street.

All of the 57 officers and 1,742 men of the regiment who could be spared from guard duty and special details were free last night for a last word with relatives and friends. The command will go South in their Summer clothing and with only part of the regular equipment, which will be supplied at the camp, where winterweight uniforms will also be forthcoming when needed.

It is expected that a "war brides'" special will follow immediately behind the last section of the train of the soldiers. In the special will be the wives of the officers and of some of the men. There have been a number of weddings among the officers and men of the regiment in recent months—some have been married only a few days—and the women will try to find quarters as near as possible to the military reservation, to remain until the command starts for France. It is expected that the "war brides" will form quite a colony among themselves.

Every company of the regiment has a squad of new cooks, and it is confidently hoped by the men that the terrors of the "experimental cookery" which afflicted them sorely at the Mexican border mobilization will not be repeated. Ten of the cooks who returned to the command yesterday were students for a month at the Army Cooking School at Fort H. D. Wright, Fishers Island. If there is a bad cook in the regiment these experts are expected to teach him to improve his work.

There are to be no dining cars with any of the sections. During the trip to camp some of the baggage cars of each section will be used as kitchens, each providing for 200 men. In the middle of the car stoves were fastened to the floor yesterday, with a pit of sand beneath to prevent combustion to the woodwork.

The men are to report at the armory at 10 o'clock this morning. At 1:40 o'clock they will march down Park Avenue to Fifty-seventh Street, to Fifth Avenue, to Twenty-third Street, and the ferry. Every command from the highest to the noncommissioned rank is complete with the single exception of Company B, from which Captain Charles B. Crane was recently retired by army surgeons. His successor will be appointed after reaching camp, and Lieutenant John Kerr will have the command for the present.

The officers of the Seventh are Colonel Willard C. Fisk, Lieut. Col. Robert McArthur, Majors J. E. Schuyler, Robert Mazet, Nicholas Engel, Edmund P. Fowler, commander of the Sanitary Battalion; the Rev. William E. McCord, Chaplain; Capt.-Adjt. Douglas C. Despard, Captains Kenneth Gardner, Machine Gun Company; Arthur M. Smith, Supply Company; Henry B. Heylman, Company A; L. C. Racke, C; Clinton E. Fisk, son of the Colonel, E; George P. Nichols, F; Maxwell B. Nesbit, G; H. Rowland Tompkins, H; Wade H. Hayes, I; J. Augustus Barnard, K; Fancher Nichol, L, and Richard W. Coleman, M.

With the regiment will go the engineers' train and the Signal Corps from the armory at Park Avenue and Ninety-fourth Street.

GARFIELD TO FIX RETAIL COAL PRICES

Administrator Likely to Make Announcement Before Oct. 1—Philadelphia Prices Up.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The retail prices for coal in various communities throughout the country will be announced before Oct. 1, and local committees will be named to co-operate with the Federal Fuel Administration in enforcing them, according to a statement tonight by Dr. H. A. Garfield. Drastic action also will be taken if it is found there is a cutting down of coal production because of the prices fixed by President Wilson for bituminous coal at the mine.

An important step was taken today in regard to the labor situation when Dr. Garfield received the acceptance of John P. White, President of the United Mine Workers, to act as one of his advisers.

Concerning the retail prices of anthracite coal, it is understood that a margin for retailers in the neighborhood of $2 may be fixed as a working basis.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—Retail coal dealers again boosted the price of coal today. Based on last year's consumption of 4,000,000 tons, the new rates will cost consumers in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 in the next twelve months.

The concerns to raise the price were the George B. Newton Company, controlling about twenty-five per cent. of the local market, and Edwin J. Cummings. The jump amounted to 35 cents a ton on egg coal, 35 cents on stove, 10 cents on nut, and 25 cents on pea. This is the second raise this month. On Sept. 1 10 cents was added on egg, stove, and nut, and 75 cents on pea. Compared with September, 1916, egg is up $1.20 a ton; stove, $1.20; nut, $1, and pea, $2.25.

The Pullman Car

1867-1917

IT was constructed entirely of wood, lighted by oil lamps, and was heated by box stoves which burned cord wood.

It rested on blocks of India rubber instead of springs, platforms were open and four wheel trucks were used with iron wheels.

Today 7,400 Pullman cars, built in the shops of the Pullman Company, are operated by its own trained employes.

Twenty-seven million passengers are afforded assurance of safety, comfort and convenience on 137 railroads, embracing 223,489 miles of track.

Staunchly constructed, electrically lighted, sanitary, ventilated and steam heated, they include every feature for the personal convenience and luxury of the passenger.

In addition, the cars of the Pullman Company afford a uniform and continuous service unequalled by that of any like organization in the world.

O'RYAN OUTLINES PLANS FOR TRAINING

Tells Ex-Plattsburgers They Must Bring About Team Work in the 27th Division.

SAYS MAN POWER WILL WIN

He Belittles Military Mechanical Achievements, Asserting Morale of Troops Can Offset This.

Special to The New York Times.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 10.—Preparation for the arrival of the Seventh Infantry, the First Battalion, signal corps, and the Twelfth Infantry was completed at Camp Wadsworth this afternoon. From now on a regiment a day will start southward, the camp sites being all ready and the sanitation completed.

Major Gen. O'Ryan officially opened the new school for ex-Plattsburgers today with a speech in which he declared that it was his plan to discipline the Twenty-seventh Division to the point where its confidence to "will" success will become almost "fanaticism." He belittled military mechanical achievement, unaccompanied by morale, and asserted that man power, and that alone, will win the war. "Trained dependability, disciplined initiative, and the Spartan spirit to 'will' success, no matter what the opposition,' was his receipe for victory overseas. In part, he said:

"An army to be effective in war must be so trained and developed that it will engage in its mission possessed of the following qualities: character and physical fitness; co-ordination of effort, and expertness of mechanical and tactical skill.

"The first of these groups covers the mental capacity to grasp what is required, the physical ability to execute what is required, the ability and determination to drive the mental and physical machinery to the limit, if need be, and patience and fortitude to serve as lubricants for this human machinery. It will be seen that these qualities relate to the moral qualities of the soldier, and therefore to the morale of the army as a whole. The importance of this phase of the soldier's training, may be expressed in the words of Napoleon—'Morale is three-fourths of victory.'

"The second quality, namely, co-ordination of effort, covers everything that relates to team work, to the principles governing applied discipline, the service of supply, transportation, sanitation, and the harmonious spirit and action of the auxiliary arms. These principles are applied and made effective through regulations and orders to insure team work in the fight, and during the period of preparation leading to the fight, as well as the period following it.

"The third quality, expertness in mechanical and tactical skill, covers the field of minor tactics, which includes not only the manoeuvre of tactical units and their subdivisions, but mechanical skill in the use of arms and implements of war, such as the rifle, the grenade, bombs, and gas."

These three fundamentals, he continued, are to be the basis for the training to be given at the camp, and in speaking of the advances that have been made in the war, O'Ryan gave it as his opinion that very little that is really "new" has come into use except "systematic frightfulness" and the liquid fire and poison fumes originated by the Germans. Developing on this topic, he went on:

"Wars are not won with inanimate things. They are won by men. They are not won with U-boats, aircraft, bombs, gas, and other weapons, but by men capable of developing and improving such instruments for the accomplishment of their will, and possessing trained dependability, disciplined initiative, and the Spartan spirit to 'will' success, no matter what the opposition. Weapons of warfare, no matter how mechanically efficient they may be, serve only as trophies to be captured, unless they are possessed and used by men who understand them, and understanding, serve them with indomitable courage and tenacity of purpose."

The General emphasized his belief that man power was paramount to all other agencies in the successful prosecution of the war, and then he turned to the best way for his audience of young officers to bring out the best in their future commands. They were warned to keep close watch of the little things that may crop up in company administration. Once a violation of even minor orders came to their attention, prompt punishment was to be meted out.

In discussing the best way to convey to the enlisted men the knowledge that had been gained at Plattsburg, General O'Ryan said:

"Right here, gentlemen, let it be said that the greatest shortcoming in the military services, as I have observed it, is the lack of special instruction and training of officers in the art of giving instructions. There should be established a course in what might be termed military pedagogy.

"Take, for example, your own cases. You have been trained intensively for three months, but how many of you have had training in the best methods of imparting to others what you have learned. You will have opportunity during your military service to observe wide differences in the manner in which military units develop efficiency, due to the differences in the ability of officers to impart to their units the knowledge which they possess. Keep this important subject in mind, observe and analyze the methods of successful company commanders, and discuss the topic whenever you have a chance."

General O'Ryan indicated that physical exercise is to play a big rôle in the preparation of the troops for service, and said many of the reserve officers, fresh from their drills at Plattsburg, would probably do extra detail as physical leaders.

Tonight the General addressed a gathering of Y. M. C. A. workers at a local church and expressed his appreciation of the elaborate program the association has laid out for the camp.

OVERCOATS AT PLATTSBURG

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, Sept. 10.—Overcoats were issued this morning and thankfully received by the students, who were shivering when turned out at reveille, the mercury then standing at 36 degrees and not going more than ten points higher during the day. Four stoves have been installed in each of the cantonments, this work being completed today, but unless there is a big drop in temperature fires will not be started until next month.

Believing that music has had much to do with the fine marching of the companies, Colonel Wolf order[illegible] to report on the parade ground every morning and furnish music from 8 to 8:30 o'clock when the [illegible] drilling.

Captain Homer N. Groninger, U. S. A., senior bombing instructor, now has two valuable assistants in Lieutenant H. G. Chapman of the national army and Candidate Alexander McClintock of Kentucky, who enrolls from the Hotel Martinique, New York. Mr. McClintock is fresh from the other side, where he attended bombing schools in England, as well as in the rear of the French fighting line and with the Canadian regiments. He is a member of the Twelfth New York Training Company. Lieutenant Chapman also has had bombing experience abroad.

The pistol and rifle work will come under the supervision of Captain Groninger, but this will not be undertaken until next week, and the first week in October the students will receive trench instruction and bombing from trenches, the trenches made by the members of the first camp, south of the pine grove, to serve in this instruction. But few applications for aviation service are being turned in to headquarters from the students, probably because they have learned that not more than fifty have been called for from the list of 350 of the first camp who went back to their homes to await a call.

The term "taxable year" means the twelve months ending December thirty-first, excepting in the case of a corporation or partnership which has fixed its own fiscal year, in which case it means such fiscal year. The first taxable year shall be the year ending December, thirty-first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, except that in the case of a corporation or partnership which has fixed its own fiscal year it shall be the fiscal year ending during the calendar year nineteen hundred and seventeen. If a corporation or partnership, prior to March first, nineteen hundred and eighteen, makes a return covering its own fiscal year, and includes therein the income received during that part of the fiscal year falling within the calendar year nineteen hundred and sixteen, the tax for such taxable year shall be that proportion of the tax computed upon the excess profits during such full fiscal year which the time from January first, nineteen hundred and seventeen, to the end of such fiscal year bears to the full fiscal year; and

The term "prewar period" means the calendar years nineteen hundred and eleven, nineteen hundred and twelve, and nineteen hundred and thirteen, or, if a corporation or partnership was not in existence or an individual was not engaged in a trade or business during the whole of such period, then as many of such years during the whole of which the corporation or partnership was in existence or the individual was engaged in the trade or business.

Sec. 201. That in addition to the taxes under existing law and under this Act there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid for each taxable year upon the income of every corporation, partnership, or individual a tax (hereinafter in this title referred to as the tax) equal to the following percentages of the war profits (determined as hereinafter provided):

Twelve per centum of the amount of such war profits not in excess of fifteen per centum of the deduction allowed by section two hundred and three, section two hundred and four, or section two hundred and five, as the case may be (the "deduction allowed" by section two hundred and four and section two hundred and five, being the difference between the net income and the war profits as there determined);

Sixteen per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed fifteen per centum of such deduction and do not exceed twenty-five per centum thereof;

Twenty per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed twenty-five per centum of such deduction and do not exceed fifty per centum thereof;

Twenty-five per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed fifty per centum of such deduction and do not exceed seventy-five per centum thereof;

Thirty per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed seventy-five per centum of such deduction and do not exceed one hundred per centum thereof;

Thirty-five per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed one hundred per centum of such deduction and do not exceed one hundred and fifty per centum thereof;

Forty per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed one hundred and fifty per centum of such deduction and do not exceed two hundred per centum thereof;

Forty-five per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed two hundred per centum of such deduction and do not exceed two hundred and fifty per centum thereof;

Fifty per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed two hundred and fifty per centum of such deduction and do not exceed three hundred per centum thereof; and

Sixty per centum of the amount by which such war profits exceed three hundred per centum of such deduction.

For the purposes of this title all the trades and businesses in which a corporation or partnership is engaged shall be deemed to be a single trade or business, and all its income from whatever source derived shall be deemed to be received from such trade or business.

This title shall apply to all trades or businesses of whatever description (whether continuously carried on or not), including the business of rendering any services for a commission or of acting as an agent of any description, except—

(a) An office or employment, including that of a commercial traveler or agent whose remuneration consists wholly of a fixed and definite sum irrespective of the amount of business done or any other contingency;

(b) A profession or occupation, the profits of which depend mainly on the personal qualifications of the individuals by whom such profession or occupation is carried on and in which there is not required the investment of more than a nominal capital; and

(c) Incomes derived from the business of life, health, and accident insurance combined in one policy issued on the weekly premium payment plan.

Sec. 202. That the tax shall not be imposed in the case of a trade or business of a domestic corporation or partnershp or a citizen or resident of the United States the net income of which trade or business during the taxable year is less than $5,000, or in the case of a trade or business of a foreign corporation or partnership or a nonresident alien individual the net income of which trade or business during such year from sources within the United States is less than the proportion of $5,000 which such net income from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income, but no exemption shall be allowed to a foreign corporation or partnership or a nonresident alien individual unless a true and accurate return of the entire net income from the trade or business is filed with the collector of internal revenue. There shall be deducted from the war profits, determined as hereinafter provided, of each citizen or resident of the United States, the sum of $5,000.

Sec. 203. That for the purposes of this title the amount of war profits shall be determined, except as otherwise in this title provided—

"(a) In the case of a domestic corporation or partnership or of a citizen or resident of the United States by deducting from the net income of the trade or business received during the taxable year the average amount of the annual net income of the trade or business during the prewar period; but such deduction shall not be an amount less than six or more than ten per centum of the actual invested capital for the taxable year.

"(b) In the case of a foreign corporation or partnership, or of a nonresident alien individual by deducting from the net income of the trade or business received from sources within the United States during the taxable year the average amount of the annual net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States during the prewar period; but such deduction shall not be an amount less than six or more than ten per centum of that proportion of the actual invested capital for the taxable year which the net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income.

"(c) If the capital (or, in the case of a foreign corporation or partnership or of a nonresident alien individual, that proportion thereof which the net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income) during the taxable year is greater or less than the average capital computed upon the same basis during the prewar period, the war profits shall be determined by deducting from the total net income for the taxable year an amount which bears the same proportion to the average annual net income for the prewar period which such capital during the taxable year bears to such average capital during the prewar period; but such deduction shall not be an amount less than six or more than ten per centum of the actual invested capital for the taxable year (or, in the case of a foreign corporation or partnership or of a nonresident alien individual, of that proportion of the actual invested capital for the taxable year which the net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income).

"(d) If the Secretary of the Treasury is unable satisfactorily to determine the average amount of the annual net income of the trade or business during the prewar period or the actual invested capital for the taxable year, the war profits shall be determined as provided in subdivision (a) of section two hundred and four."

Sec. 204. (a) That if a corporation, partnership, or individual had no net income from the trade or business during the prewar period, or if a corporation or partnership was not in existence or an individual was not engaged in the trade or business, during the whole of any one calendar year during the prewar period, the amount of the war profits shall be the same proportion of the net income of the trade or business received during the taxable year as the proportion which the war profits for the same calendar year of representative corporations, partnerships, and individuals, engaged in a like or similar trade or business and whose war profits are determined as provided in section two hundred and three, bears to the total net income of the trade or business received by such corporations, partnerships, and individuals. In the case of a foreign corporation or partnership or of a nonresident alien individual the net income received from sources within the United States during the taxable year shall be used as the basis of computation. In no case shall the difference between the net income for the taxable year and the war profits determined as provided in this section be an amount less than six or more than ten per centum of the actual invested capital for the taxable year (or, in the case of a foreign corporation or partnership, or of a nonresident alien individual, of that proportion of the actual invested capital for the taxable year which the net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income); but this limitation shall not apply in the case of a tax required by subdivision (d) of section two hundred and three to be computed under this section on account of the inability of the Secretary of the Treasury satisfactorily to determine the actual invested capital for the taxable year.

The proportion between the war profits and the net income in each trade or business shall be determined by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in accordance with regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury. In the case of a corporation or partnership which has fixed its own fiscal year, the proportion determined for the calendar year ending during such fiscal year shall be used.

A trade or business carried on by a corporation, partnership, or individual, although formally organized or reorganized on or after January second, nineteen hundred and thirteen, which is substantially a continuation of a trade or business carried on prior to that date, shall, for the purposes of this title, be deemed to have been in existence prior to that date, and the net income of its predecessor prior to that date shall be deemed to have been its net income.

(b) If the net income of the trade or business for the taxable year, in the case of a corporation or partnership which was not in existence or of an individual who was not engaged in the trade or business during the whole of any one calendar year during the prewar period, is less than six per centum per annum of the actual invested capital for the taxable year (or in case of a foreign corporation or partnership or a nonresident alien individual is less than six per centum per annum on that proportion of the actual invested capital for the taxable year which the net income of the trade or business from sources within the United States bears to the entire net income), there shall be deemed to be no war profits.

Sec. 205. (a) That if the Secretary of the Treasury upon complaint finds either (1) that during the prewar period the net return of any domestic corporation or partnership or a citizen or resident of the United States from a trade or business was low as compared with the net return during such period of representative corporations, partnerships, and individuals engaged in a like or similar trade or business, or (2) that during the prewar period the ratio between the net and gross income from such trade or business was substantially less than the like ratio in case of representative corporations, partnerships, and individuals engaged in a like or similar trade or business, then the war profits shall be determined in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of section two hundred and four.

(b) That if the Secretary of the Treasury upon complaint finds either (1) that during the prewar period the net return of any foreign corporation or partnership or a nonresident alien individual from a trade or business carried on within the United States was low as compared with the net return during such period of representative corporations, partnerships, and individuals engaged in a like or similar trade or business, or (2) that during the prewar period the ratio between the net and gross income from such trade or business was substantially less than the like ratio in case of representative corporations, partnerships, and individuals engaged in a like or similar trade or business, then the war profits shall be determined in the same manner as provided in subdivision (a) of section two hundred and four.

(c) The tax shall be assessed upon the basis of the war profits determined as provided in section two hundred and three, but the taxpayer claiming the benefit of this section may at the time of making the return file a claim for abatement of the amount by which the tax so assessed exceeds a tax at like rate computed upon the basis of war profits determined as provided in this section. In such event collection of the part of the tax covered by such claim for abatement shall not be made until the claim is decided, but if in the judgment of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue the interests of the United States would be jeopardized thereby he may require the claimant to give a bond in such amount and with such sureties as the commissioner may think wise to safeguard such interests, conditioned for the payment of any tax found to be due, with the interest thereon, and if such bond, satisfactory to the commissioner, is not given within such time as he prescribes, the full amount of tax assessed shall be collected and the amount overpaid, if any, shall upon final decision of the application be refunded as a tax erroneously or illegally collected.

Sec. 206. That for the purposes of this title net income of a corporation shall be ascertained and returned (a) for the calendar years nineteen hundred and eleven and nineteen hundred and twelve upon the same basis and in the same manner as provided in section thirty-eight of the Act entitled "An Act to provide revenue, equalize duties, and encourage the industries of the United States, and for other purposes," approved August fifth, nineteen hundred and nine; (b) for the calendar year nineteen hundred and thirteen upon the same basis and in the same manner as provided in section II of the Act entitled "An Act to reduce tariff duties and to provide revenue for the Government, and for other purposes," approved October third, nineteen hundred and thirteen, except that the amounts received by it as dividends upon the stock or from the net earnings of other corporations, joint stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax imposed by section II of such Act of October third, nineteen hundred and thirteen, shall also be deducted; and (c) for the taxable year upon the same basis and in the same manner as provided in Title I of the Act entited "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act, except that the amounts received by it as dividends upon the stock or from the net earnings of other corporations, joint-stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax imposed by Title I of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, shall also be deducted.

The net income of a partnership or individual shall be ascertained and returned for the calendar years nineteen hundred and eleven, nineteen hundred and twelve, and nineteen hundred and thirteen and for the taxable year upon the same basis and in the same manner as provided in Title I of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act, except that the creditallowed by subdivision (b) of section five of such Act shall also be deducted. There shall be allowed (a) in the case of a domestic partnership the same deductions as allowed to individuals in subdivision (a) of section five of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act; and (b) in the case of a foreign partnership the same deductions as allowed to individuals in subdivision (a) of section six of such Act as amended by this Act.

Sec. 207. As used in section two hundred and three and in section two hundred and four, the term "capital" does not include money or other property borrowed, nor stock, bonds, or other assets, the income from which is not subject to the tax imposed by this title, and in case of a corporation or partnership means, subject to the above limitation, (1) actual cash paid in, (2) the actual cash value of property paid in other than cash, for stocks or shares in such corporation or partnership, at the time of such payment, and (3) paid in or earned surplus and undivided profits used or employed in the business: Provided, That the good will, including trademarks and trade brands, or the franchise of a corporation or partnership is not to be included unless the corporation or partnership made payment therefor specifically as such in cash or tangible property, the value of such good will, trademarks, trade brands, or franchise not to exceed the actual cash or actual value of the tangible property paid therefor at the time of such payment. As used in such sections the term "capital for the taxable year" means the capital as of the first day of the second half of such year, except that if a corporation or partnership is not then in existence or an individual is not then engaged in the trade or business, it means the capital as of the day of commencing business.

The limitation in sections two hundred and three and two hundred and four as to the percentage of capital allowed as a deduction shall not apply in the case of a trade or business which is chiefly carried on by means of personal services and in which the capital is only nominal as compared with the gross income.

Sec. 208. That corporations exempt from tax under the provisions of section eleven of Title I of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act, and partnerships and individuals carrying on or doing the same business, or coming within the same description, shall be exempt from the provisions of this title.

Sec. 209. That every partnership having a gross income of $5,000 or more for the taxable year, and every individual having such a gross income from a trade or business shall render a correct return of the income of the trade or business for the taxable year, setting forth specifically the gross income for such year, and the deductions allowed in this title. Such returns shall be rendered at the same time and in the same manner and form as is prescribed for income tax returns under Title I of such A September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act.

Sec. 210. That all administrative, special, and general provisions of law, including the laws in relation to the assessment, remission, collection, and refund of internal-revenue taxes not heretofore specifically repealed and not inconsistent with the provisions of this title are hereby extended and made applicable to all the provisions of this title and to the tax herein imposed, and all provisions of Title I of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, as amended by this Act, relating to returns and payment of the tax therein imposed, including penalties, are hereby made applicable to the tax imposed by this title. Premiums paid on life insurance policies, covering the lives of officers, employes, or those financially interested in the company or copartnership for the benefit of said company or copartnership shall not be deducted in computing the net income or profits in determining the amount of taxes to be paid under this Act or under the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen.

Sec. 211. That the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall make all necessary regulations for carrying out the provisions of this title, and may require any corporation, partnership, or individual, subject to the provisions of this title, to furnish him with such facts, data, and information as in his judgment are necessary to collect the tax imposed by this title.

Sec. 212. That Title III (sections three hundred to three hundred and twelve, inclusive) of the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and Title II (sections two hundred to two hundred and seven, inclusive) of the Act entitled "An Act to provide increased revenue to defray the expenses of the increased appropriations for the Army and Navy, and the extensions of fortifications, and for other purposes," approved March third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, are hereby repealed.

Any amount heretofore or hereafter paid on account of the tax imposed by Title II of such Act of March third, nineteen hundred and seventeen, shall be credited toward the payment of the tax imposed by this title, and if the amount so paid exceeds the amount of such tax the excess shall be refunded as a tax erroneously or illegally collected.

No tax shall be imposed for the taxable year nineteen hundred and seventeen under Title III of such Act of September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen.

TITLE III.—WAR TAX ON BEVERAGES.

Sec. 300. That on and after the enactment of this Act there shall be levied and collected on all distilled spirits in bond at that time or that have been or that may be then or thereafter produced in or imported into the United States, except such distilled spirits as are subject to the tax provided in section three hundred and four, in addition to the tax now imposed by law, a tax of $1.10 (or, if withdrawn for beverage purposes, a tax of $2.10) on each proof gallon, or wine gallon when below proof, and a proportionate tax at a like rate on all fractional parts of such proof or wine gallon, to be paid by the distiller or importer when withdrawn, and collected under the provisions of existing law.

That in addition to the tax under existing law there shall be levied and collected upon all perfumes hereafter imported into the United States containing distilled spirits, a tax of $1.10 per wine gallon, and a proportionate tax at a like rate on all fractional parts of such wine gallon. Such tax shall be collected by the collector of customs and deposited as internal-revenue collections, under such rules and regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe.

Sec. 301. That in addition to the tax imposed on distilled spirits by existing law and under section three hundred, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid on the materials used in the production of such spirits after the enactment of this Act the following taxes: On all grains, cereals, and other solid products and materials, a tax of $60 per one hundred pounds, and on all molasses, sirups, and other liquid fermentable products and materials, a tax of $5 per wine gallon. Every distiller using any such materials shall keep such records and file such returns and bonds, and the tax shall be paid at such times and in such manner, and subject to such credits, as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe or require. Under such rules, regulations, and bonds, as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe, the provisions of this section shall not apply to materials used in the production of distilled spirits withdrawn exclusively for other than beverage purposes or for the fortification of pure sweet wines as defined by the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen; but distilled spirits shall not be withdrawn for export except upon the application of an accredited representative of a nation at war with the Imperial German Government, or of any neutral nation, in which application it is declared that such spirits are withdrawn for other than beverage purposes.

Sec. 302. That no distilled spirits produced after the enactment of this act shall be imported into the United States from any foreign country, or from the West Indian Islands recently acquired from Denmark, (unless produced from products the growth of such islands), or from Porto Rico, or the Philippine Islands, and not then into any State or Territory or district of the United States in which the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited. Under such rules, regulations, and bonds as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, the provisions of this section shall not apply to distilled spirits imported for other than beverage purposes.

Sec. 303. That at registered distilleries producing alcohol, or other high-proof spirits, packages may be filled with such spirits reduced to not less than one hundred proof from the receiving cisterns and tax paid without being entered into bonded warehouse. Such spirits may also be transferred from the receiving cisterns at such distilleries, by means of pipe lines, direct to storage tanks in the bonded warehouse and may be warehoused in such storage tanks. Such spirits may be also transferred in tanks or tank cars to general bonded warehouses for storage therein, either in storage tanks in such warehouses or in the tanks in which they were transferred. Such spirits may also be transferred after tax payment from receiving cisterns or warehouse storage tanks to tanks or tank cars, and may be transported in such tanks or tank cars to the premises of rectifiers of spirits. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby empowered to prescribe all necessary regulations relating to the drawing off, transferring, gauging, storing, and transporting of such spirits; the records to be kept and returns to be made; the size and kind of packages and tanks to be used; the marking, branding, numbering, and stamping of such packages and tanks; the kinds of stamps, if any, to be used; and the time and manner of paying the tax; the kind of bond and the penal sum of same. The tax prescribed by law must be paid before such spirits are removed from the distillery premises, or from general bonded warehouse in the case of spirits transferred thereto, except as otherwise provided by law.

Under such regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe, distilled spirits may hereafter be drawn from receiving cisterns and deposited in distillery warehouses without having affixed to the packages containing the same distillery warehouse stamps, and such packages, when so deposited in warehouse, may be withdrawn therefrom on the original gauge where the same have remained in such warehouse for a period not exceeding thirty days from the date of deposit.

Under such regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe, the manufacture, warehousing, withdrawal, and shipment, under the provisions of existing law, of ethyl alcohol for use of the United States or for denaturation, and denatured alcohol, may be exempted from the provisions of section thirty-two hundred and eighty-three, Revised Statutes of the United States.

Under such regulations as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe, manufacturers of ethyl alcohol for other than beverage purposes may be granted permission under the provisions of section thirty-two hundred and eighty-five, Revised Statutes of the United States, to fill fermenting tubs in a sweet-mash distillery not oftener than once in forty-eight hours.

Sec. 304. That upon all distilled spirits produced in or imported into the United States upon which the tax now imposed by law has been paid, and which, on the day this act is enacted, are held by a retailer in a quantity in excess of fifty gallons in the aggregate, or by any other person, corporation, partnership, or association in any quantity, and which are intended for sale, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid a tax of $1.10 (or, if intended for sale for beverage purposes, a tax of $2.10) on each proof gallon and a proportionate tax at a like rate on all fractional parts of such proof gallon: Provided, That the tax on such distilled spirits in the custody of a court of bankruptcy in insolvency proceedings on June 1, 1917, shall be paid by the person to whom the court delivers such distilled spirits at the time of such delivery to the extent that the amount thus delivered exceeds the fifty gallons hereinbefore provided.

Sec. 305. That in addition to the tax now imposed or imposed by this Act on distilled spirits there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid a tax of 15 cents on each proof gallon and a proportionate tax at a like rate on all fractional parts of such proof gallon on all distilled spirits or wine hereafter rectified, purified, or refined in such manner, and on all mixtures hereafter produced in such manner, that the person so rectifying, purifying, refining, or mixing the same is a rectifier within the meaning of section thirty-two hundred and forty-four, Revised Statutes, as amended, and on all such articles in the possession of the rectifier on the day this Act is enacted: Provided, That this tax shall not apply to gin produced by the redistillation of a pure spirit over juniper berries and other aromatics.

When the process of rectification is completed and the tax prescribed by this section has been paid, it shall be unlawful for the rectifier or other dealer to reduce in proof or increase in volume such spirits or wine by the addition of water or other substance; nothing herein contained shall, however, prevent a rectifier from using again in the process of rectification spirits already rectified and upon which the tax has theretofore been paid.

The tax imposed by this section shall not attach to cordials or liqueurs on which a tax is imposed and paid under the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, nor to the mixing and blending of wines, where such blending is for the sole purpose of perfecting such wines according to commercial standards, nor to blends made exclusively of two or more pure straight whiskies aged in wood for a period not less than four years and without the addition of coloring or flavoring matter or any other substance than pure water and if not reduced below ninety proof: Provided, That such blended whiskies shall be exempt from tax under this section only when compounded under the immediate supervision of a revenue officer, in such tanks and under such conditions and supervision as the Commisioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, may prescribe.

All distilled spirits taxable under this section shall be subject to uniform regulations concerning the use thereof in the manufacture, blending, compounding, mixing, marking, branding, and sale of whisky and rectified spirits, and no discrimination whatsoever shall be made by reason of a difference in the character of the material from which same may have been produced.

The business of a rectifier of spirits shall be carried on, and the tax on rectified spirits shall be paid, under such rules, regulations, and bonds as may be prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Any person violating any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed to be guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction, shall be fined not less than $250 and not more than $1,000 or imprisoned not more than two years. He shall, in addition, be liable to double the tax evaded, together with the tax, to be collected by assessment or on any bond given.

Sec. 306. That hereafter collectors of internal revenue shall not furnish wholesale liquor dealer's stamps in lieu of and in exchange for stamps for rectified spirits unless the package covered by stamp for rectified spirits is to be broken into smaller packages.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to discontinue the use of the following stamps whenever in his judgment the interests of the Government will be subserved thereby:

Distillery warehouse, special bonded warehouse, special bonded rewarehouse, general bonded warehouse, general bonded retransfer, transfer brandy, export tobacco, export cigars, export oleomargarine and export fermented liquor stamps.

Sec. 307. That the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to require at distilleries, breweries, rectifying houses, and wherever else in his judgment such action may be deemed advisable, the installation of meters, tanks, pipes, or any other apparatus for the purpose of protecting the revenue, and such meters, tanks, and pipes and all necessary labor incident thereto shall be at the expense of the person, corporation, partnership, or association on whose premises the installation is required. Any such person, corporation, partnership, or association refusing or neglecting to install such apparatus when so required by the commissioner shall not be permitted to conduct business on such premises.

Sec. 308. That on and after the enactment of this Act there shall be levied and collected on all beer, lager beer, ale, porter, and other similar fermented liquor, containing one-half per centum or more of alcohol, brewed or manufactured and sold, or stored in warehouse, or removed for consumption or sale, within the United States, by whatever name such liquors may be called, in addition to the tax now imposed by law, a tax of $1.50 for every barrel containing not more than thirty-one gallons, and at a like rate for any other quantity or for the fractional parts of a barrel authorized and defined by law.

Sec. 309. That from and after the enactment of this Act taxable fermented liquors may be conveyed without payment of tax from the brewery premises where produced to a contiguous industrial distillery of either class established under the Act of October third, nineteen hundred and thirteen, to be used as distilling material, and the residue from such distillation, containing not to exceed one-half of one per centum of alcohol by volume, which is to be used in making beverages, may be manipulated by cooling, flavoring, carbonating, settling, and filtering on the distillery premises or elsewhere.

The removal of the taxable fermented liquor from the brewery to the distillery and the operation of the distillery and removal of the residue therefrom shall be under the supervision of such officer or officers as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall deem proper, and the Commisioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, is hereby authorized to make such regulations from time to time as may be necessary to give force and effect to this section and to safeguard the revenue.

Sec. 310. (a) That (1) upon all still wines, including vermuth, liqueurs, cordials, artificial or imitation wines or compounds sold as still wine, which contain more than fourteen per centum of absolute alcohol, and which are hereafter removed from custom-houses for sale or consumption, and (2) upon all of the above which are fortified with, or which contain any product fortified with, grape brandy or wine spirits, and which are produced in the United States and hereafter removed from the place of manufacture, or from bonded premises, for sale or consumption, there shall be levied and collected, in addition to the tax now imposed by law upon such articles, a tax of $1.10 on each proof gallon, and a proportionate tax at a like rate on all fractional parts of such proof gallon, to be levied, collected, and paid under the provisions of existing law.

(b) Upon (1) all of the articles enumerated in subdivision (a) which are produced in the United States and which are not fortified with, or do not contain any product fortified with, grape brandy or wine spirits, and which are hereafter removed from the place of manufacture or from bonded premises for sale or consumption, and (2) all of the articles enumerated in subdivision (a) containing not more than fourteen per centum of absolute alcohol, and which are hereafter removed from custom-house, place of manufacture, or bonded premises, for sale or consumption, there shall be levied and collected, in addition to the tax now imposed by law upon such articles, a tax equivalent to the internal-revenue tax now imposed by law, to be levied, collected, and paid under the provisions of existing law.

(c) Upon champagne, sparkling wines, and artificially carbonated wines, produced in or imported into the United States and hereafter removed from custom-house, place of manufacture, or bonded premises, for sale or consumption, there shall be levied and collected, in addition to the tax now imposed by law upon such articles, a tax equal to double the internal-revenue tax now imposed by law, to be levied, collected, and paid under the provisions of existing law.

(d) Whoever has possession of any empty cask or package which has been used for wine or any article taxable under this section or under subdivision (a) or (e) of section four hundred and two of the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, and on which the stamp or any mark denoting payment of tax has not been effectually destroyed or obliterated, or reuses any such cask or package, having thereon any such stamp or mark [illegible] used, shall for each such offense be fined not less than $100 nor more than $1,000, or be imprisoned not more than one year, or both; and all such casks or packages and their contents in the case of reuse, shall be forfeited to the United States.

Sec. 311. That upon all articles specified in section three hundred and ten upon which the tax now imposed by law has been paid and which are on the day this Act is enacted held in excess of twenty-five gallons in the aggregate of such articles and intended for sale, there shall be levied, collected, and paid a tax equal to the tax imposed by such section.

Sec. 312. That upon all grape brandy or wine spirits withdrawn by a producer of wines from any fruit distillery or special bonded warehouse under subdivision (c) of section four hundred and two of the Act entitled "An Act to increase the revenue, and for other purposes," approved September eighth, nineteen hundred and sixteen, there shall be levied, assessed, collected, and paid in addition to the tax therein imposed, a tax of $1 per proof gallon, to be assessed, collected, and paid under the provisions of existing law.

Sec. 313. The European War

A Library of the Best Literature of the War

Not a History of Facts but the Facts of History

600 pages to each volume—TEN VOLUMES—1000 pages of illustrations

Tells Why We Entered the War

SO long as history is written, the messages, addresses and communications of the President of the United States, during the period of the war, will be held as classics in the literature of democracy. The famous war message and every other message and address of President Wilson since the beginning of the war to the present time are given in full in THE EUROPEAN WAR Published by The New York Times

In the ten volumes appear the fundamental reasons for the entrance of the United States into the struggle. The work tells how this nation, long patient under many provocations, endeavored to maintain its rights and bring about peace, but at last, meeting increasing violation of its rights, threw aside restraints and entered the conflict.

State papers, protests, diplomatic correspondence, addresses of public men, comments of editors and authors, in every volume, show the evolution from strict neutrality to a determination to maintain by force of arms the contentions of the American Government.

Chronicle of Public Opinion

THROUGHOUT the volumes of THE EUROPEAN WAR Published by The New York Times is cited the growing feeling over the happenings in Belgium, Poland and other countries. The flame of anger which sprang up in the United States over the sinking of the Lusitania is dispassionately described.

Information is presented of the acts immediately preceding the severing of diplomatic relations, including Germany's declaration of ruthless submarine warfare. The text is given of the instructions to the German Ambassador to Mexico to suggest to that country a joint attack with Japan on the United States.

The trend of public opinion is accurately sensed through the cartoons which appeared in American newspapers, large numbers of which are reproduced.

Sets Forth American Position

ON the pages of every one of the ten volumes of the history — in Presidential messages; diplomatic exchanges; in every paper setting forth the American position—there can be traced the traditional stand of the United States for the absolute freedom of the high seas. The volumes give correspondence and protests against embargoes, blockades and war zones.

Every man and woman, every college student, every high school boy and girl, will find of intense interest, in many articles, the upholding of this nation-old policy of the United States. In connection with the repeated declaration of this right there appears the assertion of the American principle of the inviolability of private property at sea and the absolute obligation on vessels of contending navies to respect and safeguard the lives of non-combatants and of neutrals.

Record of Events

NOT only does THE EUROPEAN WAR Published by The New York Times contain the record of the case of the United States, but it unfolds the accounts of the great conflict as it is affecting all the contending and neutral nations, their civilization, their people, institutions, commerce, science and art. The facts are presented of important events — diplomatic, military, naval and civil—of the past three years. Representatives of every nation give their viewpoints ungarbled and uncensored. Letters and interviews tell of the life of the soldiers in the trenches and of the frantic turmoil of battle.

A Concise History

EACH volume of the work is introduced by a comprehensive narrative of the events of a three months' period. Some of the best historical authorities in the United States have prepared the introductions, which, taken in series, form a concise, consecutive history of the war to date. Among those who have written the narratives of the war are:

Albert Bushnell Hart, Ph. D., LL. D., Harvard University; Paul van Dyke, D. D., of Princeton; Charles Seymour, Ph. D., of Yale; Dr. W. E. Lingelbach of the University of Pennsylvania

American citizens should own THE EUROPEAN WAR Published by The New York Times thus having an authoritative work of reference at hand. Its ten volumes give the facts—the essential documents of every nation involved and of many neutral nations.

Hundreds of Illustrations

IN every volume is an abundance of lifelike illustrations of battle scenes, photographs of great men and pictures of towns in the battle area, reproduced in the soft tones of the Rotogravure process. In all there are 480 pages of illustrations. The maps and charts are a feature of the work.

Of the most intense interest are 600 pages of cartoons of all nations, the work of the most talented cartoonists of the world.

TAMMANY LEADERS IN EAST SIDE REBEL

150 in Sixth Assembly District Leave the Wigwam to Join the City Democracy.

LIKEN MURPHY TO KAISER

Resolutions Say New Yorkers Are Tired of Being Bossed by the 14th Street Organization.

Comparing the rule of Charles F. Murphy in Tammany Hall with that of the Kaiser in Germany, about 150 enrolled Tammany men of the Sixth Assembly District, on the east side, revolted against the Fourteenth Street organization last night and went over to the City Democracy, the organization headed by Martin W. Littleton, which was formed to overthrow Murphy's control of Tammany and bring about the re-election of Mayor Mitchel. In scorching resolutions Murphy was pictured as a boss who rolled in his limousine between Delmonico's and the Good Ground golf links, "always bobbing up to pick his political tools for office" and neglecting the real workers of the organization.

The defection of the Sixth District Democrats was considered by politicians last night as being of more importance than the action of the Sullivan clan in breaking away from Tammany several weeks ago. While the Sullivan organization did not have many followers, the Tammany men in the Sixth District who cast their lot with the City Democracy are said to be numerous enough to cause the inner circle of Tammany real concern. The recalcitrants took their action at a meeting at Burgess Hall, 20 and 22 Avenue C. The Sixth District branch of the City Democracy was formed and plans were laid to spread the fight against Tammany throughout the entire district.

The resolutions unanimously adopted said in part:

"Every Democrat in New York knows very well that Tammany Hall today is a private corporation conducted solely for the personal benefits of Murphy's ring of chosen favorites who wax fat on favors while the district workers in the organization who do all the work starve for want of decent recognition which they earn.

"Murphy never does any work but roll in his limousine between Delmonico's in New York and his golf links at Good Ground, always bobbing up to pick his political tools for office regardless of what men are worthy and what the Democratic voters in the City want, and the people of New York are sick and tired of the unpopular and unrepresentative rule by which Murphy and McCooey, McAvoy and the inner circle keep their hands on the throats of decent Democrats who are striving to make the Democratic Party in the City ring true and secure with the Democratic Party as headed by President Wilson.

"Now, therefore, be it Resolved, That this club and its individual enrolled Democratic members hereby withdraw all support from Murphy and the ragbag ticket which he has named and pledges its support in the fight being waged by the City Democracy to purge the party of Murphyism and to achieve its liberation by the re-election of the ticket headed by Mayor Mitchel."

David Lazarus is the Tammany leader of the district. It was said last night that his organization has been active for several weeks trying to stem the revolt that has spread all through the district because of the manner in which the present city ticket was selected by Leader Murphy and his advisers. The City Democracy intends to make a stirring fight all through the east side with the hope of getting several thousand former loyal Tammanyites to join it. The revolt, it was said, has already spread to several districts adjoining the Sixth, and similar resolutions denouncing Tammany methods are expected to be adopted soon.

$35,000 SILK THEFT REPORTED TO POLICE

Robbers Able to Work at Leisure in Loft Building on Labor Day Holidays.

FIRM'S STOCK IS DEPLETED

Creditors Will Aid Young Men to Continue Business—Tenant Furnishes Clew.

A $35,000 robbery of silks and manufactured dress goods has been reported to the police by Benjamin Berk and Irving Hurtstein, proprietors of the Smart Set Dress Company, in a loft building at 32 West Thirty-first Street. The robbery was committed some time between Saturday before and the morning following Labor Day. When employes of the firm reached the store after the holiday they found the door had been jimmied and practically every part of the stock of the greatest value had been sorted over and removed.

The firm occupies the second floor. Two other tenants in the building have given a description of two men whom they saw entering the street corridor on Sunday and again on Monday, which was Labor Day. The street door was locked both days, but was opened frequently for the exit of tenants. One of the tenants, who says his suspicions were aroused by the action of the two men he described, said:

"When I went out a man wearing a cap rushed up to the door and held it so that it would not swing back to the catch-lock. I asked him what he wanted. He mumbled some reply and walked away. About half a block away he was joined by another man."

The members of the firm and the police believe that the thieves were frightened away by this tenant at that time, but that they returned and gained admittance to the hall when some other tenant made his exit. One of the tenants went to Police Headquarters and picked out a photograph in the Identification Bureau as bearing a close resemblance to the man whom he accosted at the street door.

"The theft has made it necessary for us to consult our creditors," said Mr. Berk "A meeting of the creditors took place today, and they have agreed to assist us in continuing the business."

THREATEN TO EXTEND TELEGRAPH STRIKE

Pennsylvania Operators Say All Eastern Divisions May Be Involved in Dispute.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, N. J., Sept. 10.—The spread of the strike of railroad telegraphers to Pennsylvania tomorrow and possibly to all Eastern Pennsylvania lines was predicted at a meeting of the strikers at their headquarters here tonight, when messages were received from committees on other divisions announcing that they would quit their posts unless the $3 a day wage demanded by the operators on New Jersey lines was granted.

Passenger train service was improved somewhat tonight, but trains were from one to three hours late. Throughout the day passenger trains were doubled up, two running on the time of one. Trolley lines paralleling the railroad were swamped with the sudden rush of traffic and used all available cars to carry the crowds.

Hundreds of commuters in New Jersey towns failed to reach their homes tonight until long after supper time as a result of the strike. The company is sacrificing its freight business, and many freight trains are stalled along the Trenton and Belvidere divisions, the operators on the latter having joined the strike. At least three of these trains are said to contain food and equipment consigned to Camp Dix at Wrightstown.

Freight agents refused tonight to accept any perishable goods for shipment, with the result that farmers were forced to rely on auto trucks to get their fruit shipments to the New York and New Jersey markets.

Reports Embargo Modified.

According to a statement issued last night by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, more of the striking telegraph operators on the Trenton Division returned to work yesterday. It was also reported that the freight embargo was modified sufficiently to allow materials to be sent to Camp Dix.

Force Germans Back in Macedonia.

BERLIN, Sept. 10—(via London.)—German advance forces northwest of Lake Malik, on the Macedonian front, yesterday retreated before superior French pressure, says the official statement issued today by the German War Office. The Teutons retired in the direction of the heights southwest of Lake Ochrida.

SEES $30,000,000 CUT IN FLOUR IN MONTH

Control of Wheat Means Tremendous Saving to Public Under Mr. Hoover's Program.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 10.—The machinery for the control of wheat and flour became effective today and Food Administrator H. C. Hoover expects that under the $2.20 wheat price, and the licensing of jobbers and middlemen a decrease of approximately $3 a barrel over the average price for the last four months, will be effective.

About 10,000,000 barrels of flour are consumed each month in the United States and if Mr. Hoover is able to put his program through successfully it will mean a saving of $30,000,000 a month, as well as a stabilization of the market.

Germany's secrets in the hollow of your hand

Beginning next Sunday, Sept. 16th, and continuing daily and Sunday for about six weeks, the

CHARACTER QUALITY ENTERPRISE ACCURACY
New York American
AN AMERICAN PAPER FOR THE AMERICAN PEOPLE

will tell New York, for the first time, the whole inside story of the underlying causes of the terrible war into which America has been plunged—revealing secrets that heretofore were known only to a few diplomats and the Kaiser's court.

The astounding story is from the pen of James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany. Many of the things which Mr. Gerard tells in his narrative were for a long time suppressed on account of their inflammatory nature for publication by a neutral power.

But, now that both countries are at war, "The time has come," says Mr. Gerard, "when this message should be given out and I have published it by permission."

The message to which he refers was a personal message from the Kaiser to President Wilson, and it is with the consent of President Wilson that Mr. Gerard has made it public. It is the message which sealed the fate of Belgium and served as the death warrant of millions of men; and the Kaiser proudly admits a purpose and an attitude that all other Germans have frantically denied.

"My Four Years in Germany"

—which appears in no other New York paper except the New York American, is a most astounding and fascinating story—dealing only in FACTS, but stranger by far than any fiction you have ever read. Most important of all—it exposes the secret ambitions of Germany and tells you—

Why Germany started the war—
What she expected to get out of it—
Why she challenged the United States—

What she did to make us fight—
Why she expects to win—
What her people still believe about America—

These and many other secrets of Germany which were guarded so carefully in Mr. Gerard's famous "little black bag," which the German Secret Service Agents tried in vain to purloin, are to be told to the people of New York, for the first time, in a most fascinating narrative by Mr. Gerard himself, in the New York American.

NATIONAL LEAGUE CHAMPIONS POUND THEIR PROBABLE SUCCESSORS TWICE

GIANTS DROP TWO GAMES TO DODGERS

LOCAL PITCHERS ARE WEAK

Demaree and Benton Almost Decapitated by Avalanche of Brooklyn Safe Hits.

The Dodgers dropped in at the Polo Grounds yesterday for the final home series of the National League season and plastered a double defeat all over McGraw's troupe. The first wrangle was a distressing little thing which Brooklyn acquired by the absurd score of 13 to 6, while the Robins squeezed the second diversion from the Giants by a 2 to 1 score.

It was only the second time this season the Giants have dropped two games, Matty's Reds turning the trick in July. Brooklyn's double triumph gives them an even break on the season's series thus far. The clubs have played eighteen games and each has won nine. The Ebbets tribe is the only one which has given New York such a close rub on the season's series.

There was more noise packed into the afternoon than is usually heard at a dozen ball games. There were three regiments of strong-lunged soldiers, the Seventy-first, the Twelfth, and the Twenty-third. The Twenty-third comes from Brooklyn and they had a fine old time. The other two regiments rooted for the Giants, but they had little to yell about.

Clark Griffith, who openly admits that he is the manager of the Washington Club of the American League, some time ago started a fund asking all baseball fans for two bits to buy bats and balls for the army. This was one of the brightest notions that has been originated for the soldiers' welfare, and yesterday Griffith was on hand and presented the three regiments with bats, balls, and gloves enough to equip half a dozen nines in each regiment.

Soldiers Cheer at Gifts.

Unlike most gift-giving ceremonies on the ball field, the soldiers smiled and grinned and looked happy. When a ball player is presented with anything the other players stand around with long faces as if they were at a funeral. The three regimental bands played lively tunes and the soldiers sang " Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here! " and even if the Giants didn't play like champions, the boys in khaki had a fine time. And, another thing, no one can say anything against Clark Griffith, while the soldiers are within earshot, and be comfortable.

After watching the Giants in that first affair no one would imagine that they were going to win that old pennant of crepe de chine or silk or gingham or whatever it is made of. The way they played wouldn't get them a pennant of mosquito netting. Al Demaree started to pitch for the Giants and he didn't last long enough to get warm. He was batted out of the box in the second inning after the Dodgers had made three hits and four runs. Otto Miller drove in two with a single and Pfeffer pushed over the other two with a triple. Anderson took a try at pitching and was succeeded in the fifth by Tesreau.

In the seventh, when Hickman and Wheat had doubled off Tesreau and Krueger had walked, filling the bases, Benton was called in as lifesaver. Benton was seized with a violent attack of generosity and after he had forced in a couple of runs with passes, a collection of hits and stolen bases gave the Dodgers a flock of seven wild runs.

The Giants bunched hits on Pfeffer in the first and fifth and up to that seventh spasm were in the lead. In the fifth, Benny Kauff was hit on the funny bone by a pitched ball. Umpire Klem didn't want to let him take his base, and Otto Miller came forth with an argument that the ball had hit the bat and not Benny's funny bone. Benjamin rolled up his sleeve and showed every one who wanted to look just where the ball hit him. Benny admitted that it didn't look like a bad wound, but he said it hurt like a toothache. Klem weakened at the sight of Benny's exposed arm and allowed him to go to first.

Miller Chased by Klem.

Miller informed Klem that he didn't know the difference between a sore arm and a broken leg, and, just for that, Miller was expelled from school for whispering that way during recitations. When Miller was walking to the bench, he wished he had General Sherman's vocabulary and he would tell this Klem something.

Benton certainly can take punishment, for he came back in the second game for more. Rube Marquard was on the hillock for Brooklyn. Benton's generosity was still with him and in the first inning, after Olson had doubled and Daubert had singled, Benton intercepted Burns's throw to the plate and then very joyfully tossed the ball into centre field, while the two Dodgers scored.

The shock of Brooklyn winning two games was so great that not only the crowd of 10,000 groaned, but the clock on the right field fence stopped. They had to dump a bottle of cough syrup in the works before the clock recovered.

The Giants got their only run of this last tilt in the fourth, when, with two gone, Olson made a familiar play by booting Fletcher's grounder. " Fletch " scampered home on Jimmy Smith's two-base smash to centre. Olson made up for this error in the seventh when he saved the game for the Dodgers. With one down, Smith singled to right and went to second on Krueger's error. Holke fanned and Lew McCarty was walked intentionally.

Baird, the Giants' sensational young infielder from the University of Louisiana, made his debut when he was sent in to run for McCarty, who is still unable to romp the bases on account of his injured leg. Rariden was elected to hit for Benton and Bill pounded a terrific liner some feet over Olson's head. Ivan stuck his gloved hand into the azure and hauled down the drive, killing a rally which promised to give the Giants the game.

The double destruction of the Giants yesterday shaved their lead down to nine games, because the Phillies broke even with the Braves. McGraw's crowd has two more double-headers to play with Brooklyn, today and tomorrow, and they have an idea they will make the Robins pay dearly for the uproariousness of yesterday.

PHILLIES GET EVEN BREAK.

Take First Game, 5 to 2, but Lose to Braves in Second, 12 to 2.

BOSTON, Sept. 10.—Boston and Philadelphia again split even in a double-header today. Tyler's wildness aided Alexander greatly in winning the first game, 5 to 2. Evers was put out of this game for disputing a called strike on Schulte. In the second contest Boston hammered Lavender for twelve runs, all but one of them earned, while Ragan struck out eleven men.

STEALS HOME WITH GAME.

Smith's Dash to Plate Enables the Cards to Beat Pirates.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 10.—Smith's steal of home in the third inning today enabled St. Louis to win the first game of the final series with Pittsburgh, 2 to 1. With Smith on third and Miller on first and two out, Jacobs tossed to Mollwitz trying to get Miller off first. When he did so Smith dashed for the plate, scoring.

YANKS OVERWHELM CELLAR MEN TWICE

Mack's Clan Unable to Solve Fisher or Monroe—Loses 10 to 1 and 5 to 1.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The Mackmen could do little with the pitching of Ray Fisher and Ed Monroe here this afternoon, and the Yankees scored victories in both ends of the double-header with Connie's team. The New Yorks hit the ball in timely fashion all through the double bill, took full advantage of the home team's misplays, and won easily each time. The scores were 10 to 1 in the first game and 5 to 1 in the second.

A pinch hitter, injected into the first game after two were out in the ninth, robbed Ray Fisher of a shutout, much to the disgust of the New York boxman. Up to the ninth inning Fisher had allowed one clean single and a scratch hit. With one out in the ninth inning McInnis got the third hit off Fisher, and went to second on Palmer's infield out. Griffin, a recruit from the Texas League, batted for Haley, and his single to right sent McInnis home.

The Yankees settled all doubts about the game in the second inning, when they chalked up seven runs. A poor throw by Witt started the trouble; then came doubles by Baker and Pipp, a single by Nunamaker, and another poor throw by Witt. Passes to Gilhooley and High, Peck's single, and a sacrifice fly by Hendryx followed in quick succession, Schauer replacing Seibold just before Peck singled.

Schauer held the Yanks well in check, and with good support would not have been scored upon. In the first Palmer missed Gedeon's roller, Baker doubled, and two infield outs sent two more runs over when perfect play would have blanked the Yanks. In the ninth Peck's pop fly dropped safely between three Mackmen, and he scored on Gedeon's single and Pipp's sacrifice fly.

The second game was a pitching battle between Monroe and Myers for four innings, and then the Yankees began to forge to the front. It was Monroe's first complete game as a major leaguer, and he gave a fine account of himself, though reached for ten hits. The blows were well scattered, and Monroe pitched fine ball with men on the bases, almost getting a shutout.

The Yanks drove Myers off the hill with six hits in the sixth and seventh innings. They scored in the fifth on High's walk, an infield out, and Gedeon's double to left. In the sixth Pipp, Monroe, Gilhooley, and High hit safely and Myers handed out a pass with the bases filled, forcing in a run. In the seventh Nunamaker singled, and counted on Monroe's double to right. Gedeon's double, an infield out, and Nunamaker's single sent in the last run in the ninth inning.

Griffin, whose hit robbed Fisher of a shutout, deprived Monroe of the same honor in the seventh with a sacrifice fly to Hendryx after Myers had tripled.

Donovan shook up his batting order, putting Gilhooley at the top, Hendryx in the clean-up position, and Pipp in seventh place.

N. Y. U. TO HAVE ELEVEN.

Football Schedule Announced to Open on Oct. 6.

F. H. Cann, director of athletics at New York University, has announced that New York University will have a football team this Fall, and will follow out the recommendation of the National Collegiate Association. No coach has been secured, as Coach Eustis, who coached last year, is in national service. It will be a difficult matter to get out a team, since practically all of last year's squad has entered some branch of service.

Howard Cann, the Captain, has a commission as Ensign in the navy. Teddy Cann, his brother, who made such a fine reputation as a running mate to his brother as half back, is also in the navy. Of the twenty-seven men who played in 'Varsity games last Fall, only three will be back at college. There will be no training table, and practice will begin after the opening of college.

The schedule:

Oct. 6, R. P. I., at Troy; Oct. 13, Rochester, at New York; Oct. 20, Wesleyan, at New York; Oct. 27, Union, at New York; Nov. 6, Trinity, at New York; Nov. 10, Rhode Island State, at New York; Nov. 17, Stevens, at Hoboken; Nov. 24, Columbia, at South Field.

HEARNE ENTERS AUTO RACE.

Wealthy Sportsman Will Compete for Harkness Trophy.

Eddie Hearne, a wealthy driver, will return to the track, after an absence of four years, when he competes in the Harkness Cup race, to be contested on the Sheepshead Bay Speedway on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 22. The wealthy sportsman signified his intention of competing in the only auto classic of the year to Promoter William H. Wellman last night.

Hearne is the fifth one of the prominent drivers to enter the race to date. Louis Chevrolet, Ralph De Palma, Ira Vail and Mulford entered last week. Wellman expects to line up the other twenty-eight drivers in the race the early part of next week. Hearne will pilot his own Duesenberg, in which he has attained a speed of more than 112 miles an hour.

In his day Hearne was one of the foremost drivers in Vanderbilt Cup and Grand Prix competitions. He first began driving ten years ago, and quickly earned his place as one of the best wheel manipulators in the country. Owing to the fact that Hearne has not engaged in competitive racing for about four years, he is regarded as the " dark horse " for the coming classic for the $10,000 cup.

TO STAGE AMATEUR BOUTS.

Crescent A. C. Will Begin Two-Day Tourney Sept. 24.

The local amateur boxing season, which has been inactive since the New York Athletic Club officials discontinued their Summer shows, will be ushered in again on Sept. 24, when the opening night's boxing of a two nights' tournament will be held at the Crescent Athl-pounds, and it is expected that the leading boxers of the metropolitan district will enter the tournament.

ZULU KID TO MEET GREB.

Ted Kid Lewis and Britton Also on St. Nicholas Bill Friday.

It was definitely decided yesterday that Zulu Kid, the sturdy Brooklyn middleweight boxer, will test the ability of Harry Greb of Pittsburgh, in the latter's initial New York appearance at the St. Nicholas A. C. on Friday night. Manager Jimmy Johnston of the St. Nicholas club, chose Zulu Kid from the local crop of middleweights, as the one most likely to give Greb a stiff engagement for ten rounds. The Pittsburgh boxer comes to this city with an enviable reputation, his most recent notable achievement being a decisive victory over the veteran light-heavyweight, Battling Levinsky.

Two other interesting bouts of ten rounds are scheduled, in which the abilities of the contending boxers give this card the promise of being the best held in this city this year. Ted Kid Lewis of England, the welterweight champion, and Jack Britton, the Chicago boxer who formerly held the welterweight title, are the other two prominent boxers scheduled to appear. Lewis will box Jimmy O'Hagen, the Albany middleweight, while Britton will be opposed by Marty Cross, the East Side welterweight.

Bantamweights Box Tonight.

Bantamweight boxers will hold the centre of the stage this evening at the weekly show of the Pioneer S. C. In the main ten-round contest Frankie Burns, the veteran of Jersey City, will box Patsy Brannigan, the sturdy Pittsburgh boxer, who has just returned from a successful tour of Australia. The principals in the other ten-round exhibition will be Georgie Maas of Harlem and Frankie Daly of Staten Island.

HOURLESS SCORES AFTER LONG REST

Belmont Contender for 3-Year-Old Honors Shows Speed, Winning Mile Race.

August Belmont's Hourless, the only contender against Omar Khayyam for three-year-old honors, emerged from his long retirement yesterday at Belmont Park and in breezing home in front of Walnut Hall and Queen of the Water showed that he is ready to meet Omar Khayyam in the Lawrence Realization Stakes, which will be the closing attraction of the meeting next Saturday.

Hourless carried 130 pounds, four more than stake weight, and reeled off the mile in 1:38 1-5. He was under a strong pull all the way, and continued on for another quarter mile in order to get a real work-out for the Realization, which is over the long distance of a mile and a half. The Belmont crack was timed for the mile and a quarter in 2:07 3-5.

It was a mighty good performance though the essence of competition was lacking, the reputation of the winner having led to the scratching of all except two three-year-olds of mediocre quality. The first appearance of Hourless since he was decisively beaten in the Brooklyn Derby by Omar Khayyam was impressive and proved that he has entirely recovered from the skin disease that kept him in the barn while Omar Khayyam was reaping more laurels at Saratoga.

This presages the greatest three-year-old struggle of the year next Saturday, for the great Omar, though at present in Maryland, will be shipped here for the crowning effort of his career, according to Trainer R. F. Carman, who was present yesterday to see Hourless go through the motions of a race.

Though the handsome son of Negofol aroused the admiration of the crowd the chief plaudits were reserved for the diminutive jockey, J. Petz, who exhibited pluck and nerve in trying circumstances that have seldom, if ever, been equaled on a race course. Little Petz, who scales at less than 100 pounds, had the mount on C. G. Quinn's Nashville, the second choice in the fifth race, for selling platers. Nashville had developed such a bad temper that he came on the track hitched to a stable pony. Even this was irksome to the high-spirited horse, and directly in front of the judges' stand he began to fight and buck. Turning sideways he managed to unseat Petz and broke away from the pony, but not from the jockey, who held on to reins.

Petz remounted and the horse reared and kicked until, unable to dislodge his rider in any other way, he reared on his hind legs and then fell backwards. Like a Wild West rider Petz slipped out of the saddle and still controlled the fractious animal by holding the reins. Twice more the furious horse repeated this trick, but each time found his master in the little jockey, while the crowd cheered the lad on every occasion. Then Petz hooked his refractory mount to the saddle pony again and rode him to the post.

Once more Petz was dismounted when at the barrier, but finally Nashville got away to finish last. Even the mile race had not cured him, and after pulling up Petz got his worst fall on the way back to weigh out. The horses backed up against the fence and it looked as though the brave little chap would be crushed, but again he slipped off and avoided danger. There was a further greeting for Petz when he returned to the scales, leading Nashville. Needless to say he received no rebuke from the officials for dismounting without permission.

Edward M. Weld's St. Charlcote won a well-contested steeplechase from Cherry Malotte, coming from behind and taking the lead after clearing the last jump.

NORSE GIRL DEFEATS RIVAL.

Molla Bjurstedt Turns Tables on Mary Browne, 6—1, 6—3.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 10.—The touring tennis stars, who have been giving exhibitions for the War Ambulance Fund, completed their Philadelphia stay by playing several matches at the Germantown Cricket Club today. Miss Molla Bjurstedt, Norway, turned the tables on Miss Mary Browne, California, by beating the Western player, 6—1, 6—3.

C. S. Garland, Pittsburgh, defeated George Throckmorton, Elizabeth, N. J., 6—3, 6—2. In the men's doubles match John Strachan, California, and F. B. Alexander, New York, beat Wallace F. Johnson, Philadelphia, and S. H. Voshell, Brooklyn, 6—4, 8—6.

MISS LOWERRE A VICTOR.

Defeats Mrs. Pritchard, 6—2, 3—6, 6—2, for Yonkers Tennis Title.

Profiting by the erratic play of her opponent, Miss Madeline Lowerre defeated Mrs. W. H. Pritchard at 6—2, 3—6, 6—2 in the final of the women's singles for the championship of Yonkers at the Park Hill Country Club yesterday. Miss Lowerre played well, had a good command of a well-placed cut stroke, and was steadier than Mrs. Pritchard.

These women have met many times, and are so evenly matched that victory has alternated between them. It seems that it was Miss Lowerre's day yesterday. Mrs. Pritchard had little speed on her drives, and in attempting to hit harder she sent the ball out of court or else into the net. Miss Lowerre played a back-court game entirely, and relied on her court-covering ability to disarm the volleying of Mrs. Pritchard. Mrs. Pritchard made considerable headway in the second set, when she better placed her shots, but she became wild again in the third set and failed.

EKWANOK TO HOLD TOURNEY

Three-Day Amateur Golf Event Will Start on Thursday.

The Ekwanok Country Club at Manchester-in-the-Mountains, Vt., will hold a three-day amateur golf tournament, which is open to any amateur player in the country, beginning Thursday of this week. There will be a qualifying round of eighteen holes Thursday morning, and three sixteens will qualify for match play rounds Thursday afternoon, Friday, and Saturday. All match play competition will be at eighteen holes excepting the final.

There will be a medal handicap all day Saturday. Prizes will be offered for the best gross score in the qualifying round and for runners-up in each sixteen. Entries close tomorrow evening with James L. Taylor, Chairman of the Ekwanok Tournament Committee.

GOLF STARS OFF FOR WEST.

Leading Pros to Compete in Open Championship at Chicago.

Most of the leading golf professionals of the New York district have departed for Chicago and the Western open championship to be played at Westmoreland Thursday and Friday. Accompanying the New York contingent were several of the shining lights of Boston and Philadelphia. Gilbert Nicholls of Great Neck and Walter B. Hagen of Rochester were the outstanding stars of the party. Hagen is the present holder of the Western title, and is going out to defend his laurels.

Nicholls leaves with high hopes, since his game has been near record value for more than a year. His play in the South last Winter was superior to any of the professionals, and in the many exhibitions in which he has been engaged of late he has been upsetting General Par consistently. On Sunday Nicholls toured the Rochester course, home of Hagen, in a record 69.

Mike Brady, the Massachusetts open champion, and Louis Tellier, former French champion, and now Brookline favorite, joined the New York contingent. James Barnes of Whitemarsh Valley, champion last year of the professionals, and Eddie Loos of the Philadelphia Cricket Club, winner of the Shawnee open, will be the main exponents from Philadelphia.

There are to be several special events at Westmoreland, beginning today, but the championship proper will not begin until Thursday, when a 36-hole round will be played. The best sixty-four will play 36 more holes Friday to decide the title.

WEATHER CURTAILS CARD AT SYRACUSE

Only Two Races Run Off on First Day of Grand Circuit Meeting.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Unfavorable weather conditions marred the opening of the Grand Circuit race meeting here today. Overnight rains made the track slow, but, notwithstanding adverse conditions, remarkable time was made in the two events of the revised card.

Letanna S., by Ono, driven by Snow, captured the 2:20 trot in three straight heats, while Bertha McGuire had an equally easy time in the Ka Noo No $2,000 purse for three-year-olds.

On the Rhine threw Driver Tallman and ran away coming up for the start of the third heat of the 2:20 trot. He made the round of the track, but was stopped by a number of the mounted New York State Constabulary in an exciting chase which ended in front of the grand stand. Tallman was not injured.

The Battle Royal 2:04 trot, scheduled to open the card today, was postponed until tomorrow on account of the heavy track. Mabel Trask, Walter Cox's chestnut mare, again will battle for supremacy with St. Frisco, son of San Francisco, Al Mack, and Miss Directed.

'RAMBLER ROSE' OPENS THE EMPIRE

ADA MEADE THE PEPPER-BOX

Rosamond Lee	Julia Sanderson
Joseph Guppy	Joseph Cawthorn
Gerald Morton	John Goldsworth
Marcel Petipas	Stewart Baird
Timothy Briggs	George E. Mack
Willis	George Egan
A Farmer's Boy	W. H. Bentley
Angele	Ada Meade
Lady Cloverdale	Kate Sergeantson
Claire	Ethel Boyd
Blanche	Doris Predo
Dora	Wilma Walton
Tita	Gladys Siddons

The Empire Theatre, long sacred at this season to John Drew, was opened last night by Julia Sanderson and Joseph Cawthorn in a musical comedy pleasantly entitled "Rambler Rose." Miss Sanderson was the Rose, and through three acts she rambled after John Goldsworth, who succumbed at last to her persistent charm, abetted by jealousy of a trumped-up rival.

Rose was disclosed as a boarding school girl who paid for her tuition by serving as general drudge. The only bright spot in her existence lay in the fact that the blue gown which symbolized her servitude was some ten shades handsomer than the clothes of her fellow-pupils, the chorus. Strangely enough, this fortune stood by her through the evening; for when, in the second act, she followed her adamantine swain to his studio in Paris, she fell into a gypsy costume for the masked ball which was a wonderful moonlight shimmer of silver and blue.

And here fortune began to smile also upon her heart. Cupid, allied with the green-eyed monster and Harry B. Smith, the librettist, began to open the eyes of Mr. Goldsworth. The final scene, in the Casino garden at Deauville, showed that, as always in the theatre, the combination of love and jealousy is irresistible. It is a pleasant enough story, and Miss Sanderson sang and danced very pleasantly indeed; but one was obliged to look elsewhere for the touch of novelty.

Novelty is not precisely Mr. Cawthorn's middle name; but, thanks to Mr. Smith, he has an abundance of neat verbal turns and shrewd observations, which never failed to give fresh delight to the audience. Really, one forgets from time to time how racy and authentic Mr. Smith's persiflage can be. And from time to time perhaps Mr. Smith also forgets it. Or perhaps the occasional fault lies in the fact that no comedian is at hand as finished in method and as breezy in personality as Mr. Cawthorn. Be that as it may, this comic understudy of Miss Sanderson's lover proved capitally diverting and kept the house from reflecting overmuch on the familiarity of other items in the evening.

Perhaps the most novel and finished bit in the performance was "Poor Little Rich Girl's Dog," which Mr. Cawthorne, having confessed to an absence of voice, frankly recited. The program credits the "words and music" to Irving Berlin. Mr. Berlin still has the music. If it is as charming as the words it is a valuable possession.

The genuine surpirse of the evening was scored by Ada Meade. She made her first appearance in the studio scene in the second act, and sang a song, with a chorus of models, which quickened the pulses of the audience as they had not been quickened before. It was a much-needed dash from the pepper box, and Miss Meade was recalled again and again. Unfortunately her part—that of an "actress" who distributes minor favors at schedule prices, and makes up to an old Brazilian for his money—was drawn along conventional lines, never really funny, and thereafter the impression languished. But certainly it is due to the play and to the audience to give Miss Meade a second opportunity in the final act.

John Goldsworth and Stewart Baird played contributory parts with distinction. George E. Mack did what was possible with the familiar character of the rich Brazilian. The music, by Victor Jacobi, was pleasant and tuneful, but about as original as the plot and general characterization.

Bernhardt Begins Last Week Here.

Sarah Bernhardt's final week in New York began yesterday, and large audiences greeted her at the Knickerbocker at both matinée and evening performances. In the afternoon Mme. Bernhardt played "La Mort de Cleopatre" and in the evening she appeared as Joan in "Le Proces de Jeanne d'Arc" and as the heroine of "Vitrail," a slender dramatic episode which she added to her repertory about a year ago. The same programs will be followed at the two performances today.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Tyrone Powers, who has been acting exclusively for the films for the last four seasons, will return to the stage to ploy the title role in "Chu Chin Chow," coming to the Manhattan Opera House next month. The part was acted in London by Oscar Asche, the author.

Holbrook Blinn has been engaged to stage Ernest Wilkes's play, "Broken Threads," which the Pacific Theatre Corporation will soon offer here. Cyril Keightley and Francis E. Byrne will head the cast.

The opening of "The Family Exit" will take place on Wednesday of next week, instead of Tuesday.

GRANVILLE AT THE PALACE.

Bernard Granville, transformed from a dancer in the "Follies" to a private in the Seventy-first Regiment, heads the program at the Palace this week in an act which has recruiting as its main purpose. Granville is accompanied by Earl Carroll, also a recent addition to the army, and about twenty-five of his comrades. Drills, songs, and a recruiting speech make up the offering, and the naïvete of a majority of the soldiers does much to make the proceedings amusing.

Ray and Gordon Dooley have taken unto themselves a third member of the family, William by name, and the result is a hilarious offering, which embraces much of the well-known Dooley material. Lucille Cavanagh remains for a third week of dancing, and the bill also includes the Avon Comedy Four and Bonita and Lew Hearn.

"The Conqueror" Shown on Screen.

"The Conqueror," a film based on the life of Sam Houston, began an engagement last night at the Globe heatre. The already romantic story of Houston's career is enhanced for screen purposes by a villain and a happy ending, and the result is good movie entertainment and at least reasonably accurate history. William Farnum impersonated Houston.

Stage Folk to Help Red Cross.

Daniel Frohman was Chairman yesterday of a record gathering of stage celebrities called together to discuss the national pageant of the Red Cross at Rosemary Farm, Huntington, L. I., on the afternoon of Oct. 5. A program was laid out, and rehearsals will commence at once. Viola Allen was one of the retired stars who attended. E. H. Sothern came from Litchfield, Conn., and Mrs. John Alden Carpenter from Chicago for the meeting. There were addresses by Mr. Frohman, Thomas Wood Evans, director, and Evan Evans, business direct r of the pageant.

Some of the well-known actors and singers present were Mme. Frances Alda, Ethel Barrymore, John Barrymore, Blanche Bates, Alice Brady, Richard Bennett, Barney Bernard, Holbrook Blinn, Louis Calvert, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Alexander Carr, Miss Hazel Dawn, Harry Davenport, Miss Mario Doro, Miss Josephine Drake, William Faversham, Miss Irene Fenwick, Miss Emma Frohman, Miss Grace Goodall, Miss Grace George, Miss Kitty Gordon, Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, Ben Ali Haggin, George Hassell, Shelley Hull, Mrs. James K. Hackett, Miss Julie Hern, Miss Louis Glosser Hale, Mrs. H. B. Harris, Miss Gladys Hansen, Miss Rita Jolivet, Miss Clara Joel, Miss Louise Kelley, Howard Kyle, Miss Grace La Rue, Wilton Lackaye, Major Wallace McCutcheon, Reginald Mason, Miss Edith Wynne Mathison, Miss Florence Malone, Henry Mortimer, Miss Maud O'Dell, Miss Julie Opp, Miss Adelaide Prince, Miss Dollie Quackenbos, Miss Marjorie Rambeau, Mrs. Rambeau, William Rock, Miss Zelad Sears, Vincent Sorrano, E. H. Sothern, Frederick Truesdell, Ernest Truex, Miss Olive Tell, Miss Rose Winter, Miss Helen Ware, Miss Peggy Wood, and Douglas Wood.

Clean—Smooth Trans-Mountain Travel via the "Electric Way" to the Pacific Northwest

The "St. Paul's" great achievement, the electrification of 440 miles of main line through the Belt, Rocky and Bitter Roots has established a new era in railroading—the electric.

No trailing smoke hides mountain splendors—travel is clean, smooth, silent. Giant electric locomotives fed only by the limitless power of mountain waterfalls haul the famous all-steel trains—"The Olympian" and "The Columbian" over the mile high passes of the Continental Divide with ease.

And soon steam will give place to electricity in the Cascades, Washington, as the railway is electrifying the 211 miles of main line through this range of mountains.

When next you journey to Spokane, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland and other Pacific Northwest cities enjoy the delights of electric travel via the

KERENSKY AND KORNILOFF.

KERENSKY should at all hazards have avoided a break with General KORNILOFF. They are both strong men, they are both patriots, the same motives actuate them, both want to make Russia free and strong, and KERENSKY, like KORNILOFF, is convinced that the first step toward freedom and strength must be deliverance from the peril of anarchy and utter disorganization which now besets the Russian people. Russia has need of their united strength, and KERENSKY'S dismissal of General KORNILOFF from his army command because of the General's demand that the civil and military power be surrendered into his hands is very likely only the beginning of a period of new and perhaps more violent disturbance in Russia.

The rupture between the two men occurred at the Moscow Conference upon a question as to which KORNILOFF was in the right. The General insisted that discipline in the army could be restored only by the reestablishment of extreme penalties for cowardice and treason at the front. The demoralization of the army was evident from the moment when the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, insisting upon the establishment of democratic principles in the regiments, authorized the soldiers to form committees to deliberate concerning orders issued and determine whether they should be obeyed, when the death penalty was abolished, when the soldiers were encouraged to feel that they were every inch as good as their officers and might dispense with salutes and all forms of courtesy. The inevitable result followed when the Russian troops abandoned their great gains in Galicia and ran away, when they began their foolish fraternization with the German soldiers, and in the case of some regiments made what they called a separate peace with the foe. The army, in short, became a worthless instrument. KORNILOFF sought to rebuild its strength and make it again a force for the defense of Russia.

KERENSKY could not afford to quarrel with KORNILOFF on such an issue. The comparison of his own achievements with what KORNILOFF sought to achieve is fatal to his reputation. He has for some time exercised greater power than any man in Russia, but in spite of what was at first gained by his bravery, his ability, and his inspiring example, it must be confessed with all regret that Russia is worse off than when he assumed power, not exactly as a dictator, but as head of the Government exercising more power than any other man or institution in Russia. The retreat in the south has not been stayed. Riga has been lost, and there, too, some of the Russian troops ran away, although others made a stand against the Germans. Conservatives have been driven from the Ministry. There have been riots in Petrograd, the Bolsheviki has been more impudent than ever, the Council shows few signs of returning sanity, the disorganization of railway traffic has not been cured, but has become worse, until there is great alarm because of the inadequate means for food distribution, and preparations are being made to remove a large proportion of the population of Petrograd to other towns and cities, not so much, it appears, for fear of German capture as because of the scarcity of food at the capital. Meanwhile, the ruble exchange has fallen rapidly, until in this market it marks a depreciation of nearly 70 per cent. Confidence in the ability of Russia to save itself and continue the fight against the common enemy has sunk to so low a level in the allied countries that neither England nor France nor the United States has now anything more than a faint hope that Russia may again become a factor in the war.

Since KERENSKY has failed and KORNILOFF did propose measures fundamental and primarily essential to the salvation of Russia, it is difficult to resist the belief that the wrong man has been removed in Russia. This belief is confirmed by consideration of the forces which, respectively, are arrayed in support of KERENSKY and of KORNILOFF. KERENSKY, with all his patriotism and recent exhibitions of sanity, cannot altogether escape the implications and influences of his political origin as a Social Revolutionist. Dr. C. HAGBERG WRIGHT, in the Contemporary Review for August, points out that the revolution in Russia naturally took its character from the nature of the forces which brought it about. It was largely the work of Social Democrats and Social Revolutionists, and "a revolt which placed power in "the hands of these men was not a "victory for constitutional government—it was a victory for the Red "Flag." Socialism and the class struggle are leading Russia straight to perdition. KORNILOFF represented a reaction, not toward the old autocracy of the Czar but toward order and reason. His communication to KERENSKY demanding that civil and military power be given into his hands was delivered by Deputy LVOFF, who represented an organization of the Duma's members, of Moscow industrial interests, of many Conservatives who at the Moscow Conference were supporters of General KORNILOFF.

It was their purpose to check the work of the forces of destruction that brought Russia so near to the brink and begin the work of rebuilding in the only way, probably, that now would save the country—by the authority of the strong hand. Things have gone so far in the usual senseless way of revolutions that in all probability order will be restored in Petrograd and throughout Russia only when the "Little Corporal" of this revolution comes to the fore. Certainly there will never be peace and order in Russia, there will never be a beginning of a workable Government, to say nothing of the further prosecution of the war, until the mass ignorance responsible for the beginning of the socialistic class struggle at this dangerous moment has been sent about its business and the affairs of the country have been put into the hands of conservative men of intelligence, of reason, of firmness, and of patriotism that regard the welfare of the whole, not of the part.

The immediate outcome will depend chiefly upon the action and power of KORNILOFF. If he has the support of a considerable part of the army he may be able to defy KERENSKY and turn the tables on him in a way that will put the Government of Russia into safer and stronger hands than have yet controlled it. There need be no fear that he would seek the restoration of the autocracy, although that cry would, of course, be raised against him by the fanatical Socialists. The danger is, of course, that the ignorance of socialism and German intrigue will so divide the army that KORNILOFF will find himself without sufficient backing to enforce his will.

STARVING ENGLAND.

The figures which we published yesterday in Mr. GRASTY'S London cable dispatch clearly demonstrate one thing and strongly suggest another. They demonstrate that the submarine campaign, Germany's "last card," cannot starve out England this year or the next. They suggest that, if starvation is to be the conqueror, Germany will be starved before England will. The net loss to the shipping of the world since the year began is about three and a half million tons, which is about 437,000 tons a month. This is a long way from a million tons a month, and it is a long way from anything that will really bring England within reach of starvation. The average is lowered by the small showing made in January, but that is made up by the great spurt the submarines made in April. As for February, the submarine activity and success were as great then as in March and greater than in August, though August had five weeks and February only four. The last two months were the poorest, in the showing made by the submarines, since January, the poorest since the war on the shipping of the whole world was officially declared. A new spurt, a dead-lift effort, is expected in September, but at best it will not go above the record month of April, and will be succeeded by the inevitable relaxation to which the records of the successive months have accustomed us in such cases.

At this rate England, while doomed to hardship, is safe from starvation. But Germany is not. "In this respect "the Lord of Creation has granted our "prayers," said the Kaiser at Riga; but the blockade is constantly tightening, and the time is at hand when the convenient neutral will cease to hand over furtively the supplies he gets from us. Whether Germany starves or not, she is already closer to it than England is, and as time goes on she will not get further away. If neither of them starves, yet the German plan for starving England, the "last card," is a demonstrated failure, and in the race for food it is not Germany, but England, that leads; nor is there any way in sight to take her lead away from her.

AN APPEAL TO THE SOCIALISTS IN AMERICA.

The majority of the American Socialist Party has been a steady partisan of Germany since the beginning of the European war. Since the American declaration of war, it has steadily labored against the United States. A minority comprising its ablest and most respected members has seceded from it because of this unpatriotic course. Some of these leaders just returned from the Minneapolis meeting of the American Alliance for Labor and Democracy have united in an appeal, written by Mr. JOHN SPARGO, to all American Socialists to "perform "their duties loyally as citizens of this "Republic, and to put all their energy "and strength, all their ardor and enthusiasm, at the disposal of our Gov"ernment, so that the war may be "carried on to a rapid and victorious "conclusion."

The Socialists are reminded that this war against "ruthless aggression and oppressive tyranny" was forced on the United States; that lasting peace, which the Socialists seek, can be attained only by the victory of the allied democracies over the allied autocracies; that German militarism is the last fortress of reaction; that only by its overthrow can the way be opened to peace, "freedom and democracy, "international fraternity and social"istic co-operation."

The German Social Democrats, proscribed and persecuted for years, coming to such strength after the repeal of the coercive laws in 1890, were as much opposed to the army, led by feudalists, as to the "capitalistic State" and the monarchy. For how many years did the Socialist Deputies refuse to hurrah for the Kaiser at the end of the Reichstag sessions; for how many years did they rage against the Kaiser and his puppet Ministers, the army, and all things Prussian; for how many years were they regarded as the enemies of GOD and man.

They were mollified gradually after 1900. When they voted for the National Defense bill in 1913, with the apology that it involved the direct taxation of property, and so was good socialism, they showed that, whether they knew it or not, they had gone over to the enemy. The "international" legend was erased. They were genuine Germans, they were faithful servants of the Kaiser, as the war has proved them to be. They followed docilely Junkerthum. They are still fighting for it in the field, and being duped by it at home.

The German Socialists are not to be blamed for being good Germans, however bad the cause they espoused. We leave to the American majority Socialists to explain why they, too, are good Germans, instead of being good Americans. "Socialists of America," says Mr. SPARGO, "join your local branches "of the American Alliance for Labor "and Democracy." Doubtless the Americans among them will.

THE ENEMY'S GROWING NEED.

There are additions every day to the accumulated evidence that Germany and Austria have not enough food, metals, or coal, and that strict enforcement of our export embargo is cutting down their imports of supplies from neighboring neutrals. Dispatches from Berlin to not unfriendly newspapers in Denmark say the Government has decided to take bronze statues from parks and other public places for munitions. A Berlin journal publishes the assertion of its correspondent in Munich that orders for confiscation of statues have already been issued in Bavaria. There are busts of the Kaiser and Crown Prince which should not be spared. In Austria, a Prague newspaper says, the pipes of church organs are now to follow thousands of church bells into the melting pot. Sweden is sending to this country a commissioner who will ask for American coal in exchange for high-grade iron ore. Germany has taken millions of tons of this ore during the war, virtually paying for it with coal, but shortage of coal prevents additional shipments of it, even at the cost of losing the ore required for large guns and other war material. Germany needs copper. Our exports of metals, even those sent to South America, must be carefully guarded.

Shortage of food in Germany and Austria is frequently reported in the current news. It has caused the expulsion of foreign residents or visitors from Budapest, and many persons confined in Hungarian prisons have been set free because the Government was unwilling to feed them. Letters taken from Austrian prisoners by the Italian Army say many in Trieste and other towns are dying for lack of nourishment. Potatoes, sugar, coffee, and oils cannot be bought at any price. It appears that only temporary relief was gained by taking the food supplies of Serbia. Thousands have died of hunger in that country, owing to the loss of grain, vegetables, and cattle. This has also been the fate of a great many prisoners in Austria. Germany feels the sharp reduction of her food imports from the northern neutrals, a reduction caused by suspension of our shipments to them and by the partial failure of their crops.

It is understood that the Export Council's Administrative Board is not inclined to modify its recent decision. Enforcement of it was shown last week, when licenses for bunker coal and cargo were withheld from a Danish steamship about to sail with several hundred passengers. Scores of loaded Dutch ships and several from Norway are still held at our ports. Indications of growing internal weakness in Germany and Austria support the board's commendable determination to prevent exports that would or might indirectly help the enemy.

WHY MIDDLE WESTERNERS LEAVE HOME.

If it were not for the Presidential and ex-Presidential approval which breaks the way for a new play recounting the none too novel story of how the virtuous and pure-hearted Middle West triumphs over rum-soaked and unrepentant Long Island, one might suspect another subterranean Teutonic plot to divide the nation against itself and promote intestine strife. As it is, one may only hope that Mr. ROOSEVELT'S forecast will be fulfilled and that service in a draft army may in some way promote a fusion of elements which our dramatists have done their best to portray as essentially irreconcilable.

We have seen a good many of these plays founded on the ancient saying that "GOD made the country and man made the town," written by authors themselves not unfamiliar with urban life. And passing over other objections which might be made to dramas of the type, it may be permissible to point out at least one feature in which they are notably untrue to life. The Middle Western hero, after confuting the Eastern caitiffs, goes back home to the Middle West to live happily ever after. If there were any statistics on immigration and re-emigration between Indiana and Ohio and the metropolis, they would probably show a heavy balance against the playwrights. Middle Westerners, like natives of any other region, when they come to New York, very often come to stay.

Why do they stay? Mr. TARKINGTON, who may be presumed to know the Middle West; Mr. STREET, who may be presumed to know Long Island, offer no explanation whatever for a phenomenon familiar enough in life, if not in literature. It cannot be that Middle Westerners love the metropolis for its wicked ways; for are they not Middle Westerners, to whom wickedness is ex hypothesi abhorrent? Nor can they have been driven from home by ears too tender to endure the rhotacism of their native clime, for few sounds are more distasteful to the Hoosier than the paragogic "r" which some residents of the North Atlantic seaboard will add to harmless words such as "law." Here is a subject for the sociologist, if not for the dramatist. People do come from Indiana and Ohio to live in New York, pace the dramatists and the fifteen-cent magazines; and, having come, they usually stay. Can it be that they like it?

Well, if it can be, nobody is going to write a play to that effect. Hoosiers and Long Islanders both thank GOD that they are not as other men are; but whereas the naive native of the Middle West is pleased to think that he is better than the rest of the universe, the New Yorker cheerfully pays two dollars and a half to see a play which tells him that he is infinitely worse. To ask playwrights to ignore this condition from mere sentimental fidelity to the truth, would be too much; for its accurate study we must depend on some such organization as the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Institute, or the National Americanization Committee.

UNCONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

United States Marshal MCCARTHY and the police did a good job in breaking up a meeting of so-called conscientious objectors on the east side. The meeting was opened by a comrade of ALEXANDER BERKMAN, and EMMA GOLDMAN was on the list of speakers. These eminent names sufficiently indicated the purposes of the conventicle. Opposition to government in general and the United States Government in particular is the profession of BERKMAN and GOLDMAN, sentenced to the penitentiary not long ago for their favorite diversions.

Marshal MCCARTHY heard these speakers attack the Government, the Conscription act, the motives of Congress, and then he stopped the proceedings, regarding the speakers' utterances as seditious. There will be no more meetings of that sort while he is Marshal. The men present were asked for their registration cards, which many of them could not show. A threatening crowd gathered outside, and the reserves had to be called out. In short, this meeting of unconscientious objectors was in the hands of anarchists and Socialists. It was attended by many apparent shirkers. It was a nucleus of disorder. Not moral or religious conviction, but want of patriotism and wealth of pro-Germanism inspired and characterized it. It was an assembly of objectors to the United States and the war.

Former Justice HUGHES has pointed out that the constitutional authority of Congress to call any one able to serve to service "is not limited by "any qualification arising from re"ligious beliefs or moral convictions." He quotes the opinion of Mr. Justice HARLAN, that a man "may be com"pelled by force, if need be, against "his will and without regard to his "personal wishes or pecuniary inter"ests, or even his religious or polit"ical convictions, to take his place in "the army of his country." The sincere owners of tender pacific consciences may be set to some other work of war than the army; but boundless are the opportunities which respect for tender pacific consciences offers to the evasion of conscription. Cowards, shirkers, men who hate not war but war with Germany—to these there must be no mercy. Marshal MCCARTHY'S collection of conscientious objectors is but another of the innumerable devices to help the enemy and hamper the United States in the war. Objectors who want to save their skins or save Germany are likely to find the Government scornful of the niceties of their convenient inward monitor.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Late, but It's Not Too Late.

This is not the best of times for making in this city a systematic, organized effort to hasten the education in Americanism of that great body of the city's inhabitants who either are of foreign birth or have hitherto lived more or less secluded from the normal influences of real American life. The reason why it is not the best time is not because the task is unimportant; only one other task—the winning of the war—is more important. The reason is not because some time in the future will be better; in spite of all the present distractions, no time in the future will be better and delay will make them all worse. It is not the best time simply because the best time was and will remain in the past, before the problem of the unassimilated immigrant and his unassimilated descendants had become as great as now, and therefore could have been solved, if not easily, at least more easily than now.

But past neglect of an obvious duty, though it imposes penalties that cannot be escaped, increases, instead of diminishes, the obligation to perform that duty, and most commendable, therefore, is the determination of our various civic officials and societies at last to take up the work of saving the resident alien from himself—of helping him to become something more and better than a distrustful and often hostile stranger in a land that remains strange to him—a land where he is among us but not of us.

The originators of this belated—but not too belated—campaign to Americanize America have wisely realized that their undertaking needs for success something more than good intentions—that the soldiers who enlist in this war, as in others, must have knowledge and training before they go into battle. That realization is quite the most promising feature of the case as it stands, for the so-called foreign colonies in the city will never be changed to mere temporary homes for the newly arrived immigrant that would have an excuse for being, from the permanent abiding places which for too many they too often are, until their nature is thoroughly understood and the right means of effecting the rapid removal of their occupants have been found. Pressure as well as persuasion must be brought to bear on these colonists, and they must be convinced of the truth that as long as they remain apart from their neighbors in language, customs, and ideas most of them will be less well off here than they would have been had they remained at home.

Forgetting Patriotism for Profit.

Fully justifiable complaint is made by the parents, relatives, and friends of the young men now starting for the training camps that some of the tradesmen dealing in those minor articles of a soldier's equipment which are not supplied by the Government are exploiting them ruthlessly by charging for the articles in question prices not warranted by the cost of manufacture and distribution.

Nobody likes to haggle over purchases of this kind, and in very many cases there is no time, before the departure for France or the training camp of the young man in whom a special interest is taken, for a long search through the shops for one where the determination to make the utmost possible profit is less in evidence. These facts are realized by conscienceless tradesmen, and they are taking full advantage of conditions created in part by necessity and in part by sentiment to make these purchasers pay anywhere from twice to four or five times what would be reasonable prices for the few—the pathetically few—things that a recruit is allowed to carry in addition to the accoutrements listed in the army regulations.

It is upon the possession of these things, however, that the soldier is dependent for the modicum of comfort attainable by him in mitigation of the inevitable hardships and tediums of life in camp and at the front. In many instances they can be given to him only by friends not too well supplied with money, and what they cannot buy he must do without. The matter, though not one of first importance, by any means, is yet not a trivial one, and it deserves immediate attention.

The sort of attention that would be most satisfactory was illustrated at Port Jefferson on Sunday, when a resolute army officer who had received a hint of robbery in progress walked up to a bus loaded with soldiers and asked where they were going and what they were to pay for the ride. They told him that their destination was less than a mile away and that the charge was $1 each. Thereupon that officer ordered the men out of the bus and told the driver of it that if seen in that vicinity again his professional career would come to a sudden and permanent conclusion. Those were not the exact words used, but that was their meaning, and his particular method of exploiting soldier needs at Port Jefferson ceased at once.

The dealers who are making like unconscionable charges for the articles that go in a kit bag—and for the kit bag itself—cannot be reformed in quite the same summary way, but that it cannot be done is a pity.

An Episode of War in Herkimer.

Before the drafted men in the Second Herkimer District started for camp last week the people of the vicinage took care to express their appreciation of the young soldiers and their feeling of obligation by assembling to give them an enthusiastic farewell. Of course, the occasion being what it was, there were speeches, and of course, the place being Herkimer, the chief oration of the day was delivered by former United States Senator WARNER MILLER. His qualifications for the task were several, and included not only the ability to make a good speech, but the special right to address soldiers that is possessed by one who in his vigorous old age could tell the boys before him that in other days he had himself marched off to war, and therefore could speak with knowledge of what their experiences were going to be.

The Senator said all the things that should be said at such a time. He preached the sound doctrine of patriotism, and he told what the war was about, why the United States was in it, and that courage and a good cause made victory certain. Incidentally he utilized the opportunity to make some decidedly forceful remarks about a local organization recently formed in the county, by name the General Nicholas Herkimer Homestead Association.

The Senator's objection to it rested on the fact that nobody could belong who was not also a member of the German-American Alliance, and, in his quite openly expressed opinion, a group so limited was the reverse of American, for, he said, he had yet to hear of a single instance when the members of that alliance had "resolved against the despotism of Prussia or in favor of the liberties of America." The second half of this criticism will hardly stand now, but the first half does. Senator MILLER, as he told the soldier boys, is himself of German descent, so he isn't prejudiced against Germans as such, but his dislike for exclusion from any body of Herkimer's residents is easily understandable.

THE TIGHTENING BLOCKADE.

The United States Can Act Where England Cannot.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Danish liner Oscar II., which was to have left this port on Saturday for Copenhagen with 600 passengers and probably as large a cargo as she could carry, is being detained here by order of the United States authorities, who have refused to grant export license and permit to load bunker coal, although her Captain is nursing in his pocket British Letters of Assurance, granting him free passage through the blockade.

This piece of news may convey little to the mind of the casual observer. By those, however, who, like myself, have stood by and watched the huge steamers of that company pouring foodstuffs by the hundreds of thousand of tons into the free harbor of Copenhagen, and being forwarded directly to Germany, this action on the part of the American Government is looked upon as significant of a change in the blockade policy of the Allies and as one of the preliminary steps to the more drastic measure to which, sooner or later, President Wilson will have to resort if we expect to "eliminate completely American foodstuffs from the German diet"—the closing up of the North Sea.

It is the opinion of a popular magazine writer who has just returned from a trip for observation in neutral countries. "So long as America was a neutral country," writes Isaac Marcosson, "the blockade was a thorn in Great Britain's side and could not be effectual. Now that we are lined up in the great war, the chief obstacle to a complete tieup of the North Sea is removed. It is only by this means that food and supply smuggling into Germany can be stopped for good."

It is the first time that a neutral ship is detained at an American port under such conditions; it is a sign that the Government commandeering of all neutral vessels in port is fast becoming a probability; it is a timely warning to those money-grabbing neutrals that the "game is up" and that no more food will be allowed to be imported by them for the sole purpose of reselling it to Germany at a profit that would make the biggest Wall Street plunger green with envy.

De Forenede Dampskibselskab of Copenhagen, to which the Oscar II. belongs, has been instrumental in feeding Germany to a greater extent than any other shipping company. It owns a splendid fleet of fast steamers, averaging 10,000 tons each, the largest steamers plying between this port and Scandinavia. Their capacity was taxed to the utmost when, during the first year of the war, they carried to the free port of Copenhagen over 100,000,000 pounds of bacon and lard, 60,000,000 pounds of cocoa, 15,000,000 pounds of oleo oil, and 33,000,000 pounds of dried fruit. Before the war Denmark imported only, from all sources, 2,000,000 pounds of bacon and lard, 4,000,000 pounds of cocoa, 4,000,000 pounds of oleo oil, and 6,000,000 pounds of dried fruit. With such a ready customer as Germany at hand, it is not hard to imagine to whom these goods were finally destined.

Does England ignore these facts so that not only does she not interfere with this trade but even grants safe conducts across the sea to their ships and supplies their bunkers with her best Welsh coal? England knows the facts but cannot act with a strong hand. Captain Cold, the very able and cunning head of the company in Copenhagen, at the beginning of the war, so cleverly bound England by agreements with his firm that now, although conditions have changed, England is pledged to respect those agreements, her hands are tied, and whatever happens she must live up to her obligations.

Today, the mighty United States is at war with Germany, and is well determined to prevent its own people from feeding the Germans. Before a single pound of food is allowed to be shipped on board any of these ships, Captain Cold may well be asked to give a reply to this question: "Why have your steamers so completely enjoyed immunity from attacks on the part of German submarines?"

A RESIDENT OF TWO YEARS IN SCANDINAVIA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a strange anomaly for Mayor Mitchel to favor woman suffrage. Mayor Mitchel believes in good government and has given New York one of the best administrations in its history. No woman suffrage city in the country can compare with New York as to government, and Mayor Mitchel is not the type of man elected where women vote. Compare him with Mayor Thompson of Chicago, Mayor Gill of Seattle, Mayor Rolfe of San Francisco, or Mayor Moyer of East St. Louis, who all openly favor the forces of disorder and sedition in their respective cities. The New Yorkers who want a City Government like that of Chicago, San Francisco, Seattle, or East St. Louis will undoubtedly vote for woman suffrage.

THE ELDERLY PATRIOT.

What busy times are these for those
Who are alive and feel and know the truth!
It seems to me I have returned to youth—
The splendid things that youthful days disclose—
And how I scorn today the calm repose
That yesterday I praised—I well along
Life's middle way! The war has saved me nobly!
I was doomed! All thought me work-worn, under-strong,
And so made easy hours that, now, I see,
Would have been fatal. In the throes
Of patriot interest, how my soul awakes
To shame the flesh grown atrophied and numb!
Today the war note on my spirit breaks,
Finding strength rampant—age now overcome!

AMBULANCES FOR RUSSIA.

Red Cross Sends 125 to Equip One Army Corps.

An immediate shipment of 125 motor ambulances and automobiles to Russia as part of its program to give effective assistance to that country was announced yesterday by the Red Cross. This is the third Red Cross shipment since the departure of the commission of which Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago is the head to that country. Drugs, medical supplies, and surgical apparatus of a total value of $400,000 already have been sent.

The Red Cross announced that ambulances were needed by the Russian armies almost more than any other form of relief. On the eastern front only 6,000 vehicles to transport the wounded are in operation, while on the French front, only a third of its length, there are more than 75,000 ambulances. The ambulances and automobiles now being shipped will equip one Russian army corps with five complete ambulance sections.

"Each section," the Red Cross announcement set forth, "will include fifteen motor ambulances, one autobus for transporting slightly wounded, one kitchen trailer, and one dressing station car. In addition, each section will have two touring cars for the use of officers, three light delivery trucks, one repair car carrying necessary tools and extra parts, and one extra car for gasoline fuel."

CROPS RUINED BY FROST.

Corn and Garden Yields Hurt in the Northwest.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 10.—Light to killing frosts are reported from all parts of the State today, according to the statement from officials of the local Government Weather Bureau. In some sections in the northern part of the State the temperature was so low as to cause ice to form.

Persons well acquainted with crop conditions assert the corn in this section needed at least two and in some cases three weeks of rather war weather, and considerable damage may have been done.

In Southeastern Minnesota and Western Wisconsin it is reported that the frosts were so heavy as to seriously damage corn and totally destroy the garden crops.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Light frosts were reported today from several points in Western New York. Near East Aurora it reached the propotions of a "killing frost," and truck farms, especially tomato fields, suffered heavily. The Weather Bureau has issued warning of further frosts tonight. The lowest temperature recorded here last night was 41 degrees.

DELAY TRANSFER INQUIRY.

Companies Obtain Postponement with Ransom Ready to Go On.

The inquiry by the Public Service Commission into the applications of the surface railroad companies of Manhattan and Brooklyn for permission to charge 2 cents for transfers, which was postponed until yesterday, has been again postponed until Nov. 12. When the applications were filed with the commission in May the companies said that they were caused by "dire necessity."

When counsel for the companies asked yesterday for further delay, William L. Ransom, chief counsel for the commission, reported that the commission was ready now to go on with the inquiry and that it always had been ready to hear the companies try to prove their need for financial relief.

The electric railways of the State that are seeking permission from the up-State Public Service Commission to increase their rates of fare have issued a pamphlet to the public, in which they say:

"Not half of the up-State trolley companies in New York are earning even their fixed charges, and twice as many are failing to earn fixed charges."

URGES USE OF CORNMEAL.

Cheaper and More Nutritious Than Wheat, Says Hoover.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Cornmeal, even at the present high prices, is cheapest of nutritious foods, according to Herbert Hoover, who in a statement urged more general use of meal for making bread.

"There is twice as much nutritive value in a dollar's worth of cornmeal as in a dollar's worth of wheat bread at the present prices," said Mr. Hoover, "and corn must play a very important part in the conservation of wheat products. There are four bushels of corn raised in this country to every one of wheat, and corn meal is as good for food as is wheat."

Increased use of fish as a food also is urged. America's fish consumption, it is shown, is 18 pounds per capita annually, against 65 in England, 57 in Canada, 52 in Sweden, 44 in Norway, 39 in Denmark, and 37 in Portugal.

SITE FOR INDIAN MUSEUM.

Trustees Announce Gift Which Gives Them Control of Block.

Through a gift the Trustees of the Museum of the American Indian-Heye Foundation have obtained control of the triangular block on Washington Heights, bounded by 150th and 151st Streets, St. Nicholas Avenue, and St. Nicholas Place. There are only five parcels on the block. Last Spring the museum received as a gift from Archer M. Huntington the property at the junction of St. Nicholas Avenue and St. Nicholas Place, a three-story dwelling, and, with the transfer of the other four parcels, they now control a plot fronting 119.10 feet on St. Nicholas Place, 203.11 feet on St. Nicholas Avenue, 9 feet on 150th Street, and 52.10 feet on 151st Street. The site is admirably placed for a museum, having light on all sides, but no definite plans for its disposition have been made as yet by the Trustees.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In THE TIMES of yesterday you published a courteous editorial article expressing the fear that my candidacy for District Attorney would tend to the re-election of Mr. Swann. May I point out to you my reasons for thinking your belief unfounded?

You say "the Fusion line will be held solidly together" and that "there will be a very strong tendency among the supporters of Fusion to vote the ticket throughout." If this is true then I shall take few votes from Mr. Ransom and your fear is groundless. Frankly, however, I do not agree with this view, though I still do not think my running will help Mr. Swann. For the first time in a city election the new form of ballot will be used and each voter will be obliged to mark his individual choice, irrespective of the head of the ticket. I do not think that there are many men so stupid as to argue that, because they believe Mitchel or Hylan will be a good Mayor, therefore Ransom or Swann will be a good District Attorney. I believe that there are about as many intelligent voters in the one party as in the other, and that these voters will be glad of a chance to take the District Attorney's office out of politics.

Tammany Hall no longer represents the Democratic or any other political party. Under its present fatuous leadership it is nothing but a money-making machine for a small group of men, who have come to look upon it as their private property, without regard to the welfare of the organization or the wishes of the rank and file. Many members of the organization know this to be true and, while they might vote for Mr. Swann in preference to a machine Republican, I am sure they will welcome the opportunity to vote for any man they believe honest and competent, if he is independent as well.

For years those of us who really believe in government by the people have been fighting to procure an election law which would give the people who think for themselves a chance to express their preference at the polls, and I feel that we now have such a law and that my candidacy will give it a fair test. It is not consistent to urge the passage of a law designed to give the independent candidate an equal chance with the machine candidate and then to advise the first man who seeks to avail himself of this law not to do so. J. E. CORRIGAN.

RED CROSS TAKES NAVY LEAGUE WORK

H. P. Davison Accepts Proposal Made by Secretary Daniels to Aid Sailors.

NO MENTION OF FEUD

Policy of President Wilson Quoted as Authorization for Elimination of Old Organization.

The American Red Cross, acting upon the suggestion of Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, announced yesterday the formation of naval auxiliaries to be identified with Red Cross chapters throughout the country in the collection of relief supplies for the men in the navy. The work to be performed by the naval auxiliaries will be similar to that performed by the Navy League, which recently angered Secretary Daniels by charging that an explosion at Mare Island had not been properly investigated, and whose officers and representatives are still barred from warships and naval reservations, notwithstanding the charge was later withdrawn.

Although neither Secretary Daniels's letter to the Red Cross nor H. P. Davison's reply, announcing the formation of the naval auxiliaries, referred to the controversy, it was taken for granted last night that the extension of the work of the Red Cross indicated that Secretary Daniels was determined not to resume friendly relations with the Navy League.

In announcing the establishment of the naval auxiliaries, Mr. Davison said that E. T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia had been named Chairman of the new department, and that an advisory committee of women would be named by Mr. Daniels this week.

Daniels Appeals to Red Cross.

Mr. Daniels, in his letter to the Red Cross asking it to assume direction of the collection of supplies for the navy, said that the co-operation of the Red Cross was especially desired, owing to President Wilson's wish that all American war relief agencies be centralized under the Red Cross. This was his letter:

Dear Mr. Davison: For some months a large number of patriotic women of the country, animated by a desire to add to the comfort of the fine body of youths who have enlisted in the navy, have been sending useful gifts of their own make. Some of these good women have done this work through the Red Cross and others through different organizations. It has been suggested that it would be wise if the Red Cross, the only national relief organization having official recognition, be asked to extend its large sphere of usefulness by taking over entirely the direction of this laudable work of sending tokens of good will from willing workers to the men in the navy by creating a naval auxiliary of the Red Cross.

I am sure the country fully approves the statement of the President, that "recent experience has made it more clear than ever a multiplicity of relief agencies tends to bring about confusion, duplication, delay, and waste." In every European country volunteer aid has been rendered "under a well organized central body." The Red Cross is the body to which the whole country looks. To its appeals the people are ready to respond generously because, as President Wilson recently said: "With its catholicity and its democracy the Red Cross is broad enough to embrace all efforts for the relief of our soldiers and sailors, the care of their families, and for the assistance of any other noncombatants who may require aid." With this broad foundation, with a record of efficiency, I feel sure the workers of the country who are particularly interested in the men who wear the naval uniform will be glad if the Red Cross will increase its benefactions by this natural and proper addition to its noble service.

If your organization can do this, the Navy Department and the navy in all its units and the one hundred million Americans who are proud of their navy will give cordial aid and hearty co-operation. Trusting that this suggestion will meet your favorable consideration, I am sincerely yours,

JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

Mr. Davison Accepts Charge.

In response to Secretary Daniels Mr. Davison sent the following letter outlining plans for the naval auxiliaries:

My Dear Mr. Secretary: Your favor of the 1st inst., in which you express the hope that we can favorably consider that the Red Cross extend its present organization for the purpose of creating naval auxiliaries to bend their efforts particularly to navy work, duly received.

The Red Cross, as you know, makes no distinction between the navy and the army in its work, our entire facilities being alike at the present time at the disposal of both branches of our Government. We have given your letter a great deal of thought, desiring to carry out your wishes in every way possible, and the following plan suggests itself to us as the most practical for accomplishing the results indicated in your letter as desired by the Navy Department.

In all communities where Red Cross chapters are organized, ladies who desire to work especially for the navy shall be invited to organize and become an auxiliary of the Red Cross under the following conditions:

1. The name of such auxiliary shall be in each community the —— Naval Auxiliary of the American Red Cross.
2. In each community the Naval Auxiliary shall affiliate with the present local organized unit of the Red Cross and shall report to and be responsible to the Executive Committee of the chapter of the Red Cross or the branch, as the case may be.
3. Naval Auxiliary may maintain separate headquarters, or it may combine with the headquarters of the local Red Cross work in any manner that may be determined upon by the Chairman of the Naval Auxiliary in question and the Executive Committee of the chapter or the branch under whose jurisdiction it is.
4. The rules governing naval auxiliaries shall be the same as the rules governing the present Red Cross auxiliaries.

The name of the auxiliary shall be descriptive of its membership and affiliation, and shall not be that of a person.

The purpose of the auxiliary shall be to carry out one or more specific lines of Red Cross work, as prescribed in the certificate of organization.

The auxiliary must have at least ten members. All officers and members of committees shall be members of the American National Red Cross and of the chapter or branch within whose jurisdiction the auxiliary is located.

The auxiliary may be affiliated with the branch to which it is tributary or may be placed directly under the jurisdiction of the chapter.

What Red Cross chapters and branches shall do for naval auxiliaries:

(a) Transmit to them information and instructions received from the Central Committee through the division offices.
(b) Keep them supplied with literature, blank forms, and other equipment necessary for their work.
(c) Assist them in obtaining raw materials for supplies.
(d) Establish a uniform system of accounting and records.
(f) Give them full credit for work accomplished when reporting to the Central Committee.

The Advisory Committee of women particularly interested in naval affairs, nominated by you, would no doubt be helpful and would be welcome to us.

Kindly advise if this method of procedure would, in a manner satisfactory to you, meet the situation you have in mind. It is needless for me to repeat that the Red Cross wishes to render any service within its power desired by the Department of the Navy. Yours very truly,

H. P. DAVISON,
Chairman War Council.

Mr. Davison also announced the appointment of C. D. Stimson, President of the Stimson Mills and the C. D. Stimson Company, as manager of the Northwestern Division of the Red Cross. Mr. Stimson will have supervision of Washington, Oregon, and Idaho, with a membership of 84,529, and will serve without salary throughout the war.

LIFE ON A TRANSPORT AS A PRIVATE SEES IT

ENLISTED MEN'S HARDSHIPS

They May Not Smoke After Dark and Must Cheer Boxers Pianissimo—Play Cards Only for Love.

By a New York Times Volunteer.

SOMEWHERE IN EUROPE, Aug. 28.—This is a real account of life aboard an American transport. It is all very well for the accredited correspondents, who cross de luxe, to send back a cheery message to the effect that, except for a few cases of mumps, a pleasant time was had by all, but if you want to know what transport life is really like you must ask a private who has lived it in the bowels of a converted liner, meditated upon it in the long, tranquil hours of midnight sentry duty, and jotted it down in his optimistic, freshly acquired diary between exercise and boat drill, between mess and boat drill, between inoculation and boat drill. Here, then, are some brief notes of life aboard a nameless American transport which set sail from an American port some time in August to cross a certain widely known ocean.

We foregathered from the four quarters of the United States, meeting for the first time at the pier, as, weighted down under our equipment, harnessed in our blanket rolls, and staggering under our bulging barrack bags, we toiled slowly up the formidable gangways. We all looked pretty much alike that day, and it was not until we had put out to sea, and the swarming hive had settled down under the subduing pressure of strict military discipline, that any one of us could realize what an extraordinary miscellany of men had come aboard.

Those lean fellows lounging there at the base of the rigging are unmistakably cowboys, and probably from Oklahoma; standing against the rail beside them, a student of Matisse is talking with a weather-beaten trainer of prizefighters; the actor who enchanted New York with his brilliant and fastidious performance of the Daffodil in "The Yellow Jacket" is now, with equal skill, charging along the promenade deck, leading a small squad armed with brooms to clean out the gutter. That man washing his mess tin in some no longer useful dishwater is smoking a Union League Club cigarette in his own right and bestowing one, apparently, on an ex-elevator boy of his acquaintance. 'Way forward on the forecastle deck, their heads silhouetted against the twilit sky, a group of Princeton boys are singing "Forward March" much as they sang it last Fall in the Palmer Stadium back home. There are some men reading in what is left of the afternoon sunlight. One has a small copy of "Fluent French Phrases," or some such treatise, by which he is invading for the first time the mysteries of "je suis, tu es and il est." Next to him a man is poring over the last issue of "Breezy Stories," and the man beyond is deep in Browning's "The Ring and the Book." You never can tell. And when the lights go down and the hush falls on the ship they break into little groups, to whisper of this or that, to talk of the American League, or theosophy, or Frances White, or any subject under the sun except the war. That they leave to those who are on the outside looking in.

They have all weathered the voyage well, philosophically setting down the limitations on their comforts to the exigencies of a great country in a still greater hurry. Some grumbling there is, to be sure, but it is a little like the grumbling of boys at boarding school, when, for the seventh successive day, it is prunes again for breakfast.

No Smoking After Sundown.

Of course there have been bitter hardships. It is a bitter hardship, for instance, to have to stop smoking at sundown, but it would never do to have a thousand or so of cigarette tips glowing away until the dim gray transport took on the air of a golden galleon. It is a bitter hardship, also, for some to go merely as members of an impromptu jazz band to the dances where the officers and nurses foot it featly in the main saloon. But, greatest privation of all, you are sternly forbidden aboard a transport to yell excessively at the hushed boxing matches between the engineers and a hospital corps, say. You may not join in the leathern-lunged cries by which one naturally expresses one's emotions in such an hour. You are not allowed to roar out, "Paste him wan in the puss"—or, at least, not too many of you at once. You may not even say "Attaboy" in chorus. It is very hard.

The officers, non-commissioned officers, (some of them,) and the nurses take up the first and second cabins. The troops are packed below in quarters that accommodate about 150 each, dim lit dormitories that vaguely recall at night the opium den scene in "The Man Who Came Back," the men sleeping in tiers of three except for those sufficiently alert to take up their shelter-halfs, ponchos, blankets and life-preservers and stake out an early claim for six feet each of deck space. After sundown the decks are literally carpeted with men in olive drab, those sleeping forward on the forecastle deck being prudent enough to lash their shoe laces to the iron work lest they roll off in the dark of the moon and be forever ranked as deserters.

Sunrise Bath Under the Hose.

On deck, too, the men spread out for mess unless the day be rainy, supplementing the regular fare with such delicacies as they can find at the canteens aboard or as they may have smuggled on, deep down in their barrack bags. On deck, also, the men bathe. At least in one transport they bathe on deck, emerging at chill sunrise to dance uneasily in front of a streaming hose wielded by a deckhand, whose rich reward for his trouble is the pleasure of filling with salt water the occasional shoes left carelessly within his reach. Sometimes you may see an entire battery being drenched at one moment; it is like a much multiplied picture of the old swimming hole.

There is a good deal of work aboard a transport. The various detachments have their organizations to perfect en route, and in the quondam smoking-room of happier days there can now be heard the click of many typewriters. Then there is the big business of keeping the troops fed and of keeping them and the ship herself clean. There is plenty of work to do, between boat-drills and inoculations.

But it is not all work. There are amusements aplenty—mostly cards. There are some rather frenzied games of craps and banker-and-broker, accompanied by bent heads, groans, curses and heathenish incantations. Or, rather, there were such games, until word of them went aloft, and there came down an ominous order forbidding all gambling of any kind. Then there are rubbers of bridge, played with the understanding that the winners will dine some time at the expense of the losers at some boulevard café somewhere in France. There are tournaments, too, of bridge and pinochle, leading toward prizes offered by the commanding officer. It is no easy thing, by the way, to play cards with the deck as a table when the wind is taking such an interest in the game that it is madness to let a card out of your hand for a moment. Just when you have bid no trumps, you are likely suddenly to lose three aces and an unguarded king.

Then there are entertainments worked up for the hour before sunset. A group of volunteer vocalists is likely to assemble any evening in the forward spar deck and burst into song. Last night it may have been a minstrel show given by the two hospital units. The night before it was a vaudeville bill with every artist a graduate nurse—a triumphant success, by the way, with gum drops and cigarettes thoughtfully provided for the sentries who could not come. For those who could come there was, among other things, one hilarious number that burlesqued the officers at morning exercise.

Every Group Has Its Mascot.

There should be a paragraph, too, about the pets, for every group has its mascot. There are some amiable bulldogs in sight at times, a wisp of a gray kitten and an absurd morsel of a puppy—variously known as Liberty and Gumdrop—who have added much to the gayety of the village by learning to walk for the first time on a rolling deck. But best of all, some of us think, is Hardware, the mascot of a certain base hospital, which was smuggled aboard by the simple device of drugging her mildly and carrying her on asleep in a haversack. When the Saratoga was rammed—for some of those aboard had originally set sail on that luckless old craft—the French cook, who had kept a fatherly eye on Hardware in camp, went calmly to the depths of the ship to rescue "le petit chien de bonne augure." Hardware appears to have enjoyed her second voyage, and yet there must have been times when the military life palled somewhat, for there are two charges of attempted suicide against her. Each time she plunged from her bunk, only to dangle gasping by her chain until the French cook, pausing in the midst of his shaving or in the midst of a song by Massenet, would rush forward crying: "Mon Dieu! mon Dieu! il faut garder la morale."

So it goes—between boat-drills. Of these there are many, and they come so often that, when the day arrives to don life-preservers and keep them on for the rest of the voyage, the familiar signal brings every man to his post in a few moments. Those who are assigned to rafts rather than to lifeboats are allowed to make themselves grotesque and bulky in the celebrated life-saving suits. When, in the early hour before sunrise, a procession of these strangely-clad, heavy-footed beings appears in the ghostly half-light, it resembles nothing in the world quite so much as the entrance of the gods in "The Gods of the Mountain."

Sister Transports Near at Hand.

And from our post by boat or raft, though the tension may have been visibly increased by the alarms of those with a keen sense of rumor, we can look comfortably across the little patch of water to the nearest transport. It seems like a friend, so close at hand. It seems no further away than the distance of the Knickerbocker from the Times Building back home, although, in reality, you cannot distinguish the faces of the men on her decks. But it is near enough to make these voyages unlike any that Americans have known before. For there is nothing lonesome about them.

It is a great thing to come up on deck in the early morning and watch the sister ships of the little gray, slow-moving armada emerge "in gradual beauty and significance" as the light comes out of the east. And it is a still greater thing one day to watch, from amid the jostling, jubilant throng on the forecastle deck, the first appearance far ahead of us of the fleet destroyers come to welcome us and guard us all the rest of the way.

MISSOURI DEMOCRATS AGAINST SENATORS

Active Party Man Calls a Convention to Ask Stone and Reed to Resign Their Posts.

Special to The New York Times.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 10.—The move to force United States Senators William J. Stone and James A. Reed to resign has taken definite form in Dunklin County.

Thomas R. R. Ely, former State Senator and an active Democrat of Southeastern Missouri, has issued a call for a convention of Democrats to be held at Kennett Saturday to condemn the course pursued by Senators Stone and Reed and ask their resignations. Notice of this was received here by Democratic officials today by wire.

For several days Governor Gardner has been urged by many Democrats to call a State gathering to condemn Stone and Reed, but he has so far declined, and bases his action upon the ground that both Senators were elected by the people, and if they have gone contrary to the wishes of the people, it is for the people to act.

A., was appraised yesterday at $421,223, the bulk of which was in securities, valued at $413,515. Mrs. Winslow, who was the legatee under her husband's will, gave $216,775 to her husband's namesake and nephew, Edward Francis Winslow. She left $12,000 in cash and valuable personal effects to her companion, Louise Pache, and a life interest in $25,000 to her niece, Laura W. Barerre. Pictures and valuable furniture were given to the Holy Trinity Church in Paris for use in its rectory.

TAKES UP BIG DEALS OF LAND COMPANY

COLER OPPOSED PURCHASE

Former Controller Says Municipality Once Refused to Buy for Half What It Paid Later.

District Attorney Swann began yesterday to investigate large financial transactions of the Neponsit Realty Company, which occurred shortly before the Neponsit company sold to the city in 1913 the 248 acres of Seaside Park at what was said to be a high profit to the Neponsit company, in which ex-Senator W. H. Reynolds owned an interest.

Records obtained by the District Attorney's office showed that the Neponsit company issued bonds for $900,000, three-fourths of which were purchased by the Realty Associates. The rest it was said were purchased by Remsen Johnson, President of the Neponsit company.

Officials of the Neponsit company have explained that this money was raised, after it had been settled that the city was to buy the 248 acres, in order to improve the property retained by the Neponsit company adjoining the land sold to the city. The District Attorney's office, however, will examine the books of the Neponsit company to establish in detail the use to which this money was put.

Another investigation which will be started today is to discover whether there were any further sudden changes in tax assessment rates for the holdings which the Neponsit company retained after the sale of Seaside Park to the city. Records have been obtained which show that tidewater land which the Neponsit company wanted to purchase from the State dropped in value nearly 50 per cent. on the assessment records immediately before the transaction and that the property which the Neponsit company wanted to sell to the city increased 1,000 per cent. in four years, in the estimation of Queens County tax officials. The records now will be examined to ascertain whether assessment figures shrunk after the sale of the park and lightened the tax of the Neponsit company on the property which they retained.

Ex-Controller Bird S. Coler testified yesterday that the city in 1909 had refused the offer of 400 acres of the Seaside property for $1,000,000, or $2,500 an acre, which was less than half the price per acre paid by the city four years later. He said also that at an earlier date the property had been offered to the city at $600 an acre, but the city had refused it. Mr. Coler said that while he was Controller he had opposed the purchase because of a flaw in the title. He said that the United States Government claimed the land and that the Federal land laws seemed to support the Government contention. He said that George W. Wickersham, when he was United States Attorney General, had given it as his opinion that the land belonged to the United States.

An authoritative explanation of this matter was made to the District Attorney's office yesterday. The history of the United States Government's claim was that the United States had objected and asserted title when the Neponsit company attempted to eject a number of Government life-savers from the property. The company, however, agreed to cede seventeen acres for Government purposes. This was accepted by the Government in a compromise agreement, which is understood to have quenched the Government's claim to the remainder of the property.

Joseph Cassidy, the "Curly Boss," who recently spent a term in Sing Sing for selling a judicial nomination, will be called before the Grand Jury on Wednesday. In 1904, when he was Borough President of Queens, he became active in urging the purchase of Seaside Park by the city. He will be asked to tell the history of the original negotiations which fell through.

WILL URGE COURTS TO STOP SEDITION

Movement Planned to Induce Magistrates to Deal Severely With Soap-Box Orators.

Assistant District Attorney Minton, who is aiding the Grand Jury in its investigation of the seditious and treasonable utterances of certain soap-box orators, yesterday invited Chief Magistrate McAdoo and Cleveland Moffett, a writer who has been instrumental in breaking up several meetings where the speakers attacked Great Britain and the Conscription act, to confer with him today relative to a more vigorous prosecution of offenders in the future. It is not unlikely that both men will be asked to appear before the Grand Jury and give the members the benefit of their knowledge.

While Mr. Minton would not discuss the subject, it is understood that an effort will be made to induce the Magistrates throughout the city to deal more severely than heretofore with seditious speakers. From a list furnished by Deputy Police Commissioner Leon Godley, containing the names of all those arrested for alleged derogatory remarks since the severance of relations with Germany, it appears that a few Magistrates have been lenient in dealing with offenders, ferquently discharging them. In many instances, where the defendant was found guilty sentence was suspended. Some of the cases cited in Commissioner Godley's list are as follows:

June 6—A. Tubin arrested, charged with urging young men not to join the army. Discharged by Magistrate Fuchs.

June 8—Thomas Wright arrested at Madison Avenue and Twenty-third Street. Alleged that he advised audience to take the same measures against the United States as the people of Russia did against the Czar. Discharged by Magistrate Marsh.

June 18—Robert Spector arrested at Madison Avenue and 106th Street on a charge that he referred to soldiers as "dirty bums." Suspended sentence by Magistrate Fuchs.

July 6—Thomas Hazlewood, arrested on a charge of using disrespectful language in referring to the United States. Discharged by Magistrate Marsh.

July 9—Mrs. Agnes Bohan arrested on a charge of urging young men to resist conscription. Discharged by Magistrate Groehl.

Aug. 17—Frank Klumb arrested an a charge of using abusive and vile language in referring to soldiers. Discharged by Magistrate Cobb.

Assistant District Attorney Minton pointed out that the fact that these offenders either were discharged or received suspended sentences was no reflection on the Magistrate who heard the cases.

"We have plenty of laws on the statute books under which to act," Mr. Minton said. "If the Magistrates will only be more severe we will soon put persons who malign our President and attack our institutions and laws where they belong."

Judge McIntyre of General Sessions, who requested the members of the Grand Jury to take up the investigation, also intimated yesterday that the Grand Jury probably would file a presentment urging the City Magistrates to endeavor to work more harmoniously with the Police Department and District Attorney's office in suppressing street corner orators who make seditious remarks.

FINANCES OF RUSSIA DECLARED SOUND

By HAROLD WILLIAMS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, Sept. 7.—The fall in the rate of the ruble, the decline in production, the steady rise in prices throughout Russia, and the enormous output of paper money have induced in many quarters an extremely pessimistic view of the present financial position of Russia.

In respect to the purely financial position, such pessimism is not justified. The Russian Ministry of Finance is developing a businesslike policy, and is obtaining the co-operation and advice of the ablest financial experts in the country without regard to party ties. M. Nekrasoff is now Minister of Finance, but as much of his time is necessarily devoted to general politics, a great deal of responsibility falls on his assistant, Professor Bernadski, the well-known economist. From Nekrasoff and Bernadski I have received the following statement of their views on the present financial position of Russia:

The first point noted is the satisfactory character of the revenue returns. The income tax, for instance, which only recently has been introduced, is coming in far better than could reasonably have been expected, considering the present extraordinary circumstances.

The number of taxpayers is increasing and the amount of the returns is steadily swelling, so far without any necessity for the application of stern compulsory measures. The same may be said of the revenue from the industrial and war profits taxation.

These facts indicate that despite the perturbed political situation the financial apparatus of the country is retaining its vigor. Direct taxation is supplemented by increased taxes on such articles as tobacco. Steps are being taken to declare Government monopolies for trade in sugar and other articles of mass consumption. The proposals have been approved by financial experts and met with general approbation at the Moscow convention. Certain hardships in present incidence of taxation will be eliminated by technical emendations in the laws, and there is every reason to believe that Russia, now free and sober, will bear the increased burden without flinching.

The huge war expenditure obviously cannot be met by direct taxation, and Russia, like other countries, is compelled to have recourse to loans. Nekrasoff and Bernadski fully recognize the generous support accorded to Russia by her allies, and at the same time point out that the Russian money market has proved itself able to absorb an absolutely unprecedented amount of internal loans. This fact alone constitutes good ground for the expectation that Russian exchange will recover with much greater rapidity than is generally expected.

The Liberty loan issued by the Provisional Government met with a satisfactory response. The amount already taken up is $1,730,000,000, a sum exceeding the total Russian budget before the war. Subscriptions to the Liberty loan are still coming in. It is true the loan has been financed to a certain extent by the banks, but the amount of private subscriptions is very large.

The bulk of internal indebtedness incurred owing to the war consists of short Treasury bonds discounted by the State Bank in the open market. The issue of these bonds has led to a considerable increase in the issue of paper money, amounting up till now to $750,000,000. This figure, if compared with the issue of paper money in some other countries, should not arouse undue anxiety, as to the future of the ruble, and the ruble note is a debenture secured by the enormous natural resources of Russia, a country covering one-seventh of the globe, with a population of 170,000,000.

The high prices are to be explained not so much by the large issue of paper money as by the exceptional scarcity of goods and by the defective organization of distribution. The heavy fall in imports and the temporary decrease in output have created a situation in which there is very little to buy and much money to buy it with. Under such conditions prices naturally go up. It is to be hoped, however, that increase in production in the near future will check this rise.

The unfavorable foreign exchange proves very little beyond the fact that this country cannot export its produce. The great fall in the export of grain, timber, &c., cannot be made good by the export of foreign securities, owing to the fact that hitherto Russia has not invested abroad. The prices that have been paid for foreign currency have been chiefly determined by the scarcity of that currency.

The unfavorable tendency of foreign exchange has brought about the usual result high prices always induce, to pay fancy prices for everything. That is the motto of the modern millionaire. Why not, therefore, fancy prices for currency? It is to be regretted that many business men, panic-stricken by internal struggles and temporary lack of order, have joined in this rush for foreign currency. The rise in prices has again brought in fresh buyers.

The fact is that what has happened recently with foreign currency is just what will probably happen with the Russian ruble in the near future. When the rate of the ruble rises there will be a rush to buy rubles. That faith in the ruble still exists is shown by foreign subscriptions to the liberty loan.

The financial position of Russia, declared Nekrasoff and Bernadski, in conclusion, is very far from being alarming. It is serious, as is the case in every country engaged in the world war, but there is every prospect that before long the Russian democracy will restore order in its own country, and a splendid economic development will reward Russia and her friends for all their sufferings.

TRADE WITH RUSSIA GROWS.

Exports Jump from $31,000,000 in 1914 to $558,584,000 in 1917.

In a review of Russia's international trade given out yesterday by the National City Bank it was shown that although American exports have increased enormously during the war period, entries here of Russian products have been at a minimum. The figures showed that notwithstanding the rapid growth of American trade with Russia prior to the war, this country supplied less than 10 per cent. of her imports, and took but about 1 per cent. of her exports.

Of Russian exports in 1913, aggregating $760,000,000, over one-third went to Germany, and of her imports of that year, aggregating $687,000,000, practically one-half were drawn from Germany. Great Britain ranked next to Germany as a market for Russian merchandise and as a source of her imports, while the Netherlands held third rank in Russia's export and China third rank in the countries supplying Russian import requirements. According to the bank's compilation, the United States ranked fourth in the countries from which Russian imports were drawn in 1913, and fourteenth in the list of countries to which the exports were sent. Russian official figures showed that merchandise from the United States formed 9 per cent. of the former empire's imports in 1911, 8 per cent. in 1912, and 6 per cent. in 1913.

The total exports from the United States to Russia have grown from $10,000,000 in the fiscal year 1900 to $18,000,000 in 1910, $23,000,000 in 1912, $26,000,000 in 1913, and $31,000,000 in the fiscal year 1914, all of which preceded the beginning of the war. In 1915 the exports to Russia jumped to $61,000,000, in 1916 to $310,000,000, and in the fiscal year 1917 ended June 30, $558,584,000. This increase since 1914, while largely war material, included also railway supplies and material, automobiles, metal working machinery, leather, copper, steel rails, railway cars, wire, and miscellaneous manufactures of iron and steel.

The imports from Russia since the beginning of the war have fallen to an extremely low point, having been in 1913, $29,000,000, in 1914 $23,320,000, in 1915 $3,394,000, in 1916, $5,917,000, and in 1917 $9,484,000.

Calfskins imported from Russia alone amounted in 1913 to $10,000,000 in value, cattle hides over $4,000,000, horse hides $2,000,000, sheepskins and goatskins each about $1,500,000, carpet wool $3,500,000, flax and hemp $1,000,000, India rubber refuse for remanufacture over $500,000, licorice root nearly a like sum, and fusel oil and glycerine about $250,000 each.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The importation of apples into the Commonwealth of Australia is prohibited without the written consent of the Minister of State for Trade and Customs.

The eighth annual convention of the American Manufacturers' Export Association will be held at the Hotel Biltmore on Oct. 10. At that time officers and two Directors will be elected, the latter to serve for three years. Three sessions, one in the evening, will be held.

A cablegram received by the Department of Commerce from the American Consul General at London says that from yesterday on no American butter may be sold at more than 206s. per hundredweight of 112 pounds. At retail butter must not be sold at more than 2½d. above cost, plus halfpenny for giving credit or delivery. From Sept. 15 meat may be sold at retail only at such prices as assure that aggregate prices for a fortnight's sales do not exceed actual cost by more than 20 per cent., or by 12½d. per pound, whichever shall be less.

Burlaps Getting Very Scarce.

Active buying in this market of late has intensified the scarcity of burlaps here, particularly the heavier goods. Especially scarce are 10-ounce, 40-inch goods, the nominal price for which was 15¼ cents yesterday. Sales were made in a pretty fair way on 10-ounce burlaps of the same width, the price being 14¾ cents. Business also was done on 8-ounce 40s at 10¾ cents, and at the close some holders were asking as high as 10.90 for them. For 7½-ounce, 40-inch cloths the quotation was around 10.75 to 10.80 cents. No business has yet been done at that figure, however, so far as could be learned. No great change was reported in conditions existing in the leading primary markets.

Brings the "Movies" to Furs.

Cleopatra's galley slaves and members of Caesar's legions will appear in new roles next month at the sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, which begins on Oct. 15, when they will lay aside their oars or swords, as the case may be, and assume the duties of call men. Call men are the persons who attend the buyers at the sales, being a kind of cross between a private secretary and a general factotum. For the coming sale they will be recruited, as was the case at the last one, from the "movie" supers who haunt the studios in this vicinity from day to day in the hope of getting into the "fillums." At the last sale these men filled their parts so well that it has been decided to give the idea a return booking.

Gray Goods Demand Was Fair.

Buyers showed more than a passing interest in offerings in the local gray goods market yesterday, but some stretch of imagination would be required to say that trading was active. Heavy goods came in for more attention than has been the case of late, large sales of 2.75-yard drills having been made for delivery in the next sixty days at 15¾ cents. Business also was done on four-yard 48 square and 56-60 sheetings and, while the prices were not given out, it is understood that they were below the recent high figures paid for these goods. Among the features of the printcloths were the attempts of buyers to get out 38½-inch 64-60s at less than 9 cents for delivery in the first half of 1918. Buyers also were trying to get nearby contracts of these goods at 9 cents and, while there was said to be some doubt if first hands actually had sold them at that price, it was further said that a firm bid might bring the goods out. Attempts to get 39-inch 68-72s under the figures asked by the mills also were seen during the day. Closing mill spot prices were:

39-inch, 68-72s	10¾	38½-inch, 60-52s	8⅝c
39-inch, 56-44s	7⅛	[illegible]-inch, 60-48s	8⅛
38½-inch, 64-64s	9⅝	[illegible]-inch, 64-60s	7c

They Still Hesitate.

According to a number of women's suit manufacturers, retail buyers are still considerably in doubt as to just what they want. The smaller retailers are said to feel that prices and styles are not such as to warrant their making any large commitments just now, though a majority of the larger retail merchants are buying in most cases just as they always have—carefully, but liberally. However, it is felt that within a very short time this hesitancy must give way to action of some sort, or the Fall season will find many of the retailers with no merchandise to offer their trade. Warning is also given that those who hang back too long will find the manufacturer unable to promise satisfactory delivery.

PROSPECTIVE RAILROAD "MELONS"

The recent "melon" cut by the C., B. & Q. R.R. gives timely interest to the question of what other roads have prospects of paying large extra dividends out of their accumulated surplus earnings.

Our Statistical Department has discussed this matter in a special treatise, which will be sent to investors on request.

"He Buys Only Listed Bonds"—

is the frequent report of bond salesmen who have approached an investor with an offer of an unlisted security. And yet there is probably no matter of interest to bond buyers that is the subject of greater misapprehension than that of listed bonds—

Let us send you our free booklet T-400 describing this interesting subject.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Move Irregularly, but Reflect Better Feeling—Fewer Steel Orders.

The stock market yesterday indulged in the familiar reaction after a week of declines and showed numerous gains throughout the list. Most of the industrial issues were strong, the railroads but little changed and public utilities weak. The improvement in the money position, as evidenced in the recovery in the surplus reserves, helped to give a better tone to trading and call money loaned freely at 4½ per cent., after opening at 6.

With the turn in prices activity fell away and the day's business was only moderate. A good deal of interest was aroused by a delayed confirmation of the report circulated some days ago that the United States Government had contracted for the delivery of 75,000,000 pounds of copper at 25 cents a pound. American Smelting, Anaconda, Chino, Kennecott and Utah all profited by the news, but transactions were not greatly stimulated by it. It is not certain that this price, made to apply in a particular case, will prove to be the price to be paid for metal bought for this Government and the Allies, but the Street was inclined to believe that the final figure will be close to that announced yesterday. The iron and steel shares were generally stronger. American Car and Foundry sold up 2⅛ points, Bethlehem 3¼, Gulf States 2 and Steel Common ½. A hint of the unfavorable bearing which the high cost of coal and oil is having upon the gas companies was seen in a drop of 6 points in Brooklyn Union and of 3½ in Consolidated Gas.

The bond market continues heavy and inactive, except for the Liberty 3½s and municipals, for both of which there has been a very good demand in anticipation of the October 1 tax payments. The Liberty Bonds on active dealings yesterday almost reached par, a block of $50,000 selling at 99.98 and $548,000 at 99.96. An interesting measure of the extent to which standard corporation issues have declined is furnished by the present position of the average price of forty important issues. This stood at the close yesterday at 81.42, which is exactly the lowest price made in 1914 shortly after the reopening of the Exchange, and the lowest price on record.

The United States Steel Corporation's monthly figures of unfilled tonnage showed orders on hand Aug. 31 of 10,407,000, with a decrease of 437,000 tons as compared with the total on hand July 31. This is the fourth successive decline from the record total of 12,183,000 tons shown at the close of April. The falling off is natural in the light of the waiting attitude which business has adhered to pending a settlement of the Government's price and the provision for war requirements. A year ago the unfilled orders totaled 9,960,000 tons, but the capacity of the mills has so increased that the present unfilled business on the books is not greatly in excess of what the trade considers a normal volume.

LONDON MARKET SUBDUED.

Foreign Exchange Is Unsettled by Latest Political News.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Foreign exchange was unsettled today by the latest political news, rubles depreciating to 300. Swedish exchange was easy and nominal, but inquiries indicated an easy feeling among traders.

The stock market was subdued under the weekend news. Although there was no weakness in British securities, there were few buying orders, except for Australian bonds. Russian bonds were weak on the latest developments and Argentine rails were easy. Rubber and oil stocks were steady, while American securities were dull throughout.

Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet.

Prices Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 62f. 40c. for cash. Exchange on London, 27f. 18c. Five per cent. loan, 88f. 5c.

International Nickel Stock Listed.

The Governor of the Stock Exchange, at a special meeting yesterday placed on the trading list $38,112,900 common and $5,802,400 preferred stock of the International Nickel Company. Last week the voting trust which had formerly held the Nickel shares, and had its certificates listed on the Exchange, expired. The Governors called a meeting hastily at 9:30 o'clock to list the stock, otherwise International Nickel would technically have been off the board when the market opened.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Why Do They Fall?

Whether or not it is simply the lack of buying power in the market, the fact has been frequently demonstrated of late that it is a poor time to sell stocks usually listed in the "gilt-edged" class. General Electric's 6¼-point drop last Saturday and its two-point recession yesterday came when reports from official sources were to the effect that business was excellent. The decline of Consolidated Gas to a level close to par and of Brooklyn Union Gas to 99 may have some explanation in rising costs, but at the same time the ease with which they sold off indicated an extraordinary weakness. Liggett & Myers, a high-priced tobacco issue, recorded a fall of 21¼ points in a sale of 100 shares, bringing the quotation closer in line with American Tobacco than it had been in many weeks. It is in the melting down of such shares that the speculative community, at least that part favoring the bull side, finds much concern. Traders find it difficult to decide to their satisfaction whether important economic factors are forcing the declines or whether the public is temporarily indifferent to what would be considered bargain offerings in normal periods.

Call Money Up to 6 Per Cent.

Call money rates, which closed last week at 4 per cent., advanced to 6 per cent. yesterday. The renewal rate, however, was 4½, and, although some loans were made at 4, the final quotation was 6 per cent. On the first business day of last week, which was Tuesday, the call loan rate was 6. Last week the stiffening of rates was ascribed to the poor showing of the bank statement, but Saturday's report indicated a considerable improvement, surplus reserves having increased from $12,300,000 to $87,000,000. It was said that some of the banks had been obliged to call loans by reason of the heavy demands made upon them by out-of-town correspondents. The Clearing House sheet indicated a credit balance of $52,612,000 in favor of the Federal Reserve Bank, which suggested that the movement of banking credits was from New York to Western and Southern points. Subscriptions to the $300,000,000 Treasury 3½ per cent. certificates of indebtedness must be in the hands of the Reserve Banks today, but payments are not due until next Monday. Some of the interior banks, in anticipation of the payments, have evidently already begun to draw on their balances with New York City banks.

British Treasury Bills.

J. P. Morgan & Co., who have been selling $15,000,000 of British Treasury bills every week, fixed yesterday the rate for the ninety-day bills to be offered this week. It will be 5¼ per cent., the same that has applied for the three previous lots. Applications for approximately $2,000,000 of the bills were received in the mails yesterday, and the bankers have not determined whether the full quota of $15,000,000 will be disposed of during the current week. The bankers are not pressing the sale, but have the bills on hand, and are ready to fill any orders that may be received. With the stiffening of money rates it is to be expected that the demand will not be as great as has existed in the last three weeks, but it is not unlikely that in the event rates are maintained at the present level next week's bills will be offered at a slightly higher discount.

New Low Record for Rubles.

There was a further decline in Russian exchange yesterday, and rubles sold at a new low record, namely, 15½ cents, compared with a normal parity of 51½ cents. The depreciation now amounts to nearly 70 per cent. Just a fortnight ago rubles sold at 20 cents, and a week ago the price was 17.40. The decline in Russian exchange has been attributed to disturbing news from Petrograd. Russian Government internal 5½ per cent. bonds dropped 9 points, selling at $160 per 1,000 rubles, while the external 5½s were quoted at $68 and the 6½s at $78.

Liberty Bonds Higher.

United States Government 3½ per cent. Liberty Loan bonds were traded in quite heavily on the Stock Exchange yesterday, the total transactions amounting to $2,612,500, or about two-thirds of the total for the day's sales. The bonds sold up to 99.98, the highest level reached this month, and the closing figure was 99.94, an advance of 4 points over Saturday's final figure. In investment house circles it was suggested that the buying represented purchases by persons of large income who planned to increase their holdings of the 3½s instead of making large investments in the new 4 per cent. bonds, which will be subject to the Federal income supertax, while the bonds of the First Liberty Loan are entirely tax exempt.

Shipbuilding and Ship Chartering.

The news—apparently authentic, although unofficial—that the American International Corporation has signed another of the huge contracts which the Emergency Fleet Corporation is placing for shipyards and merchant ships, adds point to the increasing number of demands from shipping men that the United States Shipping Board make some definite announcement of its policy in the management of its new ships after they are built. The recent announcement of the formation of a chartering committee by the board was hailed in the shipping trade as presaging the approach of the settlement of this vitally important question, but since then new hitches appear to have developed, and shipping men are as much in the dark as ever.

Sugar and the Food Administration.

The news that Herbert C. Hoover is having difficulties with American beet sugar manufacturers, after it had been generally understood a complete agreement had been reached, will come as a shock not only to sugar men, but also to the grain men, who long ago surrendered to the Food Administrator horse, foot, and guns. The difficulty does not appear to be so much over the price as over the reluctance of the manufacturers to place themselves unreservedly in Mr. Hoover's hands without an express promise from him in return that he will protect them. The difference between their position and that of the grain men is that the sugar men continually have their eyes on their Cuban competitors, who are not, so far at least, amenable to Mr. Hoover's benevolent sway. That, apparently, underlies their reluctance to fall in line as the grain men did.

LEAD IN WORK FOR LOAN.

National Banks of Country Handled 56 Per Cent. of Subscriptions.

Of the $3,035,000,000 of subscriptions received to the first Liberty Loan $1,700,000,000, or 56 per cent., were made by or through the national banks of the country, according to a statement just issued by the Controller of the Currency. Of the $2,000,000,000 of bonds allotted to subscribers $1,088,000,000, or 54 per cent., were made to those whose subscriptions were filed through the national banks.

The $1,088,000,000 of subscriptions were distributed thus: country banks, $465,000,000; banks in reserve cities, $353,000,000, and banks in the central reserve cities of New York, Chicago, and St. Louis, $270,000,000. The total amount of bonds subscribed for by national banks for investment for their own account was $338,000,000, of which the national banks in the three cities mentioned took $100,000,000.

The Controller reports that the amount of bonds held by the banks is relatively small, for the total on July 23, one month after the allotments were made, was about $88,000,000. Since then the holdings have been reduced considerably.

STEEL BOOKINGS DECLINE.

The Steel Corporation's bookings of unfilled orders declined 437,115 tons in August, from the total reported as of July 31. The monthly statement issued yesterday showed that forward business aggregated 10,407,049 tons on Aug. 31, which was the smallest total since Oct. 31 last, when orders were 10,015,260 tons. The shrinkage reflected in large part the cautious attitude of buyers, who have been holding off from the market until a line could be secured on the price-fixing program at Washington. It is understood also that production during August was not on so high a scale as in July, owing to the shutdown of some of the plants for repairs and to labor shortage. The falling off in bookings was about as large as had been expected in trade circles.

The high-water mark of the corporation's contracts was reached on April 30, when 12,183,083 tons were reported. Current orders would supply the mills with more than seven months' work at full capacity.

GOVERNORS ISLAND, N. Y. H.—Sealed proposals, in triplicate, for furnishing fresh beef and fresh mutton required at Army Posts and Camps in Eastern Department during the period from October 1 to December 31, 1917, will be received here until 11 A. $20,000,000 COPPER BOUGHT BY ALLIES

PRICE WILL BE 25 CENTS

Copper Stocks Are Bid Up in Lively Manner After News of Transaction Becomes Known.

The first demonstration of the Government's work as the buyer of copper for the allied nations of Europe became public yesterday in information that an order for 77,600,000 pounds of the metal had been placed at 25 cents a pound. As far as could be learned all of the copper was for the account of England, France and others of the Entente, and the price did not indicate specifically that it would also be paid for the Government's own metal. A letter sent out by one of the large selling agencies to producing companies said that the sale was "f. o. b. New York, Government terms of payment."

This transaction, involving close to $20,000,000, is understood to be the first of a series to be made for the European Allies under the supervision of the Council of National Defense. With the United States acting as sole buyer all danger of competitive bidding by the foreign consumers will be eliminated and the price will thus be held stable, even if the price-regulating program should not directly involve copper for the European Governments.

The producers have said that they would be satisfied with a quotation of 25 cents a pound and it is hoped in copper refining and mining circles that this would be the price allowed by the Federal authorities for supplies for the United States Government. The order is to be apportioned out among the various producers. It was reported in the financial district that the arrangements for the big contract were completed some time ago, and presumably was handled by Bernard M. Baruch and his assistant in metal buying, Eugene Meyer, Jr.

The copper stocks were bid upward in lively fashion after news of the transaction became known yesterday, Anaconda, Utah, Kennecott and other leading shares gaining a point or more. An added factor in improving sentiment toward this group of stocks was a rumor that local members of the sub-committee on copper of the National Defense Council would meet in Washington today to discuss the price situation. An announcement in respect to the Government's price for both copper and steel is awaited daily.

TO AID MONEY MARKET IN NEW LOAN FINANCING

Leading Bankers Seek Daily Reports on Transactions With Out-of-Town Institutions.

With the object of facilitating the financing of the next Government loan so as to avoid unnecessary disturbance to the money market, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee of this district, has decided to obtain daily reports from the banks and trust companies indicating the amount of balances carried by out-of-town institutions, the amount of call loans outstanding, the amount of securities eligible for rediscount or as collateral for loans at the Reserve Bank; and the amount of securities held which are available as collateral security for Government deposits. It is expected that with this information before it the Reserve Bank will be in a better position to handle the huge financial operations connected with the Government loan and will be able so to arrange its transactions as to steady the money market.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, in requesting the information from the banks, says that the plans had been developed by the bank in co-operation with the Liberty Loan Committee and that the following committee had been appointed for the purpose of dealing with the matter: George F. Baker, Chairman of the First National Bank; Walter E. Frew, President of the Corn Exchange Bank; Gates W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank; Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank; James N. Wallace, President of the Central Trust Company, and Governor Strong. Following is the data that the banks and trust companies are asked to supply daily:

FIRST—Toltal amount of balances carried with the reporting institutions by banks, trust companies, and savings banks outside of the City of New York.

SECOND—Total amount of strictly call loans carried by the reporting institutions for the account of out-of-town banks, bankers, firms, and corporations.

THIRD—Total amount of strictly call loans carried by each reporting bank for its own account. (Call loans specified in 2 and 3 to be classified as strictly call loans should generally be those made to brokers and security dealers, payment of which may be required on the day called, in accordance with Stock Exchange practice, or on at least not more than three days' notice.)

FOURTH—The amount of the following classes of securities which are eligible either for discount or as collateral for loans at the Federal Reserve Banks:

(a) Unpledged obligations of the United States Government.

(b) Municipal warrants,

(c) Commercial paper,

(d) Acceptances owned by the reporting banks.

FIFTH—The amount (market value) of securities owned by the reporting bank in addition to and not included in those reported under No. 4, and which may be accepted by the Federal Reserve Bank as collateral to secure Government deposits as prescribed by Treasury Department circular No. 81 and by subsequent rulings of the department modifying the same.

The letter requesting the information is accompanied by a statement giving a description of the securities eligible for discount or as collateral at the Federal Reserve Bank and a description of securities acceptable as collateral for Government deposits.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

The wheat market was featureless, with prices fixed on the basis of $2.20 for No. 1 Northern wheat in Chicago, which is equivalent to $2.[illegible]0 in New York for the same grade and $2.27 for No. 2 red and No. 2 hard. Wheat is moving very slowly on the Government basis, in the East at least, and Eastern mills are finding difficulty in procuring wheat to grind. The visible supply increased 645,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 428,000 last year.

RYE.—Market firmer; No. 2 Western, $1.95, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

Another crop scare occurred in the corn market on Monday, and prices advanced 4 points to 4⅞c, closing near the top. The cash situation was strong for old corn, and the visible supply showed a decrease of 345,000 bushels, compared with a decrease of 189,000 bushels last year. The markets abroad were strong, owing to light supplies and small exports from shipping countries, but foreign buyers continue to show little or no interest in the domestic markets, and are apparently waiting for the new crop. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.32, and No. 2 mixed $2.28, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

The oats market was moderately active on covering prompted largely by the strength in corn, and final prices were ¾@1c net higher. On its own merits the market appeared to lack bullish features, receipts being quite liberal, and the visible showed an increase of 1,964,000 bushels, which, however, compares with an increase of 3,711,000 bushels last year. The local cash market was quiet. Standard quoted at 70c; No. 2 white, 71c; No. 3 white, 69@69½c; No. 4 white, 68½@69c; fancy clipped white, 72@74c; ordinary clipped white, 70@72c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

A further advance in the price of live hogs and the pronounced strength in corn exerted a bullish influence on the provision list and prices experienced a moderate advance. Buyers were inclined to be cautious, however, on the theory that prices are already high, and later the market lost most of the gain under selling prompted by the break in cotton oil. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 14,000; estimated for Tuesday, 8,000. Kansas City received 4,000 and Omaha 14,000.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was very feverish, with traders nervous. Early there was moderate upturn on the firmness in lard, but subsequently prices experienced a sharp drop, in some cases of from 30 to 40 points, under very heavy liquidation. The selling movement was precipitated by rumors that the Government will take control of the market through the food administration. This lacked confirmation, and the market regained part of the loss, but closed unsettled, with prices 19 to 22 points net lower. Total sales for the day were [illegible]2,200 bbls. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was some covering by near-month shorts in the coffee market yesterday, reflected in an advance of 7.49c for September, or about 9 points above Saturday's closing figure. Otherwise there was very little feature, and last prices were off from the best under realizing, with the market showing net gains of only 1 to 3 points. Sales were reported 27,750 bags, including a few exchanges. The local spot market was dull and nominally unchanged at 9c for Rio 7s and 10c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There was a little better inquiry for refined sugar, but the most of the business continues to be in form of withdrawals on old contract. Aside from a reduction of 10 points by Howell prices were unchanged, with the list still ranging from 8.40@8.50c for fine granulated. Raw sugar was nominally unchanged in an inactive market. Buyers and sellers are uncertain as to just what will be the plan of the committee to be appointed at Washington to control the sugar situation, and until something definite is known the market promises to be a waiting one. There was a sale of Cubas to a Canadian refiner, afloat position, at 5⅞c, cost and freight, but a moderate quantity of Cubas, available at the close at 6c, cost and freight, was not taken. Spot prices follow: Centrifugal, 7.02c; molasses, 6.14c, cost and freight, 6c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,471 packages. The market was quite firm on all grades of fresh creamery, with prices leaning in sellers' favor. Exchange sales included 900 tubs at 44@44¼c. EGGS.—Receipts yesterday, 10,036 cases. Fine to fancy qualities of fresh gathered were steady to firm, but there was a liberal accumulation of average good to medium grades moving slowly because held a little above selling values. Underpriced goods in good demand and slightly in sellers' favor, including high grades of dirties and checks, which are wanted beyond the supply. Storage eggs steady. Nearby whites firmer in the finest grades; defective stock is dragging at very irregular prices. THE COTTON MARKET

Early Rally Raises Prices About $2 a Bale—Net Advance Is 12 to 23 Points.

An early rally of about $2 a bale was followed by very irregular fluctuations in the cotton market yesterday. At one time during the morning the market showed considerable strength. After the big break of last week, reactionary sentiment was much in evidence, and such tendencies were stimulated by the more bullish average of crop and spot advices. The disturbances reported in the Caribbean Sea also inspired apprehensions of tropical storms such as frequently reach the belt at about this season of the year, and covering was active enough to send December contracts up to 20.37, or 40 points above Saturday's closing price. That delivery closed at 20.15 or about 22 points off from the best, with the general list closing steady at a net advance of 10 to 23 points.

The market opened steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 11 points and before the end of the morning sold 38 to 40 points net higher. The advance was then checked by realizing and scattered Southern selling, and the market later was very unsettled with trading less active after the covering movement had subsided. Liverpool both bought and sold here this morning, and there was buying during the early afternoon which was accompanied by reports that domestic spinners were willing to fix prices on considerable cotton around the 20-cent level. As a rule, however, local brokers attributed the bulk of the demand to covering and considered the advance chiefly a reflection of a stronger technical position after the recent severe declines.

Spot advices from the South were somewhat conflicting. Texas reports said there was a good demand to fill out September engagements. This was borne out to some extent by the spot sales reported at Houston, and some of the Eastern belt markets also reported a fair volume of business. The scattered Southern selling noted here on the advance, and whenever demand slackened, suggested that some holders were still turning their cotton loose, however, and the talk around the ring here suggested that sentiment was still of a bearish average on the ultimate effects of increasing available supplies. Heavy shedding was reported in Eastern belt sections and increased damage from boll weevil in central parts of the belt.

Exports for the day were 27,384 bales making 430,606 so far this season.

MANY SEEK TO SHIP GOLD.

Federal Reserve Bank Here Gets Request for Permits.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, to which application must be made for licenses to ship "coin, bullion and currency" out of the country, under President Wilson's so-called gold embargo proclamation, received yesterday a great many inquiries and requests for permits. It was said that various institutions had applied for licenses to export gold and silver, and that the destinations named were Spain, Japan, India and Canada. No action was taken on the applications because the rules and regulations governing exports specified in the proclamation did not reach the bank from Washington until late in the afternoon and because the applications were not made out in the precise form required by the Treasury Department. It is expected that the Reserve Bank will be in a position to furnish the necessary blanks to the banks either today or tomorrow.

Under the President's order those desiring to ship coin, bullion or currency are required to file applications in triplicate with the Federal Reserve Bank of its district. Before a license is granted by the Treasury Department, the application must have the approval of the Reserve Bank and of the Federal Reserve Board in Washington.

Bankers generally commented favorably upon the Government's plan to supervise and control gold exports, but called attention to the fact that the embargo proclamation would have to be administered with great care. It is assumed that where there exists a trade balance against the United States, the Reserve Board will sanction the shipment of gold, but that where the movement was the result of the depreciation of exchange rates on London, Paris, and Petrograd at neutral centres, the shipment of the metal would be prohibited.

The price of commercial bar silver advanced yesterday another cent, selling at 91⅝, a new high record for the present movement, and the highest quotation in twenty-seven years. In London, bar silver advanced ½d., to 49⅛d., also a new high record on the movement.

CREDITORS GET $4,340,000.

In accordance with a notice sent out on Aug. 27, the Mercantile Stores Corporation, through the Bankers Trust Company, as its fiscal agent, yesterday began to make an additional distribution on notes of the corporation given in settlement of the various receiverships growing out of the Claflin failure in June, 1914.

The Bankers Trust Company started in to distribute 21.8 per cent. on the face of Series No. 1 notes, and will likewise distribute 11 per cent. on the face of serial notes numbered from 2 to 24, inclusive.

Approximately 2,300 creditors will be affected by the distribution, which was said to aggregate close to $4,340,000. The sums now being paid creditors are in addition to $2,000,00 distributed in July.

HOLD BACK WHEAT FROM EAGER MILLS

Movement to Terminals Is Slow Despite Basic Price Fixed by Administration.

ALLOTMENT PLAN IN FORCE

New Division of the Grain Corporation Assumes Control—Price of Bread a Problem.

The agreement between the National Food Administration and the millers of the country went into effect yesterday, and every mill with an output exceeding 100 barrels a day became the customer of the Grain Corporation, of which Julius H. Barnes is the head, and hereafter will accept such an allotment of wheat as the corporation believes is warranted. The Grain Corporation has been in the market as a purchaser of wheat since early in the month, and, without any agreement, has been apportioning wheat to the millers. The system formally went into effect yesterday.

At the office of the Grain Corporation yesterday it was said that the movement of wheat was light. This means that the farmers still have to learn that the basic price of $2.20 a bushel at Chicago is to be the standard price for wheat in this country this year. It is believed by some that wheat is not flowing to the terminals as freely as it will when the producers realize that the day of speculation has passed. The officials of the Grain Corporation believe that within a few days the movement of grain will increase.

The wheat outlook is promising and crop reports give no anxiety, but the fact remains that with no wheat going to neutrals and with the Allies using the supply they have on hand the movement of wheat into the terminals is slow and the mills are eagerly absorbing every bushel of that. The millers' allotments are made on the basis of receipts at the elevators, and it is the work of the Grain Corporation so to apportion that supply that large and small mills will be kept at normal operation.

In order that there be effective cooperation between the millers of the United States and the Food Administration, a Milling Division has been organized, to act with the Grain Corporation in distributing wheat. This Milling Division is directed by a general committee, with James F. Bell as Chairman. His office is in New York. There are eight branches, each under a local Chairman, in the milling districts of the country. The agreement made operative yesterday provides, in part, as follows:

1. The miller hereby agrees that in purchasing wheat he shall observe and respect and be governed by all rules and regulations which said Food Administration Grain Corporation may from time to time enact and promulgate.

2. Said Food Administration Grain Corporation hereby expressly guarantees the miller against a loss by a decline in value on all accumulated surplus of unsold wheat bought in accordance with the Grain Corporation's regulations, and flour ground therefrom, in the event of a decline from the price at which said wheat was bought, which said guarantee shall be adjusted promptly after change of price. Said corporation further agrees to endeavor to maintain in available positions an adequate supply of suitable wheat to meet the milling demands of the miller at the general price level of wheat, as recommended by the Price Commission, with such adjustments by reason of freight, storage, insurance, interests, or other causes as shall be deemed necessary by the Grain Corporation, it being the intent of the Grain Corporation to make no profit on sales of wheat to the miller.

One of the problems that is now puzzling the Food Administration is how to make the baker give the consumer the benefit of the fall in the price of flour in consequence of Government price fixing. The bakers were not represented when wheat prices were fixed. The control of the Food Administrator begins when the wheat arrives at the terminals and ends when it leaves the mills to go into the bakeries of the country. Some bakers assert that because of labor costs and other expenses a 5-cent loaf is impossible at this time even if flour falls in price. The matter will probably be considered at the convention of the National Association of Master Bakers at Chicago on Sept. 17.

URGES CHEAPER BREAD.

Master Bakers' Leader Asks Them to Forget Profits.

An appeal to bakers to forget profits and lower the price of bread, was made yesterday at Terrace Garden at the convention of the New York State Association of Master Bakers by Maximillian Strasser, Honorary President of the organization. Mr. Strasser said that the time had now come for the manufacturing and retail bakers to show their loyalty by meeting the public demand for cheaper bread.

"These are serious times," he said, "and the bakers of New York and elsewhere are confronted with conditions out of the ordinary. The people clamor for cheaper bread and it is up to the manufacturing and retail bakers to listen to their demands. If we bakers can give them what they ask, we will be doing a service to the Government as well as to the consumers.

"Let us forget the profits we have been making on bread and be content with the profits we may make on pies, doughnuts and other pastry. It is possible that in the past some of us have been selfish, and it is time for us to show that we are willing to do our bit.

"One of our committee has just returned from Washington after having had a conference with the men who are in charge of food prices. We are as anxious to bring about peace as are the thousands of young men who have enlisted in our armies, and as business men we should be willing to help by taking a stand for cheaper bread. The days of bargaining are over for the present. We must not consider how we may reduce the size of our loaves but how we can supply this staple commodity at prices within the reach of all classes."

The Government control of food products ad general conditions in the baking business will be discussed at today's session. Dr. Ralph E. Lee will speak on the nutritive value of bread.

Chalmers Motor Stock Increased.

Stockholders of the Chalmers Motor Corporation, at a special meeting held yesterday, ratified the plan calling for an increase in the capital stock from $3,000,000, consisting of 600,000 shares, without par value, to $7,060,000, consisting of 532,000 shares, without par value, and 44,000 shares with a preference as to principal of $100 each and as to dividends of $8 a share per annum. The stockholders also approved the action of the Board of Directors in respect to leasing the company's plant to the Maxwell Motor Company for a period of five years and the issuance of $3,150,000 first mortgage 6 per cent. five-year gold notes.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Chicago Railways Company has filed a petition with the Illinois Public Utilities Commission, asking permission to issue additional $2,230,189 first 5 per cent. bonds to cover special improvements.

The Northern Ohio Traction & Light Company has filed application with the Ohio Public Utilities Commission for increases in electric power and interurban fare rates.

The Hyde Park State Bank of Chicago has been admitted to the Federal Reserve system.

By order of the Federal Reserve Board, the banks in the State of Wyoming are transferred to the Omaha branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Kansas City, as at the close of business Sept. 30, 1917.

Cambridge, Mass., has sold $71,000 4½ per cent. serial coupon bonds dated Sept. 1 to Edmunds Bros. at 100.68.

Stockholders of the Sherman National Bank, at their meeting yesterday approved of an increase in the capital stock of the bank from $300,000 to $500,000.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday the appointment of A. J. Ling as assistant cashier. W. M. St. John of the National Bank of Commerce and J. Wilson Jones of the Broadway Trust Company were appointed acting assistant cashiers. They are connected with the bond issue division of the bank.

The Bankers Trust Company is inviting offerings for the sale to it of two-year convertible 6 per cent. notes of the Marlin Arms Corporation, to exhaust the sum of $225,000 now in the sinking fund.

In order that its convention might not conflict with the next Liberty Loan campaign, the Investment Bankers' Association of America has set Nov. 12 as the date for the annual meeting, which will be held in Baltimore.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

United States Steel common sold on the Consolidated Stock Exchange as high as 109⅜. Its sales exceeded 22,000 shares. Anaconda Copper, and, in fact, the copper shares generally, were specially firm. So far as the general market was concerned, the improvement in the local bank position, as disclosed by last Saturday's bank statement, tended to help quotations. There were, however, some weak spots, particularly among the high priced investment issues.

CONGRESS ON SAFETY CALLS 3,000 VISITORS

Employers of Nation Will Discuss Means to Increase Efficiency in War.

EXHIBITION ALSO OPENED

In order to increase the war efficiency of the nation by reducing the rate of industrial casualties, more than 3,000 employers of labor, all delegates of the National Safety Council, assembled in New York yesterday for the largest safety congress ever held in this country. Simultaneous with the first session of the congress at the Hotel Astor, the National Safety Council, with the co-operation of the American Museum of Safety, opened yesterday the Fourth National Exposition of Safety and Sanitation at the Grand Central Palace, where safety device appliances of every description and character were placed on view.

Both the congress and exposition, which will continue for four days more, are intended to offer industrial promoters from all over the country an opportunity to come together and discuss ways and means of improving conditions whereby the industrial worker may be made more secure against injuries and accidents. The leaders of the council felt yesterday that the problem of safeguarding the life and limb of the worker was intensified at the present time by reason of the fact that the draft had withdrawn from industries several hundred thousand workers who would have to be replaced by men and women who were comparatively untrained in the safety principles, and who would therefore have to be taught how to protect themselves.

It was estimated, moreover, in the congress rooms at the Hotel Astor yesterday that 20,000 workmen were killed and 2,000,000 more painfully injured through industrial accidents in this country every year. These casualties cause a waste of approximately $600,000 per annum, which must be carried by manufacturers in America either directly or indirectly as additional cost of production.

L. R. Palmer, President of the National Safety Council, said that it is estimated that 70 per cent. of all industrial accident casualties were preventable, and that this figure will be increased materially as conditions were made safer.

Th efirst day's session of the congress was taken up entirely with special committee meetings. The formal opening of the confress takes place today, when President Palmer will make an annual address and the reports of various officers and committees will be received. It was stated yesterday that more than 100 papers on the use of various safety appliances would be read before the convention was over. Fully 3,600 concerns, employing a total of 4,000,000 workmen, were represented at the congress, it was estimated yesterday.

Executives of national repudiation, engineers, Government experts and students of industrial economics will speak at the convention, including William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor; Dr. Charles P. Steinmetz, M. A. Dow, Dr. John S. Bates of the Imperial Bunitions Board of Canada, and Ida M. Tarbell. Secretary Wilson will speak Wednesday morning. On the evening of the same day the council will hold a diner, when the speakers will be Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Job E. Hedges, and John Mitchell, Chairman of the New York State Industrial Commission.

At the Grand Central Palace yesterday the safety and sanitation exhibit attracted a throng of interested spectators. The whole ground floor of the building was occupied with the exhibits, including a complete Red Cross equipment, with a staff of nurses of the American Red Cross. Several dozen reels of film, showing the operation of safety devices and the danger incurred from neglecting them, will be presented every afternoon and evening while the exhibit is in progress.

OUR YEAR'S IMPORTS WERE $2,659,355,185

Europe for the First Time Drops to Second Place as Seller to United States.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The imports into the United States for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1917, aggregated $2,659,355,185, against $2,197,883,510 in 1916 and $1,893,925,657 in 1914, the previous high record year. For the first time Europe, which had held first place in selling goods to the United States, declined to second place, North America taking first place, according to a statement issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce.

In 1914 the imports from Europe were valued at $895,602,868, or 47¼ per cent. of the total, while the imports from North America were $427,399,354, or 22½ per cent. of the total. In 1916 imports from Europe were 28 per cent. of the total and those from North America 27 per cent. Of the total imports of $2,659,355,185 in 1917, $610,470,670, or 23 per cent., were from Europe, and $768,112,537, or 28¾ per cent., from North America. In 1917 the imports from Europe showed a decrease of $285,132,198 from the figures for 1914, and the imports from North America showed an increase of $338,713,183—a gain of 80 per cent. for North America against a loss of 32 per cent. for Europe.

Imports from South America and Asia in 1917 showed a gain of more than 100 per cent. over 1914, the increase from South America being 143 per cent. and from Asia 114 per cent. Imports from South America were $222,677,075 in 1914, $391,562,018 in 1916, and $542,212,820 in 1917. Imports from Asia were $286,952,486 in 1914, $437,181,464 in 1916, and $615,217,463 in 1917.

Of North American countries Canada showed the greatest gain in the 1917 imports as compared with those of 1914. The increase amounted to $160,000,000 and was due to large imports of wheat, copper, paper, boards, and wood pulp. Imports from Cuba gained $122,000,000, owing chiefly to the rise in the value of sugar, which increased from $98,394,782 in 1914 to $204,521,140 in 1917, although the quantity decreased from 4,926,606,243 to 4,669,079,398 pounds in the same period.

Imports from Argentina increased more than $100,000,000 in value, chiefly in wool and hides. Imports from Chile showed a large increase, from $25,750,000 in 1914 to $113,750,000 in 1917, a gain of 350 per cent., chiefly in nitrate of soda, copper, and tin. Imports from Brazil in 1917 showed a gain over 1914 of $31,000,000, principally in coffee, hides, rubber, and manganese.

Imports from China increased by more than $60,000,000, chiefly in hides, silk, and wool.

The Professional Elementary Teachers' Association, at its meeting tomorrow evening in the World Building, will take steps to prevent the adoption of a longer school day. It has forwarded briefs against the longer day to President Willcox, Secretary Palmer, the Board of Superintendents, and the Committee on Elementary Schools.

If the evening session at Hunter College, registration for which will begin on Sept. 27, follows the precedent set by the Hunter Summerd session its enrollment will be considerably larger than the enrollment last year. Increase in numbers is expected not only in the regular academic subjects, for which credit leading to an A. PRESIDENT HAS A DAY OF GOLF AND MOTORING

North Shore Residents Respect His Wish for Privacy, But Cheer as He Passes.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Sept. 10.—President Wilson, who is taking a brief cruise on the Presidential yacht Mayflower, had an ideal holiday today. The weather was clear, with a warm sun and a bracing breeze from the northwest, when the President and Mrs. Wilson came ashore here in a launch and joined Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House. Mr. Wilson brought his golf sticks, to try out the course of the Essex County Country Club at Manchester, and motored to the links.

Colonel House did not play golf, but the President had a round of nine holes with Randolph Tucker, the Colonel's son-in-law, and with Hugh Wallace, a friend of the House family.

After golf the President and Mrs. Wilson had luncheon at the House Summer home at Magnolia, and there the President met the newspaper correspondents. With Colonel House he smilingly consented to be photographed. Then, accompanied by his hosts and the usual guard of Secret Service men, he and Mrs. Wilson had a two hours' automobile outing along the North Shore. Going to Salem, the President was allowed to take his outing unhampered by crowds. The largest gathering to greet him was on his return from the afternoon automobile ride, when a few hundred fishermen and Summer residents waited at the wharf. They gave him a hearty cheer as he walked down the landing, and he responded with smiles and bows.

Army Officer's Wife Will Now Go on the Stage.

The fact that Major Orson Kilborn, U. S. A., son of Horace M. lKilborn, Vice President of the National City Bank, has been sued for a divorce by Mrs. Eloise Sherin Kilborn, and that Mrs. Kilborn is to appear in the New Century Theatre production became known yesterday when Mrs. Kilborn was notified while at rehearsal at the theatre that the referee had reported in her favor.

The action was brought in Westchester County, and was referred to Alvin S. Hall of Nyack. Major Kilborn denied the charges brought against him through his attorney, J. Campbell Thompson. Neither defendant's counsel nor John F. McCall, attorney for Mrs. Kilborn, would discuss the details yesterday. rMs. Kilborn, who is the daughter of Mrs. eGorge Taylor Moody, married the defendant at her mother's country place, The Hedges, Bound Brook, N. J., on uJne 9, 1915.

Major Kilborn, then a Columbia student, was corespondent in a suit for divorce brought in 1911 by Ernest H. Greene o fteh nUited States Tungsten Company against Mrs. Lattie J. Greene on the ground that Mrs. Greene was Kilborn's companion on a number of automobile trips.

DE PINNA

The social activities of a young lady, from 14 to 19 years, are of necessity limited, but whether for a matinee, concert or the most informal gatherings, De Pinna apparel reflects the simplicity of such a life.

Tailored clothes and tailored hats—but done with the most precise care—are alone accepted as correct for such young ladies.

De Pinna subscribes to this idea so fully that no other than the finest of tailored suits, coats, blouses, skirts and dresses and tailored hats have place here.

Misses' Tailored Coats in imported Scotch Tweeds, Llama Cloth, Knit Cloth, Bolivia and Suede Velours. Sizes 14 to 18 years. Prices $30. to $95.

Misses' Tailored Suits. Very much the same style of fabrics as are used in men's clothes and tailored as we tailor our young men's clothing—that is of itself enough to insure smartly tailored suits at De Pinna's. Sizes 14 to 18 years. Prices $35. to $85

Tailored Dresses—a highly specialized department of the De Pinna business is turned over exclusively to these dresses. 14 to 18 years. Prices $28. to $75.

Taking Up the Slack

Pierce-Arrow trucks are ready to do their share in speeding up American industry. Relieving the shortage of horses, doing work that no horses could do, taking over traffic delayed by freight congestion and embargoes, increasing hauling radius, Pierce-Arrow trucks have made it possible for many manufacturers to speed up operation, increase output and make deliveries.

Pierce-Arrow
Motor Trucks

for example: War orders compelled the Winchester Repeating Arms Company to build a factory on ground formerly used for coal storage. Pierce-Arrow trucks, hauling coal direct from docks to power house, 3½ miles, delivered 350 tons daily with unfailing regularity and at a considerable saving in haulage cost.

Such great commercial successes are built upon sound economies like those effected by Pierce-Arrow trucks. A smaller business should not deny itself the advantages on which big business thrives
